WILSON TO MAKE WAR SPEECH HERE IN DRIVE FOR LOAN

Address in Metropolitan Opera House Tomorrow Expected to be Another "Milestone."

HAS ALREADY PREPARED IT

THE EXERCISES SATURDAY

Services in Cathedral for Dead of Old 69th Regiment One of the Day's Events.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Announcement was made by Secretary McAdoo today that President Wilson will speak for the Liberty Loan in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City Friday night, when the campaign will be opened for raising New York's $1,800,000,000 of the $6,000,000,000 issue of bonds.

It is very probable that the President's speech, like the one which he delivered at Baltimore on April 6 last, the first anniversary of the American declaration of war against Germany, will be another milestone in this country's participation in the conflict. It is impossible, of course, to forecast what the President will say, but the occasion is considered opportune for him to set forth in even stronger reiteration the position of this Government in favor of carrying forward the war without stint or diversion until complete victory has been achieved.

Colonel E. M. House, the President's closest confidential adviser, has been in Washington this week, and on Monday spent much time at the White House. He is usually taken into the confidence of President Wilson on the eve of important State announcements or speeches dealing with the war aims of the nation.

The President's speech has already been prepared, and the drive for the Fourth Liberty Loan—the largest yet sought to be floated by the American Government—will furnish the President with the finest possible theme for the things he is expected to say.

There have been two other important public speeches delivered by the President this year. The first was at Baltimore, where he declared that he would use force without stint until victory is achieved. The second was his Fourth of July speech at Mount Vernon, in which he reiterated the principles for which this nation contends in the war, and pledged himself anew to the cause for which the Entente Allies are fighting.

The New York City meeting will be held under the auspices of the Liberty Loan Committee of the Second Federal Reserve District, of which Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, is Chairman, and will be presided over by him.

TO START LOAN DRIVE WITH DELUGE OF NOISE

Air Raid Whistles and Bells and Sirens to Break Loose Tomorrow Night.

About half an hour before the President begins his speech here for the Liberty Loan tomorrow night there will be more noise in this city than ever in its history, it is predicted, for the Police Department's 150 powerful whistles, klaxons and other sound-producers will blare forth in volume, proclaiming the beginning of the patriotic endeavor to borrow the money required by the Government to finance the war.

Chief among the sound-makers will be the ten police air-raid sirens, each of which is said to have the capacity to carry fifteen miles on a still night. The sirens are to be operated for five minutes; and then the 150 emergency noisemakers at the police station will hold forth, accompanied by whistles of steamboats and tugs, factory whistles, fire engine sirens, church bells, school bells and automobile horns.

Following the noise-making the police reserves and 15,000 volunteer workers will distribute through the city 1,500,000 placards bearing the Stars and Stripes.

The selling campaign proper will start on Saturday morning when the flags of the twenty-two allied nations will be unfurled along the "Avenue of the Allies"; that is, Fifth Avenue from Madison Square to Fifty-ninth Street. At 9 o'clock Mayor Hylan will hoist a flag

British Ship Losses by U-Boats in August Touch Low Mark

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Admiralty's monthly statement of shipping losses due to enemy action and marine risk shows that during the month of August total sinkings amounted to 327,676 gross tonnage, of which 176,401 was British and 151,275 allied and neutral, as compared with the adjusted figures for July of 323,772, and 182,524 and 141,248, respectively.

British losses from all causes during August were 10,887 tons higher than in June, which was the lowest month since the introduction of unrestricted submarine warfare.

It is officially pointed out that if the British losses from enemy action alone are considered, August was better than any month since September, 1916.

The tonnage of steamships of 500 gross tons and over entering and clearing United Kingdom ports, from and to ports overseas, during August was 8,158,639, as compared with 7,718,896 in July and 7,830,386 in June.

FORD DISAVOWS PARTY PLEDGES

Notifies Democratic Convention That He Will Not Be Bound by Its Deliberations

AND WILL NOT SPEND A CENT

Despite His Stand, a Platform Is Adopted Promising Complete Support to Candidacy.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25.—Making his first purely political utterance since becoming a candidate for the United States Senate, Henry Ford enlivened the proceedings of the Democratic State convention here today with a letter in which he informed the party leaders that, although nominally their candidate, he did not intend to be bound by any party considerations, Democratic or Republican.

"I hold myself free to support such measures, whatever their origin, as commend themselves to my judgment for the best interests of all the people," Mr. Ford wrote. He added that he had not spent a dollar to win the nomination at the August primaries and did not intend to spend a cent to win the election. Mr. Ford did not attend the convention.

Mr. Ford's letter was as follows:

Speaking on behalf of your committee, you state: "They are anxious for advice and instructions." I do not feel myself entitled or competent to give either, but your very kind letter affords me the opportunity to say two or three things to the committee and through them to the public. Things which in all good faith should be plainly spoken.

When your committee, some time last June, passed resolutions at Lansing urging the Republicans of Michigan to nominate Henry Ford for United States Senator and stating that the Democrats would indorse the selection and thus make the election nonpartisan, I was not consulted. I had no knowledge or hint of your proposed action, and when I learned of it I had no thought of consenting, but when soon afterwards President Wilson sent for me to come to the White House and requested that I accept a nomination, I took his words as practically a command from the leader of our whole country in this time of war, and consented to serve if elected.

And now, having been nominated on the Democratic ticket, it is only fair that the people who vote for me should understand explicitly that I am not a party man and do not accept this nomination with any specific obligation or pledge except to support President Wilson's war measures while he continues his present and past wise course in the conduct of the war, and that I do not bind myself to vote for any measure because it is labeled Democratic or Republican, but that I hold myself free to support such measures, whatever their origin, as commend themselves to my judgment for the best interests of all the people.

This war and the great upheaval it has brought about will bring forth at its conclusion an entirely new order of things—new questions and new issues. These must be dealt with, as they arrive, in the broadest and most liberal spirit for the good of all mankind.

One other thing: Not a dollar was expended by me or on my behalf, directly or indirectly, for the nomination. It is only just to the committee to say (I have not been asked to do so and I shall adhere to this policy) I

LEADERS IN TURN TRY TO REASSURE THE REICHSTAG

Hintze Says Germany Supported Austrian Peace Offer, Though Made at Bad Time.

AMERICA CALLED WAR MAD

WON'T DROP BREST TREATY

Vice Chancellor von Payer Positive on That Point—Hails Reconstruction in East.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 25.—Besides Chancellor von Hertling, other leaders of the German Government yesterday discussed the war situation before the Main Committee of the Reichstag.

Germany maintains her readiness for peace, despite repeated rejections of peace offers from the Central Powers, declared Admiral von Hintze, the German Foreign Secretary, in addressing the committee. Speaking on the recent Austrian peace proposal, Admiral von Hintze said that the German Government's attitude toward peace had been manifested to the whole world in repeated appeals.

"We maintain this appeal for peace, our readiness for peace," he continued, "despite the partly jeering, partly sneering rejections which we have experienced from our enemies. In this we are in full accord with our allies."

The Foreign Secretary said that, after the previous failures, it had appeared to the German Government that it should not take any further steps in this direction and that a moment when the nation's enemies were "suffering from war psychosis and the intoxication of victory was not a suitable time for new appeals for peace."

"The appeal, however, was made," the Secretary added.

Vice Chancellor von Payer, speaking before the committee, defended his Stuttgart speech, in which he declared the treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk must stand. The Vice Chancellor said it would be a mistake to abandon those treaties in so far as they regulate the relations between the signatories, but he added:

"If one day we are able to display so much insight, self-control, and unselfishness that we can, without injury to our interests, permit our enemies to collaborate in questions which only affect them indirectly, if at all, we can, after all, come to an understanding with those who, with us, are concerned whether we shall discuss on the basis of reciprocity these questions also with our enemies."

The Vice Chancellor's speech was almost entirely concerned with explanations about the Baltic provinces and the unsettled conditions prevailing there. He said it was not intended to allow Courland, Livonia, and Esthonia to continue as independent States. They must, and he believed they desired to be, combined into a single State, especially as partition based on ethnographical considerations was practically impossible. The treaties already made, he added, were merely preliminary; a definite conclusion was impossible until the Government of the new State had been formed.

Herr von Payer admitted that opinion regarding the form of the future government of the Baltic provinces was as divergent in Germany as in the provinces themselves and was a question for the future to decide.

With reference to the Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest treaties, he declared these must be upheld during the war, adding that to meddle with them while the war lasted would bring the Fatherland directly into danger. He also opposed the idea of submitting existing peace treaties to a world peace conference.

Admiral Von Hintze referred at length to the Entente operations in Russia and expressed the opinion that the southward advance of the Entente troops in the Murman region was not likely to penetrate much further, the climate and the condition of the ground not favoring such an advance. He asserted that the Bolshevist policy was not clear, because, although fighting the Entente, the Bolshevist leaders had not declared war.

Accusing the Entente of fomenting conspiracies against the Russian republic, Von Hintze said that these conspiracies, undertaken in collaboration by the Entente representatives and America, had been bloodily suppressed.

Canada's Net Losses in War Reach Total of 115,806

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—The net losses in the Overseas Military Forces of Canada in England and France up to Aug. 1 were 115,806 officers, noncommissioned officers, and men, it was announced today.

These figures include those killed in action or died of wounds, died of disease, missing, prisoners of war, discharged as medically unfit, discharged to take up other lines of war work, and those noncommissioned officers and men receiving commissions in the Imperial Army.

It does not take into account officers and other ranks wounded in action who have rejoined their units or are still fit for service overseas.

BRITISH STRIKE ENDED BY ARMY

THOMAS ASSAILS STRIKERS

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—With the arrival of troops to take charge of the railways in South Wales the engine drivers' strike against their unions collapsed today just as suddenly as it flared up.

The Government's announcement that troops would be used to maintain essential war service was promptly put into action. A number of regiments arrived at Cardiff, and troops were also dispatched to East London.

Much excitement was caused at Stratford when a body of Scots Guards with a number of officers arrived at the station in motor lorries. All the soldiers wore shrapnel helmets and carried full packs and rifles. Most of them had wound stripes and some wore decorations. They received a warm welcome from the crowds, mostly of women, congregated near the station, and very outspoken denunciations of the strikers were heard on all sides. The strikers themselves appeared greatly perturbed by the arrival of the military.

At 6 o'clock this evening, J. H. Thomas, M. P., telegraphed to railway men's headquarters in London from Cardiff that the strike had been settled, and all the men in South Wales were going back to work. It is understood that as men in other parts of the country only went out in sympathy with the Welsh railway men, the whole matter is now settled.

During the morning a conference was held at Cardiff between Mr. Thomas and the Council of the Railway Men's Union for the Cardiff area. A mass meeting of 3,000 Cardiff railway men then decided unanimously to return to work at once. A similar decision was reached at Newport. Mr. Thomas, addressing the meeting at Cardiff, said he used to be proud that he was Secretary of the largest union in the world and received a larger vote than any other officer, but he could say that no more.

"You have shattered all our prestige," he declared, "and all my influence. I am going to see this thing out and then I cease to be your General Secretary."

A great scene followed this announcement and a majority of the men present shouted disapproval of his decision. A vote of confidence in Mr. Thomas was taken later without any dissensions.

The spread of the railway strike from South Wales to London brought to a crisis the wave of strike fever that had manifested itself among many classes of workers since the Government conceded the demands of the London policemen. There was scant public sympathy with the engine drivers, as these rank with the highest paid among the railroad men.

The road principally affected outside of Wales was the Great Western, whose traffic throughout the day was completely disorganized. Normally about 120 trains leave Paddington, its London terminus, daily, but today only about twenty got away. Hundreds of soldiers and sailors on leave or returning to their duties were held up. Mails and luggage accumulated in ever-growing heaps and crowds of would-be passengers thronged the platforms.

Although only a small portion of the staff of the North London Railway struck, 60 per cent. of its entire passenger and freight traffic was held up. The Great Northern and Great Eastern railways were not affected. Had the strike been allowed to spread the question of food would have been an immediate problem.

In Wales, Swansea's food supply was

1,000 Prisoners, Many Machine Guns Taken in Operations of Tuesday.

GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED

FRENCH HOLD THEIR GAINS

Completely Check Attacks Near the Western End of the Chemin des Dames.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—British forces, by their capture this morning of the village of Selency, are only two miles west of St. Quentin.

Northwest of the city, near Fayet, three German counterattacks were repulsed this forenoon. The Germans suffered losses from the British rifle and machine-gun fire.

Many German dead lie in front of the British positions east of Epehy, [farther to the north on the same front,] where they fell in an unsuccessful surprise attack early this morning.

A strong raiding party entered a British post near Moeuvres [west of Cambrai] this morning, but was ejected by a counterattack.

German counterattacks and raids at several points on the front were repulsed last night.

One thousand prisoners and a large number of machine guns were captured by the British in yesterday's operations, most of them in the St. Quentin region.

Haig's Reports of Success.

Field Marshal Haig's night bulletin on today's fighting reads as follows:

There was sharp local fighting this morning in the neighborhood of Selency, which has been captured by us, together with several prisoners.

During the morning the enemy launched two counterattacks against our positions northwest of Fayet, both of which were broken up with losses by our rifle and machine gun fire. Later in the morning the enemy attacked a third time, and again was completely repulsed.

A surprise attack attempted by the enemy early this morning east of Epehy also was beaten off, and many German dead were left in front of our positions.

During the night we repulsed a hostile raiding party southeast of Inchy.

Early this morning a strong party of the enemy entered one of our posts in the neighborhood of Moeuvres, but was ejected by a counterattack.

Following is the text of the day bulletin:

Our troops made further progress yesterday evening and during the night in the neighborhood of Selency and Gricourt.

In the course of the day's operations the enemy made several counterattacks, two of which were delivered in great strength north of Gricourt. Both counterattacks were repulsed.

In one case two companies of the Second Battalion of the Royal Sussex Regiment met the attacking enemy with the bayonet, inflicting heavy casualties upon him and capturing a number of prisoners.

In the evening the enemy again attacked at Gricourt and at first made progress. An immediate counterattack by our troops completely restored the situation. We took forty prisoners.

A total of 1,000 risoners and a large number of machine guns were captured in our operations yesterday northwest of St. Quentin.

As the result of a successful minor operation carried out by us on Monday night we advanced our line slightly southeast of Inchy, (west of Cambrai.) During the same night hostile raids were repulsed east of Damicourt and north of Lens.

Another hostile raid west of Sauchy-Cauchy (south of Douai) succeeded in capturing one of our posts. A few members of the garrison are missing. Last night the enemy again attacked our posts in the neighborhood of Sauchy-Cauchy. He was repulsed.

We carried out a successful raid last night in the Wulverghem sector. A few prisoners were secured in the course of these encounters.

Germans Prepare to Withdraw Metz Civilians On Account of Our Long Range Bombardment

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 25.—"It is announced that, owing to the long-range bombardment of Metz and other places, preparations are being made for the expeditious evacuation of civilians and movable property from places within range of such guns when the evacuation becomes necessary," says a dispatch received here from Berlin.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, Sept. 25, (Associated Press.)—Airmen of both armies were active early today, and increased artillery action was noted along the lines of the old St. Mihiel sector. Bright skies have replaced the clouds and rain of recent days, and aerial observers were sent out by both the Americans and the Germans.

German fliers extended their operations in some cases many miles behind the lines, but sharp countering by the Americans gave them little opportunity for close observation or photographic work. Infantry patrols as well as aviation groups were active between the lines.

The artillery on both sides bombarded objectives behind the front lines, the gunners seeking the crossroads and troop formations far and near.

BRITISH NOW FIGHT IN FAMILIAR FIELDS

Approach to St. Quentin Recalls Tragic Days of the March Retreat.

FOE'S RESISTANCE COSTLY

He Has Lost Heavily in Stubborn Counterattacks Near Selency and Gricourt.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 25.—The British troops on the extreme right of the line, in touch with the French near St. Quentin, are still fighting on the outskirts of Pontruet and Gricourt, where the German rearguards have been defending their earthworks stubbornly with the usual machine gun fire. It still seems doubtful whether the enemy has been cleared out of the ruins of Pontruet, but it is not likely that he holds more than a few outposts and some sniping posts in that ground.

The fighting in that region, especially near Selency and Gricourt, has been severe, and the enemy has made several counterattacks in the last forty-eight hours. They were to his disadvantage, because they were repulsed and cost him a heavy price in men's lives. Two companies of the 2d Royal Sussex met the Germans with the bayonet and inflicted heavy losses. More than 1,000 prisoners have been taken, as well as many machine guns, trench mortars, and one field gun.

The French on the British right captured 500 men and made good progress about l'Epine de Dallon, although this morning I hear that they were held up for a time at Manchester Hill Redoubt.

I suppose these names do not mean very much to people who read them from afar, but out here they revive memories of the tragedy and heroism of not many months ago, although the whole aspect of the war has changed since then.

It was on the morning of March 21 that the enemy in enormous strength came through the fog and broke through on both sides of l'Epine de Dallon and Manchester Hill, driving forward between the Ulster Division and the Lancashire men of the Thirteenth Division. The British outpost line was held by a series of redoubts, including those I have just mentioned and the Racecourse Redoubt, held by the Inniskilling Fusiliers. Those places and others like them southwest of St. Quentin were quickly surrounded, but the British held out in them with heroic courage until they were utterly overpowered.

Where Manchesters Were Wiped Out.

Nothing could be nobler or more tragic than the last stand of the Sixteenth Manchesters in that Manchester Hill redoubt, where the French are now fighting, when the enemy was all around them. They held on here, serving their machine guns. By means of a buried cable they were able to get messages through for some time. The last words came from their commanding officer at about 3:20 in the afternoon, when he was slightly wounded. He spoke calmly, even cheerily, but said that they could not hold out much longer, as practically every man was hit, and the Germans were swarming around.

"The Manchesters will defend the

FOE HIDES HIS DISASTER

Ottoman People Told Retreat Is Being Conducted Successfully According to Plans.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—More than 40,000 prisoners and 265 guns have been taken by the British in their successful offensive in Palestine, it is officially announced this afternoon.

The British forces operating east of the Jordan apparently are in a favorable position to cut off the Turks retreating north along the Hedjaz railway. The British are now approaching Ammon, on that railway.

Arab forces are pressing the retiring enemy northward from Malan. (Malan is on the Hedjaz railway southeast of the Dead Sea. Ampan is 120 miles to the north.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25, via London.)—The retreat of the Turks in Palestine was still being carried out successfully Tuesday, according to the War Office communication issued today, the text of which follows:

Our movement continued yesterday in conformity with plans. The English follow us only step by step. There have been no important events.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A dispatch from Switzerland today says that Young Turk officials are making heavy deposits in Swiss banks, indicating their misgivings over the stability of affairs in Germany.

Germans at Haifa Welcome British.

BRITISH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN PALESTINE, Tuesday, Sept. 24, (Via Montreal, Sept. 25.)—A few hundred Turks left behind at Haifa resisted the British advance, taking advantage of the configuration of the ground, with a marsh on one side and Mount Carmel on the other, but were finally driven out.

The population gave the British a most enthusiastic reception, even German colonists participating in the welcome. These Germans are mostly quiet immigrants from Württemburg who came to Palestine on conscientious grounds. They complain bitterly of the Turkish executions and the lack of security. Their settlement was one of the most successful in Palestine.

Among the prisoners is a German Major who wanted to leave Haifa with other German troops on the day previous to the British entry into the town, but was compelled by the Turks to take part in the fighting. He spoke of the German mechanics working at Nazareth who might have escaped, but preferred to be taken prisoner rather than continue serving with the Turks.

Everything is orderly at Haifa. The administration was taken over without a hitch.

The disposal of the thousands of prisoners is a real problem. The number is constantly swelling and fugitives are coming in from everywhere to surrender. The booty is inestimable and includes a lorry filled with cases of Turkish Treasury notes, which is a

LAST OF BULGAR FRONT GONE

British and Greeks Now Marching to Invade Foe's Territory.

SERBIANS NEARING VELES

Allied and Enemy Forces in Race for Uskub, Whence a Railroad Runs to Sofia.

KRIVOLAK-ISHTIB ROAD CUT

Broken Bulgar-Teuton Forces Now Retreating on a Front 130 Miles Long.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Developments on the Macedonian front today point to further disasters for the Bulgarian armies, which, cut into a number of groups, are fleeing before the allied troops, and, east of the Vardar, are headed for Veles. The Serbians are within ten miles of this important base, on the Uskub-Saloniki Railroad, from which a branch line eastward connects it with Ishtib, on the Bregalnitsa River. Veles is only twenty-five miles southeast of Uskub, the principal railroad centre in Lower Serbia, with direct connection to Sofia, and it now seems to be a race for Uskub.

The Serbians, according to the latest news reaching London, have crossed the Vardar River northwest of Gradsko. They are also advancing along the Bregalnitsa River, which flows into the Vardar about four miles northwest of Gradsko, and has cut the main road from Krivolak to Ishtib.

Tonight's reports say that the Serbians have taken thirty guns in addition to those already reported.

The Bulgarians are now retreating on a total front estimated at about 130 miles, the 2d Bulgarian Army, under General Feodoroff, being in retreat before the British and Greeks on a front extending from the Vardar to the Struma. A British invasion of Bulgaria seems likely, and the Bulgarians are reported to be fortifying the old road from Fobrovo to Strumnitza, which the British cavalry is approaching.

Serbs Report Much Booty.

The latest Serbian official statement received here announces that along the Prilep-Gradsko road the Serbians have captured thirteen guns and a great number of ammunition wagons and other material. The communication reads:

The advance of the Serbian troops continues without any interruption on the left bank of the Vardar and north of the Prilep-Gradsko road. French troops have entered Prilep.

The retreating enemy is fighting rear guard actions and is falling back toward Veles.

On the other side of the Vardar we have taken war material. On the Prilep-Gradsko road we counted thirteen guns, a great number of ammunition wagons, field kitchens and other material and many head of cattle.

The Bulgarians have abandoned a hospital with 120 wounded. Several Rumanian soldiers have been set free from Bulgarian captivity.

Foe in Flight All Along the Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—An official French dispatch received today says that the allied advance is continuing in the Balkans, the number of prisoners being steadily swelled and vast quantities of material taken.

"The pursuit," said the dispatch, "continued over the whole front from Monastir to Beleu. Enemy columns, pursued by the advanced guards of the Allies, harassed by the cavalry, fired upon and bombed by allied aviators, are retreating in the greatest disorder toward Veles, Ishtib, and Strumnitza.

"On the left wing the allied forces coming out from the Monastir front are driving the enemy back on to the Albanian road. The French cavalry entered Prilep on the 23d. It took the town intact and seized an enormous amount of provisions. Further east the Franco-Serbian forces have passed the Prilep-Gradsko road and are threatening the Prilep-Veles road.

"In the centre, the Serbian troops which crossed the Vardar by several bridges, which were intact, between Demir Kapou and Gradsko, have established a large bridgehead north of the river. They occupy Enishoba, Karahodzala, Vonmashan, and Ibirli.

"On the right, the allied troops which are operating on both sides of the Vardar have reached Ovica, the line Petrovopard-Chimarli and Karal-Ihlar, on Lake Doiran.

"The number of prisoners is continually increasing. Everywhere important material, often intact, is being found. During the 22d a dozen cannon, including several heavy guns, were captured. At Krivolak the Serbians seized some new airplanes and motor cars as well as important stores of petrol and provisions."

French Meet Severe Resistance.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Stubborn resistance is being encountered by the allied army under General Franchet d'Esperey on the Bulgarian frontier beyond Demin Kapou Pass and Strumnitza station, where furious fighting is proceeding on the left bank of the River Vardar.

The Bulgarians are holding strong positions on the heights protecting their own frontier. This is the only place where they are offering much resistance.

With the expected fall of Veles, it is believed that the next objective of the allied army will be Uskub, in order to re-establish the Saloniki-Uskub Railway communication. From Uskub it will be easier to move into Bulgaria than by attempting to enter through the Strumnitza district, where the natural defenses are exceptionally strong.

Allied patrols have reached the Bulgarian frontier, and at several places have pentrated into Bulgarian territory, but no infantry is yet on Bulgarian soil. The artillery steadily is bombarding the mountain passes through which the Bulgarians are removing their heavy material under the protection of strong rear guards.

The Bulgarians in their retreat northward, says L'Echo de Paris, are not likely to be able to defend the famous Babuna Pass, southeast of Uskub, where the Serbians made a heroic resistance in November, 1915. The pass is near Veles, which is almost within reach of the advancing Serbians.

Italians Also Pushing On.

ROME, Sept. 25.—Italian troops in Western Macedonia are pressing northward vigorously and have occupied the heights north of Topolchani, midway between Monastir and Prilep, according to an official statement from the War Office today. The text of the statement reads:

In Macedonia Monday we continued to advance with our Allies, vigorously pursuing the Bulgarians, who retired in disorder.

WATCHED ALLIES PREPARE.

Bulgars, Deeming Positions Secure, Made No Effort to Interfere.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Preparations for the present great operations in Macedonia began in August, telegraphs the correspondent of the Petit Parisien on the Saloniki front. Various circumstances prevented General Franchet d'Esperey, the allied commander, from beginning his preparations earlier and quick work was imperative, for if the Summer heat lingers along the coast the Winter is often early and severe in the high mountain zones.

The sector chosen for the attack lacked communications except for goat paths which were impracticable for artillery. A road was laid out from Dojne to Pojar and Grevesta and Serbian engineers set to work vigorously long before the French troops, to whom had been assigned the task of piercing the Bulgarian line, were in position. The allied staff established quarters on the ground and tackled the enormous task of preparation.

The mountainous region from Dobro-Polje to Koziak is very wild and covered with low brush and dense forests interspersed with deep ravines, chasms, and precipices. The Bulgars thought themselves so safe from attack by reason of these natural difficulties that they did not attempt to interfere with the allied preliminary work and contented themselves merely with reinforcing their line, the more easily to hurl the Allies back. Little by little, as the road was built, guns were pushed up toward the front and huge ammunition dumps constructed. Heavy guns were hoisted into positions at an altitude of 6,000 feet. They were brought as far as possible by tractors, then hauled by horses and mules, and finally dragged into place by man power.

Soldiers of the signal detachments had to become alpinists to lay their telephone and telegraph lines in this chaos of rocks and trees. The Bulgarians watched all these efforts and failed even to shell the Allies occasionally. It must be added, however, continued the correspondent, that everything that could be hidden was camouflaged admirably.

It was only during the night preceding the attack that the assaulting troops were brought up. Promptly at 5 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 1 the artillery opened with such vigor as to surprise the Bulgarians, who were not aware that heavy guns were facing them. The brushwood was soon set afire, and long columns of yellowish smoke began to ascend from the hillsides, while the great valley resounded to the roar of the guns. The artillery preparation lasted all day. The Bulgarians tried to reply with 155s, but did little harm.

On Sept. 15, at 5 o'clock in the morning, the allied creeping barrage fire began, and the French Colonials went over the top. They rushed the enemy trenches with bomb and bayonet. Senegalese troops captured the first line and 600 demoralized prisoners in a few minutes. They took the second line except for one trench, which was crammed with machine guns. A company of Senegalese bombers attacked this trench in the rear, and it also fell.

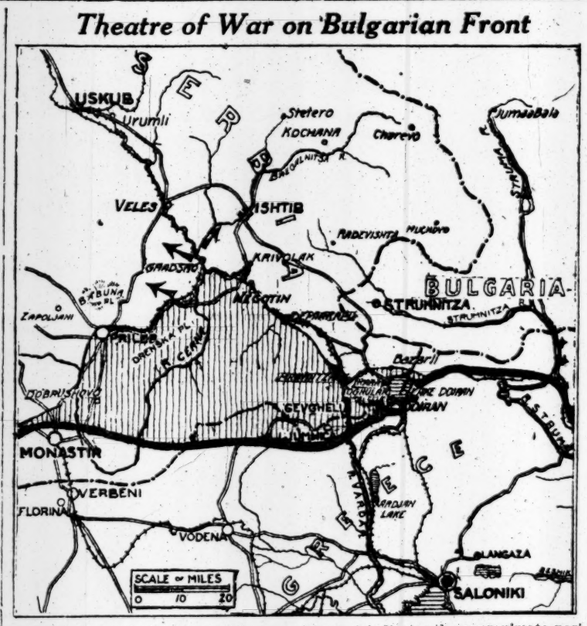
It was at 6:35 o'clock that the allied artillery swept the Krantza crest, stopping an enemy attempt to reform. In the centre the allied division had to wait while the division on the left engaged on the slopes of Sokol and in the marshes at the foot of Dobro-Polje, and badly hampered by the terrain, had completed the task set to it. On the extreme right the Serbs drove the enemy before them, and at 8 o'clock the principal positions were in allied hands. The only obstacle yet remaining was Krantza Peak.

The Bulgarians began to pull themselves together and offered stubborn resistance, and even attempted to hurl the Allies back over their original line, but allied reinforcements were thrown in quickly. The Bulgarian picked troops fought desperately, giving ground inch by inch.

The Krantza crest, the key of the Bulgarian defense in this sector, was taken and retaken several times, but finally remained in the hands of the Allies. On the left a French division had taken Sokol and Dobro-Polje and a swamp which was thick with hidden machine guns. The Serbs on the right held Veternik and the "Elephant's Ear."

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the allied success was complete. The allied losses, notwithstanding the desperate resistance of the Bulgarians, were light. The Allies captured more than 3,000 prisoners, inflicted severe losses on the enemy, and took fifty guns, including a number of 155s. The Serbs immediately turned the heavier guns against the Bulgarians. Quantities of trench mortars, machine guns and rifles, and a considerable stock of munitions also were taken from the enemy.

Theatre of War on Bulgarian Front



The solid black line running from west to east indicates the approximate position of the battlefront when the allied offensive began on September 14. The shaded area shows the territory reconquered to Tuesday. North of this area Serbian advance guards have reached the junction of the Vardar and Bregalnitsa Rivers. Here some of them turned northeastward along the latter stream. Others, crossing the Vardar, menace the Prilep-Veles highway, which also is menaced by troops which pushed on from Prilep to Gradsko, (see arrows.) The highway from Krivolak to Ishtib has been cut, and news late last night, after this map had been made, told that the Bulgar left wing, holding the original front from the Lake Doiran region to the Struma, was retreating and that the British and Greek forces there were marching to invade Bulgaria.

GREEKS CALLED TO COLORS.

Equipment Ready, Nation's Entire Army Is Now Being Mobilized.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Greek Legation was today notified by cable of the calling out of the Greek Reservist classes of 1906, 1907, and 1908 for all Greece, only portions of those classes having previously been ordered to the colors, and also the classes of 1900, 1901, and 1902, together with the auxiliaries from Macedonia. The Reservists are to report within twenty days.

The mobilization of the entire Greek Army had not up to this time been possible owing to the inadequacy of arms, munitions, and equipment furnished by the Allies. These supplies have now been in large measure received, and the Athens Government will complete the mobilization directly.

General d'Esperey, the Commander in Chief of the international army in the Balkans, has communicated to the Greek Government a commendation of the participation by Greek troops with the French in the present offensive in Macedonia. He said the Greeks had penetrated the enemy lines at numerous points, showing great bravery and exceptional endurance.

GEORGE FELICITATES PETER.

British King Expresses Admiration of Serb Army and People.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Professor Voyslav M. Yovanovitch, Director of the Serbian Press Bureau in Washington, tonight received the following cablegram from the Serbian Government:

"CORFU, Sept. 25.—His Majesty the King of Great Britain has sent the following telegram to His Majesty King Peter of Serbia:

"'I wish to express to your Majesty my most sincere congratulations for the successes won by your splendid troops commanded by Prince Alexander of Serbia, and also my admiration for the incomparable heroism and endurance of which the Serbian people have given the proof during these four years of its unexampled ordeal and sacrifices.

JAIL FOR PRINCE CHARLES.

Heir of Rumanian Throne Disciplined for Non-Royal Marriage.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 24. — Crown Prince Charles of Rumania has been punished by his father, as Commander in Chief of the army, with close confinement for seventy-five days for "transgression of military regulations," according to an official telegram from Jassy by the way of Berlin. The Crown Prince began his sentence yesterday.

"The validity of the actions which led to his arrest will be investigated, and such measures as are required by the interest of the country and the dynasty will be taken," the dispatch adds.

LONDON, Sept. 24. — Reports have been received here of the arrest of Crown Prince Charles of Rumania. It is believed here that the Crown Prince is being disciplined because, according to a report which reached London a few days ago, he went to Odessa about Sept. 15 and, without the sanction of the King, married Miss Zyzis Lambrino, a Rumanian, who is not of royal blood.

menaced, and the coal fields were hopelessly disorganized. The loss in output today is estimated at 50,000 tons.

SHIPWRIGHTS' STRIKE SPREADS

British Government May Act to Force Return to Work.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The strike of the Clyde shipwrights, which began a few days ago for a minimum wage of five pounds sterling weekly, has extended, until now virtually all the men in all the Clyde yards are idle. Some of the workers in the allied trades along the Clyde, at Barrow and in East Scotland, have joined the demand for a five-pound wage, and announced their intention to strike unless their demands are complied with.

The action of the men has been disavowed by the union leaders, who have strongly urged them to resume work, all the more because by agreement with the Government in April last the shipyard men were permitted to manage their own affairs on condition of promise that there would be no stoppage of work and no arbitrary alterations in wages, and that all differences should be submitted to arbitration.

The Government is concerned over the situation on the Clyde, owing to the vital national necessity of maintaining the highest possible production, and is determined to act promptly. One of the three lines along which the Government can act is provided for in the defense of the Realm Act, namely, the enlistment in the army of strikers of military age, the prosecution of the ringleaders, or the arraignment of every striker with a view to the imposing of fines.

HAVE PASSED THE CREST SAYS MARSHAL FOCH

Generalissimo Praises All Allied Troops—Calls the Americans "Splendid."

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Marshal Foch, commander in chief of the allied armies on the western front, who dislikes interviews and rarely grants one, received a few newspaper men at his headquarters on Tuesday. Among those received was the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, who thus records the Marshal's brief utterances, made in an ejaculatory manner, with the use of hardly any verbs:

"The British Army is better than ever. It fights better than ever. All of its losses have been made good, and it is a more splendid army than it has been before.

"The Americans are splendid and are wonderfully gallant in the field. Ten thousand fresh Americans arrive in France every day.

"The French Army is the same good old army that it was in 1914. No more is to be said."

In discussing the general situation the Marshal said:

"The enemy is shaken up and shaken down, but is still holding out. You must not think we shall get to the Rhine immediately. We have passed over the crest and are now going down hill. If we gather impetus as we go, like a rolling ball, so much the better."

With a few cordial words the Marshal then dismissed his interviewers and resumed his work on his maps.

FRANCE ALONE RAISED $14,600,000,000 IN LOANS

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The Finance Minister, M. Klotz, this afternoon published for consideration by the Chamber his estimates of the public expenditure for 1919. The Minister estimates that he will require in order to meet expenditures the forthcoming year, 8,926,524,000 francs. This is an increase of nearly 1,000,000,000 francs or practically $200,000,000 over that of last year.

About three-fourths of this increase is for the added interest on the public debt. The remainder is largely accounted for by the higher cost of practically every article required by the Government.

M. Klotz estimates that the yield of new taxes imposed during the current year will prove ample, judging by the recent returns, to render unnecessary the seeking of new sources of revenue.

M. Klotz shows that of the $23,200,000,000 raised by the French Government since the beginning of 1915 $5,600,000,000 has been raised from normal sources and $19,600,000,000 from loans. Of the total amount of loans $14,600,000,000 has been raised by the French people themselves.

The Minister remarks with satisfaction that since the beginning of the present year the proportion of loans raised from other countries for the benefit of France has sensibly declined, and represented only 24.31 per cent. of the total of loans from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31. During 1917 the amount of money raised abroad was 37.21 per cent. of the total.

Police Camp Closes.

The experiment by Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner F. A. Wallin to mobilize men of the department for war service drilling and training at the Police Campfire Outing at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway, which began nine days ago and had a daily attendance of 900 policemen was brought to a successful close last night. More than 8,000 policemen took part in the practice drills, which were so arranged that each man had twenty-four hours at the camp without seriously interfering with his regular duty. Each policeman contributed $1 to pay for his meals. Tents were furnished by the Government, and Coney Island and Sheepshead Bay business men aided with other contributions of equipment.

serious loss to the enemy, though useless to the British.

Among the prisoners were 95 Italians who were captured in the Isonzo drive and had been enrolled for forced labor.

The difficulties of the Turks, retreating north of Ma'an, have been increased by the destruction of the railway near Derat. British airmen are also concentrating their attention on their way of retreat. Even if the Fourth Army escapes, isolated garrisons to the south of Ma'an are in a precarious position.

WARNS AGAINST TANKS

Attributes Much of British Success to These Machines, Formerly Despised.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Sept. 25.—To a superficial observer calm seems to have fallen upon the opposed hosts in the west—upon both equally save where around St. Quentin the Allies are nibbling at the Hindenburg system of field works, or in the sectors further east, where raids and patrols arouse a spasmodic degree of local activity.

The German press shows clearly that neither the people nor the army command of the Central Empires are deceived by this appearance. Indeed, their feverish anxiety as to the next act of the tragedy marks the general consciousness that the eclipse of German fortunes has begun. Ludendorff and his fellows have a couple of millions of armed men at their command, yet for two months they have not made a single attempt in any field of initiative.

Foch is spoken of with bated breath as the natural director of the war, and it is assumed that the only hope remaining of these vast armies lies in their successive lines of trenches. The proud Berlin school of strategy is moribund.

Two orders of Ludendorff dating from August and since taken on the battlefield lie before me.

The first confesses to the increasing difficulty of transport and manufacture and prescribes measures to be taken so that when the troops have to retreat large quantities of munitions and material may not be lost.

The other deals at length with three reasons for the recent defeats; namely, the Allied tanks, the insufficiency of trenches and the lack of reserve artillery. These detailed instructions how to meet the tanks are perhaps the most signal testimonial their crews have yet received. They will not greatly comfort the German trooper.

"The principle that even when surrounded a troop, unless it receives other orders, should fight to the last man and the last cartridge, seems," says Ludendorf, "to have fallen into oblivion."

Part of the field guns must stand in the open so as to be more rapidly moved to meet cavalry or tank attacks.

The final note of the lesson is that regimental commanders must see that confidence and understanding exist between themselves and their junior officers and their men. It is not explained how men are to be persuaded that the mandarins who for a year refused to take the tanks seriously must still be regarded as Heaven-born Governors.

News gathered on the German frontiers pictures the increasing restlessness, discontent and rebelliousness, not only among the civil population, but also among the troops. There are instances of the latter refusing to fire upon the strikers and demonstrators and other novel symptoms of a breaking down of the old regime.

The decay of military talent and spirit on the front and in the staffs is less sensationally, but more surely, attested. The Prussian morale, that once fearsome product, is failing not only on the circumference of affairs, but at the centre.

An instinct that this moment of rot must inevitably come is one of the reasons why French soldiers support with so wonderful endurance the hardships of what can properly be called siege warfare on the Malmaison Plateau and before St. Quentin. They do not ask to stand in the limelight of some dramatic victory.

They also know that in Foch's good time the superior power which the Entente has laboriously gathered will be cast into channels where it will yield larger results than fall to their humble, but necessary, sapping and mining.

But they know also that when that day comes every enemy position they have won by nibbling into the Hindenburg line will be a way for some soldiers of the just cause to reach the common end.

AMERICAN FLIER WINS FIGHT WITH SUBMARINE

Ensign Carson, Braving Shrapnel Fire, Shoots Two of Crew and Bombs U-Boat.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 24.—The first case in which it is known that a submarine fought back when attacked by a seaplane resulted in the probable destruction of the submersible by an American aviator, Reserve Ensign J. F. Carson, it was announced by the Admiralty today.

With shrapnel from the elevated forward gun of the submarine bursting around his seaplane Ensign Carson manoeuvred until he was able to pour machine gun fire into the crew, felling two of them and driving the others inside. The submarine submerged, and as she was diving two bombs were dropped on her.

Within a few minutes the bow of the U-boat appeared on the surface and remained visible about four minutes. More bombs were dropped in this interval and it is believed the undersea craft was either badly damaged or destroyed.

Ensign Carson's machine, with two others, was on patrol when the submarine was sighted on the surface, and the Ensign made for her. As he was getting into position to use his machine gun or to bomb the undersea boat the German fired five shrapnel shells, three of which burst close to the seaplane, doing it some damage. The other seaplanes did not take part in the attack.

UNTERMYER PREDICTS "SOCIAL JUSTICE" ERA

Says the War Will Put Us Forward More Than a Hundred Years of Peace Could.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A social revolution which will establish an aristocracy based on service and not on wealth, the abolishment of great fortunes and an era of justice for labor and capital alike were predicted by Samuel Untermyer of New York in a speech on "What the War Will Do for America," tonight before a meeting of Liberty Loan workers.

"For America the war will usher in the era of social justice and will put us forward as one hundred years of peace could not have accomplished," he said. "It will bring about almost without a struggle and by a peaceful revolution the changes that could not have been wrought without civil revolutions. It will accomplish:

"First—The public domain, the public utilities, and the natural resources of the country will revert to the people.

"Second—Child labor will be contraband throughout the land. The law will not permit of labor being longer regarded as a mere salable commodity. There will be compulsory arbitration.

"Third—The reserves that are made by conservative business by way of depreciation from wear and tear on buildings, plant, machinery, and tools as part of the cost of doing business before calculating profits will be made to apply to and include the human machine as well.

"Fourth—So far as possible unemployment will be guarded against by Government undertakings in times of industrial and agricultural depression.

"Fifth—Vast land grants still held by the railroads will be opened to settlement, and monopolies and combinations will be punished and suppressed and ruinous competition will be prohibited.

"The country will be divided into just two classes when this war is over—into those who did their duty and those who did not. And woe to be those who did not!"

Mr. Untermyer said world disarmament might be one of the outcomes of the war.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The Allies in Macedonia are still pressing the situation to the utmost without any present indication that such a thing as a general check is yet in the air. To go back for a moment to the beginning of this situation before Saloniki, it must be realized that there are two possible objectives in this attack. It may well be doubted whether at the time the attack was launched, the allied commander had any idea that it could be carried to the extent to which it has already gone. But the absolute break in the Bulgarian lines which has been effected, largely by the Serbs, has opened wide the situation and has brought to the horizon the possibilities of great results.

There are two pathways open to the Allies, either of which will bring results of prime importance. The first is to push up into Serbia toward Nish, taking advantage of the rapid, although possibly temporary, disorganization of the Bulgars to press forward without halt. The other is to invade Bulgaria, a country which is known to be sick of the war and willing to get out of it at the first legitimate excuse, in the hope that such an invasion will accelerate the decision. Inasmuch as there is no conflict of effort in these two plans—that is, since they can both go forward simultaneously—it is not impossible that both will be undertaken.

The situation can be understood readily by reference to the road situation, since in this country roads are so few and far between that they are the dominating element in any plan that is formulated. In any invasion of Serbia the line of advance which must be followed, since there is no other, is the line of the Vardar Valley. That is the major promise from which all argument must start. This valley, however, may be reached in various ways. One is by way of Monastir, to Prilep, and thence to the Krivolak station of the Uskub-Saloniki railroad. Another is by way of the Cerna Valley, and the third by way of the Strumitza Valley, which cuts through the mountains and, dividing, reaches the Vardar at Krivolak and further north at Veles over good metaled roads. The point of bifurcation is at Ishtib. Once in possession of both Ishtib and Veles and of the road connecting these places, the allied commander has the choice of invading Bulgaria, advancing up through Serbia, or of doing both, whichever way he decides he has good roads behind him. With this established, we may turn to what has already been accomplished in order that we may view the possibilities of the present situation.

The Serbs, advancing through the mountains toward the Prilep-Krivolak road, ploughed their way rapidly between the Cerna and the Vardar toward the junction of those two rivers, trying to spread out as they went forward. As they advanced they weakened the position of the Bulgarian flanks on either side and have already transmitted to them the fever of retreat. At several particularly vital points the opposition still continues, holding down the allied flanks to some extent. The centre, however, after reaching the Prilep road captured Prilep and passed first beyond the road itself and then the point of confluence of the rivers.

This was a most important accomplishment. It was vitally necessary for the Bulgarian defense that the Serbian operations be confined within this angle. Once this angle was passed, the Vardar as an obstacle had ceased to exist, and the Bulgarian position behind the river was turned. This is what has happened.

In the fighting which was reported yesterday the Serbs established themselves on the northern bank of the Vardar, north of Krivolak, and took possession of most of the eastern bank as far south as the parallel of Lake Doiran. Their front has narrowed somewhat, as was bound to happen, since they were advancing toward the river angle, but it has already begun to spread out again, both eastward and westward. On the way from Prilep to Veles the road runs through the famous Babouna Pas. There was fear that the advance would be stopped, because of to go through this pass, as it is rapidly ease with which it could be defended. The advance across the Vardar, however, may make it entirely unnecessary to go through this pass, as it is rapidly being outflanked and the Bulgarians are threatened from the rear.

If the present rate of advance in the northern apex of the wedge is continued the invasion of Bulgaria will be about under way. The development of both the plans I have mentioned will have a tremendously important effect. This effect will make itself felt in the abandonment by the Bulgarians of most of the territory from Lake Doiran and the Strumnitza Valley and even far beyond by virtue of the fact that the allied advance will surround them almost completely by reason of the direction which the main road takes.

In the same way an advance into Serbia will force the Austrian resistance of the Italians into the discard, releasing the latter. At the same time this encircling movement in both directions will envelop the entire territory embraced between the Usku-Veles-Strumnitza road and the road which runs between Uskub and Sofia.

The whole question will depend upon whether the Allies are able to expand the apex of the wedge as they move forward.

BRITISH CAPTURE SELENCY

the western end of the Chemin-des-Dames. They attacked in the region of the Moisy Farm, in this area, but according to a War Office statement the attempt was an entire failure.

The text of the day report follows:

In the course of the night the artillery was active in the region of St. Quentin and between the Ailette and the Aisne.

German attacks in the region of the Moisy Farm were completely checked.

On the Vesle front a lively artillery fire was maintained.

French troops repulsed German raiding parties in Champagne and in Lorraine, and in the latter region carried out an incursion into the German lines.

Berlin Admits French Gains.

BERLIN, Sept. 25, (via London.)—After fighting yesterday in the region west of St. Quentin the town of Francilly-Selency remained in the hands of the French, says the day report from Army Headquarters.

In the St. Quentin region fighting the enemy forces attacking the German positions gained a footing in Pontruet and Gricourt. These places, however, were afterward retaken by the Germans.

The evening bulletin says:

Between the Omignon Brook and the Somme fresh enemy attacks were repulsed.

Following is the text of the afternoon bulletin:

There was lively reconnoitring activity in Flanders.

Between Moevres and Havrincourt Wood the artillery battle revived. At Moeuvres fresh enemy attacks failed. East of Epehy in local counterattacks we captured a line which we had held previous to the fighting of Sept. 22.

Between the Omignon Brook and the Somme the British and French resumed their attack against St. Quentin. They were supported by strong artillery fire and tanks. The enemy gained a footing in Pontruet, Gricourt, and Francilly-Selency early in the morning. Attempts by the enemy to extend the breaches by means of violent attacks, which lasted into the afternoon, failed.

A counterthrust by our infantry pioneers, supported by artillery and aviators, again brought Pontruet and Gricourt into our possession toward the afternoon. The heights situated between these two places were recaptured after a fluctuating fight. Francilly-Selency remained in the hands of the enemy.

On the other front most of the enemy attacks broke down before our lines. Wherever he reached them he was driven out again by counterattacks.

Between the Vesle and the Aisne storming detachments broke into the enemy positions south of Glennes and brought back eighty-five prisoners. Strong enemy counterattacks after the termination of this engagement, against the position from which we had started were repulsed. In minor enterprises across the Vesle and in Champagne we took prisoners.

Yesterday we brought down in aerial battles twenty-eight airplanes and six balloons.

STILL FIGHTING AT PONTRUET.

German Rearguards Hold the Outskirts with Machine Guns.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 25, (Associated Press.)—Since the operations of yesterday near St. Quentin, the British, with the French on their right, have made good progress. The Germans are still resisting on the outskirts of Pontruet with machine gun rearguards. They also fought hard against the British at Selency, and made strong counterattacks near Gricourt, but were repulsed with many killed and wounded.

The prisoners taken by the British in this sector now aggregate more than 1,000, and many machine guns also have been captured.

Elsewhere on the British front there has been no great activity, except near Inchy, west of Cambrai, where the British line has been advanced slightly, and many of the enemy have been killed.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 25, (via Montreal.)—The Canadians have scored a useful success by pushing forward southeast of Inchy, along the Canal du Nord, to the west of Cambrai. They advanced to a depth of 150 yards on a front of two-thirds of a mile.

This operation was designed to take over the deep fringe of outposts protecting the Hindenburg line.

As a result of yesterday's fighting in the neighborhood of St. Quentin, the British advanced their line to well east of the hamlet of St. Hélène, which lies between Bellenglise and Pontruet, so that here they are within rifle range of the St. Quentin canal, which the enemy has utilized as part of the Hindenburg system.

During last night much desultory fighting took place, in which the British troops took a trench of some importance near the right flank and 100 prisoners. Everywhere evidence was found that the Germans had suffered heavy losses.

The French had a most successful day, securing all their objectives with one exception, and here the fighting is still in progress.

The weather is improving.

DIRECT ATTACK WON DALLON.

Debeney Surprised Germans by Dropping Infiltration Tactics.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY, Sept. 25, (Associated Press.)—General Debeney's troops in their advance toward St. Quentin yesterday took a position at Dallon which the 221st German Division had been ordered to "hold to the last drop of blood."

Ten German officers and more than 300 men were prevented from making the supreme sacrifice demanded of them. They fought well under the protection of a curtain of fire from their artillery posted around St. Quentin, but the French troops were on them in successive waves so quickly that they could not carry out the order of their commanding general except by committing suicide. The alternative of captivity appeared acceptable to most of them.

The Germans suffered from lack of appreciation of the resourcefulness and suppleness of the French tactics. General Debeney's men, having approached the position to within the proper distance for an assault, abandoned the method of infiltration which had characterized the operation around St. Quentin and made a resolute frontal attack, which the nature of the obstacle made necessary.

In the first rush they took the central point of resistance at Francilly-Selency and the crossroads 500 yards to the east.

Keeping close up with the creeping barrage, which their artillery maintained with splendid precision, the attacking waves went on, sweeping the eastern edge of Savy Wood clear of the enemy, passing through and beyond Marjorin Wood and taking the village of L'Epine de Dallon by assault.

Meanwhile German reinforcements coming up through the ravines from the region of St. Quentin were caught under the fire of the French guns.

This success makes precarious the German hold on Hill 138. This is the highest point in the positions along the ridges from Holnon to Dallon, which the enemy has been fortifying with feverish haste. Its fall, while it might not mean the fall of St. Quentin, would greatly weaken the defenses of the city.

BRITISH DOWN 53 PLANES.

Lose Only Ten of Their Own in Day's Combats.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Fifty-three hostile airplanes were accounted for by British aviators on Tuesday, according to the official announcement tonight. Thirty-one of these were destroyed, and twenty-two were driven down. Ten British machines failed to return.

More than 2,000 photographs were taken and twelve and one-half tons of bombs were dropped in twenty-four hours.

NEW YORK'S EXPORT SHARE RESTRICTED

Reported as 60 Per Cent. of Seaboard Shipments — Boston Scheduled for 10 Per Cent.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Mayor Andrew J. Peters said today that this city had been promised 10 per cent. of the Atlantic seaboard exports, New York to have her share restricted henceforth to 60 per cent.

He said he obtained this promise from Chairman Hurley of the United States Shipping Board, who visited this port with a party of Federal officials yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The question of seaboard exports was discussed at a meeting in Boston yesterday, which was attended by Chairman Edward N. Hurley of the United States Shipping Board, members of the Ship Control Committee of the Shipping Board, of which P. A. S. Franklin is Chairman; representatives of the Export Control Committee, which was recently created by Director General of Railroads McAdoo, and Mayor Peters of Boston.

Mr. Franklin and some other members of the party remained in Boston. Chairman Hurley returned to Washington today. When Mr. Hurley left, a definite program had not been completed. Mr. Hurley said tonight that he could not state positively the percentage of exports which each of the ports would receive. It is possible that some conclusions were reached by the other conferees.

It is part of the general plan to give ports such as New York, Philadelphia, and others of major importance all of the exports that can be handled without causing serious delay in loading and unloading.

In connection with the portion of the exports which might go to Boston it was pointed out that most of the shipments would probably be restricted to the output of industries in the New England territory. Railroad lines from New York and Albany which feed into Boston are hard pressed to carry sufficient quantities of coal and other materials vital to the New England industries.

It is generally believed here that Boston will get about 10 per cent. of the Atlantic Seaboard tonnage and that 60 per cent. may represent New York's share.

BRITISH NOW FIGHT IN FAMILIAR FIELDS

By PHILIP GIBBS.

redoubt to the last moment," said this gallant officer. These were his last words, and the redoubt was overwhelmed.

Now the Allies are back on their old line after a retreat and advance which has filled five months with wild vicissitudes of war and has carried them on the high wave of fortune after a wonderful turn of the tide. Once again British soldiers are staring out of holes in the earth and from observation posts on high ground at the ruins of the fair old City of St. Quentin, where the Cathedral stands massive like a mediaeval castle with scarred walls amid the mass of gray and broken buildings. The French troops are fighting their way close to it, and the British on their left are due north of it near Pontruet and Gricourt.

Elsewhere on the British front there is no great change, but the line was advanced slightly on a front of 1,500 yards near Inchy, which looks eastward to Bourlon Wood of old ill-fame in the days of the Cambrai adventure last November, and many Germans were killed in their resistance.

Captain Utassy Decorated.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Captain George Utassy of this city, attached to an ambulance unit of the American Red Cross, has been decorated by the Italian Government for services during the offensive on the Piave front. Captain Utassy and his men were in the thick of the fighting, according to a message from Rome today announcing the decoration.

CLERICALS REJECT SOCIALIST PROGRAM

Obstacle in Way of Formation of a New Government in Germany.

SOCIALIST PLAN INSPIRED

Wilhelmstrasse Understood to be Behind Proposals for Democratic Reconstruction.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25.—The Berlin Tageblatt, a copy of which has been received here, reports that the Clerical Party at a conference decided to reject the program of the Socialists. The German Clerical organ, Germania, contains no such statement. The Berlin Vorwärts, the Socialist organ, says it understands the Clerical Party does not favor the Socialist demands.

"If that is the case," says the Vorwärts, "the realization of our program will have to be postponed until such time as the Clerical opposition is overcome."

LONDON, Sept. 25.—There is good reason to believe that the program adopted by the Social Democratic faction of the Reichstag at its meeting on Monday was not only inspired by the German Government, but actually embodies Germany's peace terms, according to Rotterdam advices to the Telegraph. It is pointed out by the dispatch that the part of the program referring to international arrangements as distinct from internal reforms was discussed soon after the failure of the German offensive and when it became apparent that Germany's prospects were hopeless.

The resolutions adopted by the Social Democratic party included the unrestricted indorsement of the Reichstag peace resolution of July, 1917. It also declared in favor of Germany joining a league of nations based on a peaceable settlement of all disputes and general disarmament.

There were noncommittal declarations on the restoration of Belgium, on an understanding regarding indemnities, and on the restoration of Serbia and Montenegro, and a declaration that the peace treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest must not hinder the conclusion of peace. It was urged that civil administration over all occupied territories be given upon the conclusion of peace to democratic Parliaments, which are to be established forthwith.

Autonomy for Alsace and Lorraine was also provided for in the resolution, which also declared for universal, equal, secret, and direct suffrage for all the German federal States.

It is said that the Prussian Landtag will be dissolved if equal suffrage does not result without delay from deliberations of the committee of the upper house.

PRISONER CONFERENCE ON.

American and German Delegates Meet for Exchanges at Berne.

BERNE, Tuesday, Sept. 24.—The American-German war prisoners' conference began yesterday under the presidency of Paul Dinichert, Swiss Minister Plenipotentiary. The conference was opened by President Calender of Switzerland.

The American delegates include John W. Garrett, Minister to the Netherlands; John W. Davis, the new Ambassador to London; General Kernan, representing the army; Captain Hough, representing the navy; Colonels Grant, Shartle and Ashburn, Commander Stone of the navy, Mr. Story of the Department of Justice and Major Perkins of the American Red Cross.

The Germans include Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg, Count Montgelas, Colonel von Franseckv, Councillor von Keller, Major Draudt and Captain Wilke von Hindenburg of the navy.

Prince Ernst Hohenlohe-Langenburg, Chairman of the German delegation, was born in 1863. From 1900 to 1905 he was Regent in Saxe-Coborg-Gotha for Duke Karl Eduard, a minor, and later he was a member and for a short time President of the Reichstag.

Count Adolph Montgelas, head of the American section of the German Foreign Office, served for a time in the embassy at Washington. He married Miss Fanny Dickinson Hazeltine, daughter of Dr. Charles S. Hazeltine, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was the American Consul at Milan under President Cleveland.

Captain von Hindenburg, designated Envoy Extraordinary and Minister, is a nephew of Field Marshal von Hindenburg.

SERVICE CHEVRONS IN NAVY.

Daniels Also Orders Men Who Have Been Wounded to Signify It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Daniels issued a general order today authorizing the wearing of war service and wound chevrons and defining those who are entitled to wear them. The war service chevrons will be worn by four classes of persons in the naval service.

All persons who have served for a period of three months or more since war was declared, April 6 last year, afoat or ashore, on duty east of the 37th meridian west of Greenwich will be entitled to wear the service chevrons on the lower half of the left sleeve. This is the meridian which takes in everything east of a line drawn north from the vicinity of Pernambuco, Brazil. The chevron will be an inverted V-shaped bar, of gold braid, for blue uniforms and of yellow silk lace for white uniforms, the arms or the chevron to be one-quarter inch wide and two inches long. The chevrons are to be worn on all outer uniform garments, except undress jumpers.

Others entitled to wear the service chevrons will be those who have served afloat, for a period of two months or more since May 25, 1918, on vessels that, during their service on board, have cruised on the high seas of the Atlantic Ocean, north of the equator; those who have served on vessels that have been torpedoed or fired upon by enemy vessels; and those who have served on aviation duty in the United States making actual flights in search of enemy vessels since May 25, 1918. This is the date that the German U-boats made their appearance along the Atlantic Coast.

Service on transports and convoying ships will be included, provided such service continued for three months after first passing to the eastward of the 37th meridian west of Greenwich.

Continued service falling within these qualifications for more than a year will entitle the wearer to one additional chevron for three months or more service in any one complete year.

Wound chevrons are to be worn upon the lower half of the right sleeve by any person in the naval service who has received, or who may receive, a wound in action, or as a result of an act by the enemy which necessitates treatment by a medical officer, and an additional chevron for each additional wound, but not more than one chevron will be worn for two or more wounds received at the same time. Disablement by gas, necessitating treatment by a medical officer, shall be considered a wound within the meaning of this order.

Persons entitled to wear the war service chevron or the wound chevron are not to do so until they have obtained permission therefor in writing from their immediate commanding officer, who must in every instance fully satisfy himself of the right of the applicant to wear such chevron before granting such permission.

BERLIN MANOEUVRES AMUSING TO PARIS

Hertling's Talk and Social Democrats' Program Regarded as Efforts to Deceive.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The interval which Burian said on Monday must follow the next move in the peace offensive has been very brief. Perhaps he had in mind only Austria's participation, for Germany contributed two more bits yesterday. They reached France today in the shape of Hertling's speech and the declaration of the German Socialists.

The latter is really a meaningless declaration from the Socialist group of the Reichstag and a committee of Social Democrats. The first group adopted it by a vote of 55 to 10 and the second by a vote of 24 to 11.

The speech and declaration should be considered together, it is held here, as intended to be two parts of the same phase of the peace offensive. It is thought that they do not hang together very well.

Hertling, for example, once more declares for electoral reform, which he flourishes every time Germany is in military trouble. On the other hand, the Socialists in their declaration make no mention of the establishment of a parliamentary régime, supposed to be their pet reform.

The Socialists of Germany today are as imperialistic as the Hohenzollerns themselves. They have been convinced that high wages for labor in Germany depend absolutely on the success of the German imperialistic plans of expansion by force. So the camouflage of the Socialist Party name has been worn so threadbare that its use in the present peace manoeuvre is regarded here as of no account.

There is not much disposition to comment on Hertling's speech yet because it is known to be only the first utterance of a series due from Berlin. So there is a tendency to wait to see if Foreign Secretary Hintze can introduce some novelty in this business of alternate peace attacks by Austria and Germany.

Hertling has, it is felt, done nothing but repeat the familiar words and promises, and France is interested in only concrete acts. For instance, he does not promise to evacuate Belgium or northern France.

Abbé Wetterlee, who was Alsatian member for eleven years in the Reichstag, said this morning:

"Hertling has spoken once more only to say nothing. The peace Hertling desires is the same as the Scheidemann-Erzberger peace, assuring Germany the benefits of the Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest treaties. Germany knows she is beaten and wants to preserve herself from deserved punishment, and even draw from her enterprise of bringing enormous advantages. If Central Europe becomes a fact, if the Russian territory is open to German economic greed, the Central Empires will have won the war and be able to resume their dream of universal domination. Therefore, it is necessary that Germany be cut off from the anarchism in Russia by great Poland and independent Bohemia. If President Wilson has said that German promises have no value, he is entirely right. She must be rendered physically incapable of breaking her promises.

"The utterances of the Socialists in Germany yesterday prove how completely that party has been tamed by the Kaiser. These would-be Democrats do not even ask for a parliamentary régime. Like everybody else in Germany, the Socialists are bent on robbery, and nothing can change their mind but the conviction that the Allies have made their predatory plans impossible."

GOMPERS GREETED BY PARIS OFFICIALS

Pichon Hails Him as the Interpreter of the Ideals of Liberty.

CONFER WITH CLEMENCEAU

American Delegates Meet the Premier and Talk Over War and Labor Conditions.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—In greeting Samuel Gompers and the other American labor leaders at a luncheon at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs today, Stephen Pichon, the Foreign Minister, said he saluted Mr. Gompers as the agent of the great working democracy of the United States which knew so well how to join its high conception of patriotic duties with the action it judged necessary for the defence of its social claims. The Foreign Minister also saluted Mr. Gompers as the inflexible interpreter of the thought which determined the United States to intervene in the conflict for the liberation of the world, and to push to the maximum the combined utilization of all its resources and strength to destroy the Prussian military caste and establish an international reign of peace, right and justice.

"Like President Wilson and ourselves," M. Pichon continued, "Mr. Gompers sees the possibility of attaining the goal for which millions of men are sacrificing their lives only in the victory of our arms. Like us, he rejects all idea of weakness or compromise toward autocratic governments, with whom he declines to negotiate until the enemy declares himself defeated."

After referring to the great army from the New World which is covering itself with glory on the battlefields of France, the Foreign Minister concluded:

"What we admire in today's guests is that their work and patriotism, clear-sightedness and courage, practical good sense and ideals are joined with devotion to the holiest cause—working democracy and its future of emancipation, power and liberty."

Premier Clemenceau arrived at the Ministry at the conclusion of the luncheon and talked with the American labor delegates for half an hour.

André Tardieu, Commissioner for French-American war matters, and Minister of Labor Colliard jointed in welcoming the Americans.

Captain Tardieu greeted Mr. Gompers as a great friend of France. He congratulated him on having realized the complete moral unity of the working democracy, and gave a toast to the American Democracy from whom Mr. Gompers had brought a fraternal message.

President Poincare received Mr. Gompers and other members of the American delegation. They were introduced by Ambassador Sharp, and the President had a long talk with them.

Mr. Gompers and several members of the delegation also called on Marshal Joffre, whom Mr. Gompers had met in the United States. The Marshal congratulated the President of the American Federation of Labor on the work he had undertaken and the happy influence he exercised among the workingmen in the United States.

Mr. Gompers replied, thanking Marshal Joffre and ending with, "Vive la France." The Marshal thereupon gave Mr. Gompers the accolade and kissed him, saying:

"It is France and the United States embracing."

POILUS TO PLAY BASEBALL.

Y. M. C. A. Starts Systematic Training Under Government Auspices.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Systematic training of men to play baseball will be organized throughout the French Army by the Young Men's Christian Association, in accordance with the formal request of General Cottez of the Ministry of War.

Eight centres have already been established to train French instructors, and these centres are expected to furnish enough teachers to cover the entire French Army.

Baseball instruction in the French Army has been placed under P. R. Carpenter of Worcester, Mass. The rules of the game have been translated, and will be distributed among the Poilus.

"I consider that this game constitutes excellent exercise, develops precision and quickness of eye, and is an attractive pastime," said General Cottez in his request that the sport be adopted.

Johnny Evers, the former National League's second baseman, recently visited General Vidal's Headquarters at Besançon, where he demonstrated the game to the officers' school. After nine days of instruction the young cadets played a five-inning game.

"They were particularly impressed with our manner of throwing a baseball, for it is more efficient than the present French method of throwing grenades, which is done straightarm," said Evers this afternoon.

Today Evers visited Colonel Huston, former owner of the New York American League team, who said that future baseball stars would be found among the men of the American Expeditionary forces.

CITY ISLAND UNDER FIRE.

Shell from Fort Meant to Halt Vessel Strikes a House.

Residents of City Island have appointed a committee to confer with the military authorities on the question of danger to their lives and property from shells fired from Fort Totten, across the Sound. This action followed the shelling of the village yesterday, morning at 8 o'clock for the fourth time in the last six months. So far no damage has been done, but the residents fear that serious damage and loss of life may result unless more precaution is taken by the gunners.

It is said at City Island two shells were fired yesterday morning from Fort Totten to halt a vessel proceeding from the East River into Long Island Sound without displaying proper signals. One shell exploded over the house, 20 Centre Street, which during the Summer is occupied by Mrs. J. C. Seymour, who removed to the city two weeks ago. The other struck the foundation wall and penetrated the wall, but did not explode. The shell which did explode threw bits of steel for a radius of twenty yards.

The loud detonation, it was said, created a slight panic among the 18,000 employes of nearby shipyards, and work was stopped while a delegation hurried to the police station to enter a protest. Police Lieut. Smith telephoned to Colonel Paul Loeser, in command at Fort Totten, who expressed regret. He said he had imperative orders to stop the vessel.

At Fort Totten last night it was said that only one shell was fired and that it did not explode. Colonel Loeser said:

"The shell landed in the water near City Island, wheeled off and struck a big rock some distance from shore on City Island, causing small pieces of rock to shatter. One of the pieces went through a board fence, making a hole about two inches in diameter. Another struck the foundation of a house and clipped off a piece of brick."

BRAZIL NOW JOINS WAR ON AUSTRIA

Washington Hears Legation at Vienna Has Been Closed.

FOLLOWED OUR ACTION

Declared War on Germany a Year Ago—Warships Aiding Allied Cause.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A state of war now exists between Brazil and Austria, though so far there has been no formal declaration of the fact from either side. Information has reached Washington to the effect that by instructions from his Government, the Brazilian Minister at Vienna has closed his legation and departed for Brazil, and it is understood that the Austrian Minister at Rio de Janeiro is returning to his country shortly.

Nearly a year ago Brazil declared war on Germany following the example set by the United States. Now she takes a similar action in regard to Austria and for the same reasons, according to the official statements, namely, unlawful interference by submarines with Brazilian commerce.

Last February Brazil sent a protest to the Austrian Government as had been done in the case of Germany, protesting against submarine attacks upon Brazilian ships. As there has been no modification of the orders to the submarine commanders, the Brazilian Government has thought it proper to break off relations with Austria.

A Brazilian squadron of warships has been operating with the Allied fleets in European waters for some time.

BOLSHEVIKI THREATEN AMERICAN CONSULATE

Demand Surrender of British and French Officers Sheltered in Moscow Building.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A number of French and British officers have taken refuge in the American Consulate at Moscow, which is under the protection of Norway, according to a dispatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The Bolshevist Government has placed a guard around the building and has demanded the surrender of the officers and the Consulate officials.

This information reached Copenhagen through a dispatch filed at Moscow by the correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Folkets Dagblad.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—There are no Americans in the consulate at Moscow, which, according to dispatches via London, was beseiged by Bolsheviki forces, who demanded the surrender of British and French officers who had taken refuge there. In leaving Moscow and placing the consulate and American interests under the protection of Norway, Consul General Poole took his staff with him. With the exception of British and French officers, probably the only persons in the consulate are Norwegian officials.

APPEAL TO REFUGEE POLES.

Radical Peasant Party Urges Them to Shake Off German Yoke.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 24.—I have received a copy of a prohibited Polish paper issued by the Radical Peasant Party, which, together with the Socialists, represents the backbone of the Polish democracy. The paper contains the following manifesto to Polish refugees returning from Russia:

"You are returning in masses to your homes, which are now entirely or partially in ruins, and you condemn the unceasing roving about to which you were forced by the Czarist Government and partly by your own countrymen who have been foolish enough to render this service to our enemies. You return with anxiety to your dear mother country, and, though having to use a beggar's staff, you have been able to reach your homes, to which your hopes have led you.

"You thought that Poland had a Government based upon the people's will. What a tragic error! Here the German military power rules, and our Governments are powerless against it everywhere Germans are in command. Returning German colonists get all they need for rebuilding their homes, but the Polish peasants get no timber to rebuild with because the Germans have hewn down the milliard treasures of our woods and taken them out of the country. They do not allow our peasants to touch the woods.

"And what is our Government doing? Just fancy, brothers, our governing class has learned nothing from the Russian revolution. They cannot realize that Poland must be constituted only on the basis of her millions of people. Now, when the foreign yoke is so heavy, they do not offer their hand to the people, and understanding is impossible.

"The Polish people must shake off the German yoke by force, and at the same time our own governing class must withdraw from the scene. Any one who has witnessed the Russian revolution and the outrageous methods of the Bolsheviki must understand that we have to use other methods, because we are not the same sort of people. We can use only good and keep far away from evil.

"We appeal to you to set to work and labor assiduously to join the union of the masses in order, without bloodshed, to break the foreign yoke and to create a republic of free people."

LANSING PRAISES POOLE.

Sends Message of Commendation to Consul General Leaving Russia.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Lansing made public today a message of commendation sent to Consul General Dewitt C. Poole to be delivered upon the Consul General's arrival at Stockholm, where he is due today after a journey through Finland from Russia. The message says:

"The department has appreciated the grave responsibilities which devolved upon you with the death of Summers (late Consul General at Moscow) and the distressing local conditions which added to the difficulties of your task. Your work, therefore, has been followed with anxious interest.

"You proved equal to the emergency, and I wish to convey to you, at the first opportunity following your safe departure from Russia, my commendation for the capacity and sound judgment with which you have discharged your duties, not omitting your courageous determination to remain in Moscow in order to give moral support to your French and British colleagues, and where you would still be were it not for the orders sent you by the department."

READY TO HELP IN RUSSIA.

Spain Said to Favor Common Diplomatic Action to End Massacres.

MADRID, Sept. 25, (Associated Press.)—The Spanish Government has not yet made any statement concerning the receipt of President Wilson's recent note urging allied and neutral Governments to take action in condemnation of the massacres in Russia.

According to information obtained from reliable sources, however, Spain is ready to assist in any action having the re-establishment of order in Russia as its objective, as King Alfonso and the Spanish Government are greatly interested in the future of that country, while Spanish capitalists hold 50,000,000 pesetas of the Russian debt. Spain therefore, without committing any unneutral act, is inclined to aid in any common diplomatic action that is likely to bring to an end the state of anarchy in Russia, it was said.

BRITAIN LETS LITVINOFF GO.

But Red Envoy Will Stay on Ship Till British in Russia Are Safe.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Maxim Litvinoff, the Bolshevist Ambassador at London, and about fifty of his compatriots left today for Russia, according to an agreement between the British Government and the Soviet authorities that Litvinoff's departure would be followed by that of the British representatives and subjects in Russia.

M. Litvinoff will remain aboard the steamer at a neutral point until assurances are received that the British have crossed the Russian border.

CITY'S W. S. S. SALES JUMP.

$2,500,000 Error Found, Bringing Total to $30,000,000 Mark.

The total sale of War Savings Stamps here was increased by $2,500,000 yesterday through the discovery of an error in tabulating the record, which brings New York City's stamp drive above $30,000,000 on the eve of the Liberty Loan campaign. Th error was found through the report received from the Treasury Department. Director Frederick W. Allen announced that sales and formation of war savings societies would continue during the Liberty Loan drive in accordance with this request received from Secretary McAdoo:

Far from suggesting any diminution of the activities of the War Savings Organization, it is the intention of the Treasury Department to enlarge these activities and the State Directors should assure their organizations that even greater and more important work is before them. For the immediate present, they should continue their work particularly in the activities of the War Savings Societies and should enlist the whole hearted co-operation of the entire organization in the Liberty loan drive which starts Sept. 28.

The War Savings Chairman of each division in the district has been instructed to place his organization at the disposal of the Liberty Loan Chairman during the entire period of the drive.

of the German offensive on the western front was due to the failure of the German Army to surprise the Entente Allies, and the necessity of assuming the defensive on the arrival of the English home army in the theatre of war; to the employment of colored troops, and to the intervention of American divisions.

Referring to the Entente allied attack on the Marne salient General von Wrisberg said the withdrawal of the German troops was necessary "for strategical reasons and was completely successful."

"This is the first offensive of the enemy," he added, "brought him a tactical success, but considered in the light of his great strategical aims it can be regarded as not having succeeded."

The General described the British victory between the Ancre and the Avre Rivers as a "great success due to the massed employment of tanks and surprise under the protection of their fire."

The withdrawal to the Hindenburg line, the General said, was due to a "lack of well-consolidated positions."

Speaking of the American victory in the St. Mihiel sector General von Wrisberg said:

"It lies in the nature of the case that we as the defenders lost a considerable number of guns and prisoners. We can, however, with assurance calculate that the enemy obtained his successes on the first days of the attack by surprise and with small losses, but for the rest he suffered the heaviest losses. The American armies should not terrify us. We shall also settle with them."

Captain Brueninghaus, speaking for the German Navy Department, said that U-boats were sinking more cargo space than was being built by the Entente Allies and that the number of German submarines in service today was larger than at any period of the war.

"The navy," Captain Brueninghaus continued, "is still convinced that our U-boat warfare is the sole means for making the Anglo-Saxon race see reason."

The Captain made a strong appeal to the members of the Reichstag to keep up among the German people belief in the effectiveness of the submarine.

HERTLING COMPLAINS WILSON IGNORES HIM

No Heed Paid to Acceptance of President's Four Peace Points —Says America Is War Mad.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 25.—Count von Hertling, the German Imperial Chancellor, in addressing the Reichstag Main Committee yesterday, complained of the lack of attention his acquiescence in the four points laid down by President Wilson as peace essentials had met from the American Executive.

The Chancellor asserted that on Feb. 22 he declared in the Reichstag his agreement in principle with the possibility of discussing a general peace on the basis of the four points of President Wilson's message of Feb. 11, but that President Wilson, neither at that time nor since, had taken no notice of the Chancellor's declaration.

Count von Hertling said he favored the formation of a league of nations, the promotion of universal, successive disarmament in equal proportions, the establishment of obligatory courts of arbitration, the freedom of the seas, and the protection of small nations.

In discussing the military situation, he declared that the submarine warfare was slowly but surely diminishing allied tonnage.

"Above all," he said, "it is restricting the transportation of reinforcements of men and material from the United States."

War Prepared by King Edward.

"We have never concealed the fact," said Chancellor von Hertling, "that all thoughts of conquest were far from our minds, but how do things stand on the opposite side? If one credits the utterances of the enemy, official and unofficial, they only desire to repel a Germany which in criminal arrogance is striving for world hegemony; to fight for freedom and justice against German imperialism and Prussian militarism.

"We know better. The world war was prepared years ago by the well-known encircling policy of King Edward. In France there arose extensive war literature which referred to impending war with Germany. Austria-Hungary's influence in the Balkans was to be eliminated. The Russian expansion movement and the Pan-Slavic idea demanded it.

"The match was not put to the powder by the Prussian military party, but, while the German Emperor was, up to the last moment, endeavoring to preserve peace, the Russian military party put through the mobilization against the will of the weak Czar, and thereby made war unavoidable.

"The official account of the Sukhomlinoff trial made this clear to every one who desired to see. We can look calmly forward to the judgment of posterity. For the present, it is true, those who are in power in the enemy countries have succeeded, by an unparalleled campaign of lies and calumny, in obscuring the truth. When a result was not obtained by the spoken or written word, it was achieved by pictorial representations—productions of absolutely devilish fantasy, from which one turns with horror and disgust. But the object has been attained. A hatred has been raised amongst the enemy populations against the Central Powers, and particularly against Germany—a hatred which eschews all moderation and chokes off all just judgment.

"You have all read Premier Clemenceau's last speech, a speech which seemed, in its fanatical hatred and the coarseness of mind displayed, to surpass anything hitherto achieved. But in America it found a most jubilant echo, as is proved by the pronouncements that are reaching our ears from across the ocean.

War Fury in United States.

"The wildest war fury is at present raging in the United States. The people are intoxicated with the idea that America must bring the blessings of modern liberal culture to the enslaved peoples of Central Europe, while at the same time they are rejoicing at the many millions of dollars which the war armaments are causing to flow into the pockets of the business men.

"Theory and practice are two different things. The old proverb of the mote in another's eye and the beam in one's own finds constant application in the machinations of the Entente. They are never tired of condemning our march into Belgium, but they pass over the oppression of Greece, the interference with that country's internal affairs, and the enforced abdication of its King as if they were matters of course. They assert that they are fighting to protect oppressed nations, but the century-old sorrows and the justifiable grievances of Ireland nowhere find a hearing, not even in America, where the people are acquainted with them through the numerous Irish immigrants. The British Government, which is especially fond of talking of right and justice, recently found it compatible with those principles to recognise the conglomerate rabble of Czechoslovaks as a belligerent power.

"How will the German people have to meet that? Will it, forsooth beg for mercy in fear and trembling? No, gentlemen; remembering its great past and its still greater mission in the future, it will stand erect and not cringe or grovel.

"The situation is serious, but it gives us no ground for deep depression. The iron wall of the western front is not broken, and the U-boat is slowly but surely fulfilling its task of diminishing tonnage, thus above all increasingly menacing and restricting reinforcements of men and material from the United States.

"The hour will come, because it must come, when our enemies will see reason and be ready to make an end of the war before half the world is converted into a heap of ruins and the flower of its manly strength lies dead on the battlefield."

Calls Germans to be Resolute.

Count von Hertling said it was the business of the Germans to stand together, cool, confident, united and resolute, with their one aim the protection of the fatherland, its independence, and its freedom of movement. There was no antagonism, he declared, between the Government and the people. The former only desired to work with and for the nation. Alluding to the differences of opinion on political matters, the Chancellor said:

"The period after the war will also confront us with new domestic problems. As I know that the prevailing discontent is not influenced alone by the sufferings and worries of war time, but also by quite definite cares and grievances of a political nature, I will make some brief remarks on the subject.

"Since taking on my shoulders the heavy burden of the Chancellorship I have always endeavored energetically to carry out what was still lacking in this respect. I am, of course, alluding to that great Reform bill, which, it is true, does not fall within the jurisdiction of the Reichstag, but nevertheless engages political circles in Germany far beyond the Prussian frontiers."

Count von Hertling asserted that the Prussian Government was firmly resolved to have the bill accepted, and to that end it would not hesitate to use any means constitutionally available. He begged his hearers to remember that this question was one of a far-reaching alteration in the historical structure of the Prussian State and that it would be unfair if the representatives of the old order did not have opportunity to defend their standpoint in Parliament.

There must be no question of procrastination, the Chancellor said.

"Should we, however," he continued, "not succeed in attaining our contemplated aim by parliamentary debate, then another way, indicated by the Constitution, will be pursued."

Overtures for Peace.

Referring to the question of peace, the Chancellor said that humanity shuddered at the thought that this war might bring others, and the question was engaging the attention of more people as to the possibility of creating an organization amongst peace-needing nations which would "set right in the place of might and a peaceful solution instead of sanguinary battles."

"As is known," the Chancellor proceeded, "the President of the United States laid down in fourteen points the guiding lines for a conclusion of peace. On Jan. 24 of this year I discussed in your committee all these points, and, regarding the last, remarked that the idea of a league of nations as suggested had my entire sympathy on the condition that an honest will to peace and the recognition of the equal rights of all States of the League were guaranteed. How necessary was this reservation was shown by the statements of our enemies, who in a league of nations thought of an alliance directed against Germany and her allies.

"President Wilson in a message on Feb. 11 took a further step in the same direction and laid down four points, or principles, which in his opinion should be applied in an exchange of views. In my Reichstag speech of Feb. 22, I declared myself in principle in agreement with the possibility of discussing a general peace on such a basis. President Wilson, however, has neither then nor since taken any notice of it.

"Meanwhile, the former idealist and zealous friend of peace seems to have developed into the head of the American imperialists. But the plan of a league of nations yet to be established is not to be discredited by such an action. It has found eloquent advocates in the Swiss President and the Norwegian Premier, Knudsen, both of whom dwell especially on the interest of neutral States in such an institution. I also do not hesitate to express my opinion again today on this question and to indicate publicly the aim and basis of such an association. It is a question of promoting universal, equal and successive disarmament, the establishment of obligatory courts of arbitration, freedom of the seas and the protection of small nations.

"Regarding the first point, on Feb. 24, I described the idea of restriction of armaments as thoroughly discussable, adding that the financial position of all the European States after the war would give the most effective support to a solution of this question.

"Regarding the question of arbitration, my standpoint has long been history. I will not go into details, but interesting material which I have before me shows that Germany in the past repeatedly suggested arbitration of disputed questions, the carrying out of which in several cases, however, was prevented by opposition raised in Great Britain or America. If an international understanding could be reached that disputed questions of law between various States must always be submitted to arbitration courts, and if this were made obligatory for members of a league of nations, it would undoubtedly be an important step toward the attainment of the general aim. More precise prescriptions, especially regarding requisite guarantees for the recognition of verdicts made by arbitration, need careful and thorough consideration.

"I have expressed myself before on the question of freedom of the seas, which forms a necessary prerequisite for the unrestricted intercourse of States and peoples. Here, however, the greatest difficulties, naturally, are not raised on our side. On a former occasion I pointed out that there must be unhindered access for all nations to the inland seas, no predominant position of Great Britain at Gibraltar and Malta and in the Suez Canal. An English newspaper has called this impudence.

"Finally, there is the protection of small nations. Here we can forthwith and without reserve state that in this matter we have an entirely clear conscience. May, therefore, a league of nations be no mere dream of the future, may the idea deepen and may the people of all countries zealously concern themselves with the means for its establishment. The first and most important prerequisite will be an energetic will to champion peace and justice.

"Here I will close my remarks. The Foreign Secretary will deal with the political situation in more detail and discuss especially in that connection the well-known Austrian note and the reception it has met with up to this time on the part of the enemy.

"Those in power in the so-called democratic States have with precipitance and without consulting their peoples exhibited a curt attitude of rejection. By so doing they once again show where the passion for conquest, where imperialism and militarism are in reality to be sought."

WASHINGTON NOT IMPRESSED.

Sees in Hertling's Speech Mainly a Move in Peace Offensive.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—There was just one thing in Chancellor von Hertling's speech which interested American officials. It was his frank and open admission of the seriousness of the internal situation in Germany.

Following so closely upon the formal declaration by the Social Democrats of the conditions upon which their party would consent to participate in the Government, the speech was regarded as intended primarily for internal consumption in Germany. It is regarded as part of a plan to persuade the Socialists to come to the aid of the Government in its grave straits by demonstrating that there are no substantial differences of principle between their party and the Government. The marked similarity between the statements made by von Hertling regarding the basis of peace and those principles laid down by the Socialists at once was noticed.

When attention was directed to von Hertling's statement that he had had no response from the United States to his proposal last February to accept in principle the conditions of peace laid down by President Wilson, officials pointed out that the President himself had effectually exposed the insincerity of von Hertling's proposal when, in his Baltimore speech, he pointed to the crime against Russia as a sufficient reason for rejecting any offer to discuss peace "Brest-Litovsk fashion." Furthermore, it was declared that there could be no talk of peace until the last German and Austrian soldier had been withdrawn or driven from the occupied territory.

The disinclination of the Government to regard the speech otherwise than as the latest move in the German peace offensive and as insincere and unworthy of consideration is based upon the feeling that in scarcely a single point does the Premier make an unqualified declaration of adherence to the fourteen principles laid down by President Wilson. Everywhere in his speech, officials said, there were limitations and qualifications.

Official Washington noticed the admission of the deep discontent existing among great masses of the German people. Through neutral countries have come reports of disorganization, mutiny, rioting, and desperation in Germany, but it remained for the German Chancellor himself to add the official confirmation which was wanted.

HERTLING TALK FALLS FLAT.

Greeted with Faint Applause, Mingled with Hisses.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25.—(Associated Press.)—Disappointment over Chancellor von Hertling's speech is indicated by special dispatches from Berlin. The Vossische Zeitung says that the speech received hardly any applause from the majority of those who listened to it and hisses from the minority, and that its reception leaves no doubt that at least a considerable part of the majority in the Reichstag regard his continuance in office as a hindrance to the new order of things.

Both the Vossische Zeitung and Vorwärts emphasize the need of the Government coming to an agreement with the Socialist program. Vorwärts declares that the Chancellor's speech has widened the gulf between the Socialists and the Government.

Theodor Wolff, in the Tageblatt, says that a new era is coming and that von Hertling belongs to a generation whose knell is being rung amid the cannon's thunder.

The Boersen Zeitung, the Morgen Post, the Tageszeitung, and the Täglische Rundschau all express disappointment with the utterances of the Chancellor.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The speech of Count von Hertling, the German Imperial Chancellor, before the Reichstag Main Committee made an unfavorable impression upon the Reichstag members, the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam reports. In Reichstag circles the address is considered to have been unequal to the gravity of the situation in that parliamentary body, whose parties were to meet this morning to decide upon their attitude toward the Chancellor.

The Berliner Lokal-Anzeiger says it hears authoritatively that if Count von Hertling resigns Vice Chancellor von Payer and Herr Friedberg, Vice President of the Prussian Ministry of State, will also resign.

MANY U. S. SOLDIERS MARRYING IN FRANCE

Will Stay There and Take Places of French Sons Killed in War, Says Russell.

URGES COAL SENT TO ITALY

Clemenceau Told Writer He Expected War to End Early Next Year at the Latest.

Before leaving for Washington last night, Charles Edward Russell, who has just returned from Europe, said it was desirable that the United States should send coal to Italy. The output of the shipyards in the United States, he declared, should leave a certain amount of tonnage for carrying coal. Six shiploads were sent to Italy last Winter and this, he said, saved the situation and kept the munition plants going.

When asked about the report that numbers of American soldiers were marrying French girls, he replied that from what he had heard at American headquarters the report was correct.

"Hundreds of young American soldiers are marrying in France," he said, "and the majority of them will probably settle there after the war. France welcomes them because she has lost so many young men in the conflict. It is the custom, and has been so for generations, among business men that when their time of retirement comes they turn over the business to the son and in case where there is no son or when he has been killed in battle the business is turned over to the son-in-law.

"Frenchmen who will not be able to marry their daughters to their own countrymen, and who are silicitous that the business be kept in the family, are glad to get intelligent young Americans as members of their families."

Sees War End Early in 1919.

Premier Clemenceau told him that it was his opinion the war would be over by the Spring or early Summer of 1919 unless Germany decided to ask for peace before the end of this year through internal conditions.

"When I was in London in May," Mr. Russell continued, "the outlook was very gloomy indeed and the people were expecting the Germans to make another big drive on Paris or the Channel ports. Before I left the other side twelve days ago that feeling had been completely swept away and one of entire confidence in the prospect of victory for the Allies had taken its place.

"The continuous shelling of Paris by the Germans was very disconcerting to the visitors, as well as the inhabitants, and was one of the meanest tricks the enemy has played during the war. The shells did not kill many people, compared with the population of Paris, but they did considerable damage to property.

"I was invited to luncheon at a restaurant on the Champs Elysées, which was situated on the south side of the avenue, where the shells from the 'Big Berthas' usually fell. During that meal, which lasted two hours, they dropped around the building in the most irregular way. I had to make a speech, and found that the bombardment interfered with my train of thoughts somewhat. It also seemed to affect the guests at the tables in the same manner.

Shell Fell Near Him.

"Next morning the first shell fell 600 yards west of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, on the further side of the Seine in the Latin Quarter, and the second 200 yards west of that, and the third one fell at the south entrance to the Alexander Bridge, about 200 feet from where I was standing. The other shells continued to drop further west until the last one fell near the Eiffel Tower in the grounds of the old Trocadero, and then there was a lull for two hours while the gunners had dinner, I suppose. At 2 o'clock the bombardment began again."

Mr. Russell said there was more food in Paris than there was in London. The only articles of food that there was a shortage of in France, so far as he could judge, were sugar and butter.

During his coming lecture tour on behalf of the Government, Mr. Russell said he intended to emphasize the importance of sending at least 100,000 more troops to Italy and several shiploads of coal.

CASUALTIES IN THE RAINBOW

New York and Upton Divisions Also Represented on List.

Sergeant James P. Robinson, who has been killed in action, was a veteran of the 69th and went to France as a member of Company I, 165th Infantry, Rainbow Division. Robinson, who was 22 years old, was a son of J. H. Robinson, a customs appraiser at this port.

Corporal Michael J. Shea, who died of wounds, went with the 69th to the Rainbow Division. He was wounded Aug. 1. Shea's home when he enlisted was at 250 Tenth Avenue.

Edmund Riordan, who has been killed, was of the 165th Infantry, and, like Robinson and Shea, had been in the 69th. He was a brother of Mrs. Mary Kaltwasser of 852 Ninth Avenue, and was 34 years old.

First Sergeant Theodore Wallace Todd of Company L, 107th Infantry, New York Division, was killed on Aug. 22. Todd was 29 years old. He enlisted in the old 7th Regiment eight years ago. Both his father and his grandfather were members of the 7th. Sergeant Todd, who was Treasurer of the Todd Salt Company of 409 East Eighth Street, was the only son of Perry C. Todd of 601 West 160th Street.

John William Dunn, who has been killed, was a clerk at the Hotel Hermitage when he was drafted into the Camp Upton Division last year. He was 24 years old and was one of three brothers in the army. Dunn was a member of Company H, 308th Infantry.

Edward Everett Cook, a gunner of the 76th Field Artillery, who is reported killed, was a son of John T. Cook of 45 Broadway, who is Assistant Superintendent of the Engineering Department of the Army Transport Service. Private Cook was one of two brothers who enlisted in the regular army immediately following the declaration of war.

Corporal James A. Glennon, wounded, is a son of the late Thomas Glennon of West Orange, N. J. He is 21 years old, and went overseas with the 302d Regiment of Engineers.

Daniel O'Connell, who was a son of Mrs. Mary O'Connell of 17 Eighty-sixth Street, Rockaway Beach, has been killed. He was 18 years old. In July O'Connell received the Croix de Guerre for gallantry under fire.

Elmer Johnson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johnson of North Fairview Avenue, Rockaway Beach, has been wounded. He is a gunner of Battery F, 119th Field Artillery.

Lieut. W. C. Stettinius Gassed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius, who has a cottage here, received a cable message last evening from Mr. Stettinius, who is now in France, stating that their son, Lieutenant William C. Stettinius, had been gassed in action. The message said that the lieutenant was resting in one of the front line field hospitals and his speedy recovery was expected.

FORM NEW LEAGUE AND ASSAIL KONTA

Present Loyalty Organization, Dissenting Hungarians Assert, Is "One-Man Affair."

ACTIVITIES UNDER INQUIRY

Federal Authorities Receive Charges That Membership Is Not Representative of Hungarians Here.

Allegations regarding the activities of the Hungarian-American Loyalty League, organized by Alexander Konta, with, it was charged yesterday, the approval of George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, have been filed with the Federal authorities. The persons who filed the allegations charged that the league was not representative of the great mass of citizens of Hungarian birth or extraction, of whom there are approximately 1,500,000 in the United States. Of these it was asserted that less than 25,000 are members of the organization founded by Konta.

In order to make plain the attitude of the great mass of loyal citizens of Magyar origin a new organization, to be known as the Committee for Magyar Democracy, which will work in close co-operation with the Czechoslovak and Jugoslav organizations in America, has been organized. A meeting of those interested in the new committee was held yesterday and a statement was issued in which it was charged that the Hungarian-American Loyalty League was working against the Czechoslovak movement, and also that certain foreign-language newspapers which are now supporting the league were, before this country entered the war, among the most bitterly antagonistic to President Wilson and the Government printed in this country.

Letter from Creel Quoted.

It is also charged that Marcus Braun, who sold his pro-German weekly known as Fair Play to Bernstorff, and Geza D. Berko, the last named the editor and publisher of the formerly pro-German Hungarian paper known as the Amerikai Magyar Nepszava, are prominent members of the Konta organization. In support of the charge that Berko is prominent in the movement a letter which Mr. Creel sent to Mr. Berko on the occasion of a dinner that was given in honor of Mr. Konta and the "20,000th member of the Loyalty League," at the Hotel Astor on Aug. 5, last, was cited. The letter from Mr. Creel to Mr. Berko was as follows:

My Dear Mr. Berko: I am sorry beyond measure that another engagement prevents me from accepting your invitation to the dinner in honor of Mr. Alexander Konta. Nothing would have delighted me more than to be present to join in the deserved tribute to the President of the American Hungarian Loyalty League, for he has been a power of strength to the work I am conducting. As much as any one man in the country, he has made the hyphen a badge of loyalty instead of a sign of disaffection.

Believe me very sincerely,
GEORGE CREEL.

Among those who attended the meeting of the new Magyar committee yesterday were the Rev. Dr. Frank Kovacs, pastor of the First Hungarian Church of Newark; Dr. Frank Kovacs of 223 East Sixty-eighth Street, Ernest Mandell, editor of the Magyar Munkaslap (Hungarian Workingmen's Weekly), and Eugene S. Bagger. Dr. Kovacs said after the meeting that notwithstanding activities which had continued since February last, Konta and those associated with him had been unable to get more than 20,000 members for the Loyalty League.

"The great mass of Hungarians in America," said Dr. Kovacs, "have not responded because certain features of the organization failed to appeal to them. The citizens of Hungarian blood have looked upon the organization as a one-man affair, which is opposed to the democratization of Hungary and is also out of sympathy with the Czechoslovak movement."

Committee's Attitude Explained.

Following the meeting Mr. Bagger, who is secretary of the committee, issued in the name of the committee a statement, in part as follows:

"A summary of facts relating to the pro-German activities of the so-called Hungarian Loyalty League, of which Mr. Konta seems still to be President, was placed about three weeks ago before military intelligence officers in this city. An extensive memorandum on the same subject, including a list of a large number of exhibits, was given last Thursday to a prominent American engaged in work on behalf of the oppressed nationalities of Austria-Hungary, who was asked to submit the memorandum to the proper authorities in Washington.

"A thorough analysis of all the campaign speeches, articles and advertisements fails to disclose any constructive idea as to the ways in which the league proposes to enlist the aid of Hungarian-Americans in the fight against the Hapsburgs and Teuton-Magyar junker tyranny.

"On the other hand, the league was working directly against the war aims of America and her allies by preaching to Hungarians the Magyar jingoistic doctrine of the 'thousand-year-old Magyar national state,' which is the well-known euphonism used by pro-German propagandists for junker rule and the oppression of the non-Magyar races. Moreover, Mr. Konta was working hard to foster distrust and hatred between Magyars in this country and the representatives of the Czechoslovaks and Jugoslavs.

"In a speech made before the league members at Chicago on March 17 of this year, Mr. Konta harangued in fierce terms against 'our real enemy,' the Slovak League. Even as late as Aug. 8, in an address at a banquet given in his honor at the Hotel Astor, Mr. Konta indulged in a violent outburst against the Czechoslovaks and urged Hungarians to enlist in the league in large numbers and thereby enable him to combat Czechoslovak influence at Washington.

"Mr. Konta also carried his warfare into the 'enemy' camp, by conducting intrigue among the Slovaks themselves. He endeavored to disrupt Czechoslovak unity by recruiting members for the Hungarian Loyalty League among the Slovaks.

"These assertions, supported by ample evidence, are now being incorporated in a pamphlet and will be published in the nearest future. The pamphlet will show that what may be called a Pan Hungarian propaganda, directed against America and her allies, still persists in this country as part of the activities of German sympathizers.

"It will be the aim of the Committee on Magyar Democracy to counteract these insidious activities, to conduct an educational campaign among Hungarian-Americans as to the war aims of America and her allies, and to establish co-operation with the representatives of the Czechoslovaks and Jugoslavs for helping to destroy the tyranny of the Hapsburgs and the Austro-Magyar junkers. The work of organization has already begun, and a press bureau for Magyar democracy will be established in this city to conduct publicity and educational work for the cause."

Relative to the views of Mr. Berko, the publisher of the Nepszava, various quotations from editorials which have appeared in his paper since the outbreak of the war were made public by the new Magyar Committee.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1914, the Nepszava printed the following announcement:

We American Magyars cannot celebrate this day, for we have to think of those who are facing death with a smile for victory's sake. Let us pray for those who are defending our fatherland with their blood, the Magyar land. We will celebrate Thanksgiving after the great victory.

On Jan. 15, 1915, Mr. Berko's paper, printed, under the title "British America," an editorial in the course of which it said:

To be absolutely sure, we looked over the "History of the American People," whose author is Wilson, and in it we found in black and white that on the Fourth of July, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was signed, and since that day the United States ceased to be a British colony. It seems that history made a grave mistake with this statement. It did not look into the future and didn't count with the fact that after 140 years times came which will degrade the United States into a colony of England. * * * Something must be done, and that without delay, too, for if the American Government can bear even this, then it should—in order to avoid mistakes—at least change the name of this country's firm by making the letters "U. S." disappear and substituting the word "British."

In commenting on the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, among the victims of which were two American citizens, the Nepszava in its issue of Aug. 23, 1915, among other things, said:

Many, many thousand German soldiers have already been killed by the munitions which the Arabic for months has been carrying from America to England. Many thousand German women were made widows, still more thousands of German children made orphans, and she (the Arabic) would have continued this business when a German submarine appeared and shot a torpedo into her sinful body. * * * The German submarine could not take into consideration these two Americans. The German submarine saw only the Arabic—the infamous ship which became famous by its transportation of munitions, and which already had killed so many thousand German soldiers. This Arabic was sent to the bottom of the sea by the German torpedo, and now a trial is being held against Germany. Let them listen to the American press demanding retaliation; let them treat Germany as they treated Frank in Georgia. Get the rope! Lynch her! This is customary in America, for America is a country of humanity, justice, and liberty.

On Sept. 27 the Nepszava printed an editorial denouncing the Government for expelling Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, who, it said, was punished and humiliated because "he represented the interests of his country so faithfully, and that, according to his own estimation, he fulfilled his duty."

In this same editorial President Wilson was referred to as the head of a nation "in whose Cabinet there is not a single statesman of any account."

Other editorials defended Austria for sinking the Ancona. On Dec. 31 in the Nepszava Mr. Berko announced that he had just bought 50 000 crowns' worth of bonds of the third Magyar war loan.

TO PREVENT WIRETAPPING.

House Passes Measure to Make It a Federal Offense.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Wiretapping, interference with the delivery of telegraph messages, and embezzlement or theft of funds from telegraph and telephone companies, while they are under Government control, are made offenses against the Federal Government under an Administration bill passed today by the House and sent to the Senate. Such offenses now are punishable only under State laws.

The bill provides five years' imprisonment for embezzlement or the theft of funds or other property belonging to telegraph and telephone companies, and a fine of one year's imprisonment for wiretapping or cutting or interfering with the delivery of messages.

Fewer Restrictions on Army Photographs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Restrictions on the taking of photographs in army camps and cantonments were modified today so that ordinary pictures may be taken with permission from the commanding intelligence officer of the post. Arsenals, forts, trenches or armories may not be photographed, and in any case where it appears that secrecy should be observed, the photographer must obtain permission from the Director of Military Intelligence and send the pictures to his office for censorship. Heretofore it has been necessary to get a permit from the Committee on Public Information to use a camera at the camps.

Kopf Called in Army Draft.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Sept. 25.—William L. Kopf, former short stop on the Cincinnati National League team, was notified today that he has been drafted for the National Army. He will go to Camp Greenleaf, Ga., on Oct. 10.

BRISBANE TO BE A WITNESS.

Likely to be Called by Senators Investigating Palmer's Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee appointed to investigate the charge of A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, that brewing interests purchased The Washington Times will confer tomorrow at the Capitol upon the return of its Chairman, Senator Overman of North Carolina.

There is a division of opinion in the committee as to the advisability of delving into the intimations of pro-German influence among certain newspapers throughout the country. Some Senators believe that the matter was sufficiently exploited during the recent investigation conducted by Senator King. The subcommittee will decide tomorrow the exact scope of its inquiry.

The Palmer charges are to be sifted to the bottom in regard to the brewers financing of The Washington Times and the inference that a pro-German influence was exerted upon that newspaper. Mr. Palmer is expected to be called as a witness. Later on Mr. Brisbane, editor of The Washington Times, probably will be asked to appear before the Senators.

YOUR BABY!

First of a Series About Little Tots' Apparel

YOU wonder if ever so much fuss was made about a Baby's coming—you are sure your coming created no such furor, but then, you reflect, your Mother had gotten used to Babies by the time you came along, whereas this is your first, and, of course, different from every other Baby in the world.

And as you busy yourself with the hundred and one little items of preparation, you plan in superlatives—

Your Baby Shall Have the Tenderest Care,
Your Baby Shall Be the Best Dressed,
Your Baby Shall Carry Off the Honors at School,
Your Baby Shall Swim, Dance, Skate and Be More Accomplished Than Any Other,
Your Baby Shall Be—well, who can tell? Lincoln was born in a log cabin and Jeanne d'Arc was a peasant girl!

So, everything sums itself up into the simple phrase—

THE BEST THAT YOU CAN AFFORD IS NOT TOO GOOD FOR YOUR BABY

And, do you know, that's what we think, too? We take a tremendous interest in that Baby of yours—we've made the most elaborate plans for his arrival, we don't believe we've overlooked a single thing, and because we've been helping prospective mothers so long to get just the right things and everything that the Baby will need—don't you think we may be able to help you? We'd love to.

Come in and Chat With Us About the Layette and Bassinet and All the Other Paraphernalia.

No matter what you want for Baby you're sure to find it here at a price lower than elsewhere.

SCHWAB AND HURLEY DENY ANY FRICTION

Report That Chairman Offered Resignation After a Row Is Called Utterly Untrue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Official denials were issued by the White House and the United States Shipping Board today that there was a vestige of truth in a report, published this afternoon in a New York newspaper that Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board, had tendered his resignation to President Wilson following a quarrel with Charles M. Schwab, Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, over the future policy concerning the construction of wooden ships.

As soon as Mr. Hurley heard of the publication of the story he got in touch with Mr. Schwab at Philadelphia by telephone. Both were amazed at the report and neither could determine its origin.

"There has not been a single difference between us," Mr. Hurley told the newspaper correspondents today. "This statement I make is true in every particular. We have had no disagreement on policy as to the construction of wood, steel, or any other type of ship. We have been pulling together with but one object in view—to give the nation as many ships as can possibly be produced.

"We are a happy family. I have known Charley Schwab for twenty years and we have never had the slightest trouble. He is the happiest man you ever saw in the work he is doing. My resignation has not been tendered and the report is too ridiculous to consider. I cannot make the denial too strong."

Mr. Hurley said that he had heard but two suggestions concerning the origin of the story, that it was the result either of politics or of German propaganda.

"I confess," he said, "I can't see where politics can come in. The whole thing is really amazing and would be most unfortunate but for the fact that we are able to put an end to such reports at once. If they were permitted to remain in circulation they might well hurt ship production because men in the yards cannot give their best efforts if they believe those who are directing the work are at odds.

"All of us have been trying to do our best for the country and to place the credit for what may be accomplished where that credit is deserved. The Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation are going ahead in that spirit, and there never was a finer organization of men. That is the spirit which we are putting into the shipyards, too, and there isn't going to be any friction anywhere, if any of us can prevent it."

Officials of the Shipping Board today pointed out that the entire organization was now in better working order than at any other time since the United States entered the war and that the board hoped to make a record for the year which would meet the predictions even of the most optimistic.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 25.—Charles M. Schwab, Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, in a formal statement tonight denied as "utterly untrue and unfounded" reports of a disagreement between himself and Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board. He said he had nothing but words of commendation for all that Mr. Hurley has done in the great shipbuilding undertaking.

You'll never need to ask "What is the price?" when the shoe salesman is showing you W.L.Douglas shoes because the actual value is determined and the retail price fixed at the factory before W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom. The stamped price is W. L. Douglas personal guarantee that the shoes are always worth the price paid for them.

Stamping the price on every pair of shoes as a protection against high prices and unreasonable profits is only one example of the constant endeavor of W. L. Douglas to protect his customers. W. L. Douglas name on shoes is his pledge that they are the best in materials, workmanship and style possible to produce at the price. Into every pair go the results of sixty-six years experience in making shoes, dating back to the time when W.L. Douglas was a lad of seven, pegging shoes.

The quality of W.L. Douglas product is guaranteed by more than 40 years experience in making fine shoes. The smart styles are the leaders in the fashion centres of America. They are made in a well-equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the direction and supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York.

How a Woman Novelist Keeps House

IF you ask Eleanor Hallowell Abbott how she manages to keep house and at the same time write sparkling stories that make eyes twinkle and hearts grow tender, she will answer:

"I'm not just keeping house—I'm keeping FARM! Hayfields as well as rooms to be swept, and an eight-acre hill-top of war crops that's harder to dust than even my work room mantelpiece!"

In the October Woman's Home Companion she tells how she does it, and describes her every-day, pen-in-hand and duster-in-hand life.

AND this story of her, appears in the same issue as a new story by her, "Old Dad," a very real and living story, strongly reminiscent of the charm of "Molly Make Believe."

It is published in two long installments, the first of which appears in the October Companion. It's a humorous, tender tale that ripples lightly along, but is based on the significant things of life.

For women everywhere are in search of the significant. And the Woman's Home Companion is giving it to them: the significant in fiction, in fashion, in food preparation; the things that really count in the home, such as:

How to make a before-the-war pay envelope cover the prices of today;

How to buy food;

How to cook food—not just how to get it ready for the table, but how to cook it so that you will be hungry for it;

How to make a cheerless home comfortable and inviting, at small cost;

How to find happiness in home-making, child-rearing and progress building; and

How to help with the nation's war work in addition to all these.

"But are these the really significant things?" you ask.

These are the only truly significant things. For no matter what a woman may do in addition, her home comes first—especially in these days when women are become the keepers of absent soldiers' homes, the Home Guard of the great American Army.

THESE truly significant things offer all the thrills of romance, beauty and duty that the world can yield a woman. They are the basis of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION

SENATORS TO VOTE ON SUFFRAGE TODAY

Fate of Susan B. Anthony Amendment Hangs in Balance on Eve of Final Test.

BOTH SIDES ARE CONFIDENT

But All Concede That Result Will Be Close—Women Throng Capitol to Push Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Unless a filibuster develops, the Senate will vote tomorrow upon the Susan B. Anthony woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution. Leaders among the suffrage proponents and those opposing it said tonight they were ready to have the resolution put to the test vote. The prospects appear favorable that the measure will be brought up for final disposition.

Both sides in the suffrage fight tonight claimed the advantage in votes. The anti-suffrage Senators insisted that they have 33 votes, or one more than would be necessary to defeat the resolution. The suffrage Senators, however, declared that they have mustered sufficient support to put the resolution through by a margin of at least three votes. It is conceded that the result will be close.

In anticipation of the fight tomorrow leaders among the National American Woman Suffrage Association besieged the offices of Senators, putting in their last efforts to win the fight. Tomorrow they are to go in imposing force to the Senate, where one gallery has been reserved for them. Among the women who will appear to witness the proceedings are Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York, Miss Lucy Burns of Brooklyn, Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer of Connecticut, Mrs. George Day and Mrs. Toscan Bennett of Hartford, Mrs. Agnes Morey of Brookline, Mass.; Miss Mary Ingham of Philadelphia, and Mrs. J. A. H. Hopkins of New Jersey.

The suffragists, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the national association, left a long roll of parchment, one foot and a half in diameter, with Senator Jones of New Mexico, Chairman of the Woman Suffrage Committee, during the day. It contained copies of resolutions passed by suffrage organizations throughout the country urging the adoption of the Susan B. Anthony resolution and the names of some hundreds of thousands of suffragist petitioners.

Mrs. Catt also called upon Vice President Marshall to impress upon him that the majority of the women of the country wanted the resolution adopted.

"We have given conclusive proof that there is a great demand for woman suffrage throughout the nation," said Mrs. Catt. "The adoption of this suffrage amendment has been advocated by Legislatures and political parties in the States. If it were possible, under the action of the various States, woman suffrage would become a reality without this amendment. But we must have it, and as a part of the Constitution. That is why we have come to Congress. The entire world has its eyes upon Congress, as the accepted leader of democracy, to give women this right."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25, (Associated Press.)—Both sides in the Senate woman suffrage fight predicted tonight that there would be only brief debate on the resolution and that a vote would be reached. Both sides were equally confident of victory. The opponents of the measure privately expressed complete confidence that they had enough votes to defeat the resolution and thus prevent any further action on equal suffrage until the Sixty-sixth Congress convenes in December, 1919.

Final arrangements for tomorrow's contest were made today, with negotiations for pairing of absent Senators and campaigning by both factions.

Preparations have been made for handling a capacity crowd in the Senate galleries. Admission will be by special card only, with sections of the galleries allotted to organizations advocating and opposing the resolution. Each Senator has four admission tickets, but the demand far exceeded the supply. Displaying of banners and other demonstrations in the Senate galleries will be prohibited.

In anticipation of a vote, many Senators who have been out of town arrived today, and more are due tomorrow, some on late trains, which may hold off the roll call. Only a few speeches are planned by Senators favoring the resolution, but plans of the opponents were not announced.

ANTIS AROUSE SUFFRAGISTS

Mrs. Harper Criticises Statements Made in an Advertisement.

Prominent suffragists in New York yesterday criticised severely statements made in an advertisement inserted by the anti-suffragists in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday morning.

"It is full of misstatements and contradictions, and every paragraph could be answered if one could be given the space to do so," said Mrs. Ida Husted Harper. "In the first place, not one of the quotations made from 'suffrage papers' are from the papers of the great army of conservative suffragists, but from the organs of the militants who represent the merest handful of women. In speaking of suffrage defeats they simply quote the figures of the majority and do not say that the suffragists received from 46 to 48 per cent. of the total vote, and they do not say that some of these States were later carried for suffrage. When they speak of the interference with the rights of the 'people'—and in the first few lines they use that word eight times—they never once mean really the 'people' but the men."

"In their advertisement the anti-suffragists speak of the suffragists in connection with lobbying as if they were some base creatures working for selfish purposes," said Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, acting State Chairman of the Woman Suffrage Party. "Lobbying has come to be used in connection with special interests represented in the halls of legislative bodies. Woman suffrage is not a special interest. Woman suffrage is a great movement for human betterment. Women who have gone to Albany and Washington in its interest have gone for service along social and humanitarian lines as representatives of a great popular constituency of organized women. In New York State the Woman Suffrage Party is larger than any other one social or political body, and the women whom the anti-suffragists call lobbyists are its dignified representatives doing a great and legitimate work usually at much personal sacrifice to themselves."

PROTEST OVER HIGH RENTS.

Cooper Union Meeting Asks Nation to Take Up Housing Problem.

Members of the Tenants' League and others attended a meeting in Cooper Union last night to voice the protest of the organization against the rise in rents. Among the speakers advertised for the meeting were Dudley Field Malone, Jonathan Day, Commissioner of Markets; Edward F. Riegelmann, President of Brooklyn Borough; Charles W. Erving, Socialist candidate for Governor; Congressman Meyer London, and several more, but none of these appeared and few sent excuses.

A. H. Howland of The New York Call presided, and those who finally spoke were: Assemblyman Samuel Orr of the Bronx, August Hoeberman, Morris Gesnit, attorney for the league, and Joseph Klein, a Brooklyn candidate for Assembly.

Assemblyman Orr said that the only reason the landlords were able to "pile on rents" on the tenants was because the landlords, as he asserted, were organized, and they saw to it that no laws unfavorable to their business were passed at Albany.

Before the meeting adjourned, resolutions were adopted and copies ordered sent to President Wilson, to Governor Whitman and to Mayor Hylan, urging each of them to use his official influence to bring about legislation for the appointment of a Government commission which should have full power to regulate rates of rentals, on the theory that "houses are as much public utilities as the railroads."

ATTACKS McADOO FOR POLITICS RULING

Indiana Congressman Cites the Brotherhoods' Protest as Being Well Founded.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Representative Wood of Indiana, speaking in the House today, said representatives of the four railway brotherhoods had filed a protest with Director General McAdoo against the order prohibiting railroad employes from participating in politics.

The order, Mr. Wood maintained, was in violation of the rights of employes as citizens, and in contrast to the political activities of the leaders of the Administration. He criticised another ruling of the railroad administration, which, he said, prohibited railroad men from having an interest in co-operative stores. Discussing the Railway Wage Adjustment Board, he declared it had no representative of employes, and in effect took away the right of collective bargaining.

"The railroad men are unable to understand," Mr. Wood said, "why they should be prohibited from accepting designations as party organization officials, especially when the Secretary of War, with all of his great responsibilities, seeks and accepts election as a member of the Democratic State Committee in Ohio, and when no less than four members of the present Cabinet have written campaign letters indorsing the Tammany candidate for Governor of New York."

Declaring that he had seen no mention in the newspapers concerning the brotherhood's protest, Mr. Wood said:

"Another thing which seems to have escaped the press is the decision of Federal Judge Evans at Louisville, Ky., rendered a few days ago, in which it is held that the Secretary of the Treasury is acting in usurpation of authority in taking over railways, because the law authorizes the Secretary of War only to do this thing, purely as a war measure."

OUTLOOK PLEASES SMITH.

Asserts Party Is United Where There Was Dissension.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 25.—"Since I left New York on Sunday night I have been very much encouraged at the outlook," said Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for Governor, here tonight. "I find the party united in places where there has been dissension for years. I also find a great deal of dissatisfaction with the Administration at Albany.

"I am particularly well pleased with the reception I have received at the hands of the women. It contradicts the Republican propaganda that is seeking to establish that the women are inclined to the Republican ticket."

The Democratic candidate arrived here at midnight Tuesday and planned to leave early this morning for Potsdam, where he was scheduled to deliver a speech at the fair. Upon arising this morning, however, he discovered that his throat was in bad condition and, fearing that he might catch a severe cold which would interfere with his campaign, he decided to cancel the Potsdam engagement. He remained here all day and conferred with many of the county leaders as well as a few from St. Lawrence and Lewis Counties who motored here upon hearing that Mr. Smith was to remain all day.

Mr. Smith attended a public reception this evening which was arranged by the County Committee and met many of the Democratic voters, a large percentage of which were the newly enfranchised voters.

will not expend a penny to be elected. A purchased place would be a tainted, worthless bauble. It must be the free choice of a free people.

The letter was an unexpected feature of the convention, called to adopt a platform for the campaign and to nominate candidates for various State offices below Lieutenant Governor. The candidates chosen without a contest are: For Secretary of State, G. A. Masselink, Big Rapids; for Attorney-General, James H. Baker, of Adrian; for State Treasurer, Richard Powell, of Iron Mountain; for Auditor-General, C. Keith Jakeway, of Rockford.

Despite Mr. Ford's statement that he had accepted the Senatorial nomination without specific obligations of any kind, the convention adopted resolutions pledging complete support to his candidacy. Undivided support to the Democratic National Administration and the woman suffrage amendment, which will come before the voters at the November election, also was pledged.

Congressman Frank E. Doremus presided as Temporary Chairman at the convention and in his address urged subordination of politics to the winning of the war.

"Whether those who are conducting an offensive to capture the political base of supplies will have it so or not," he said, "the people themselves have adjourned politics."

Severe denunciation was voiced by the speaker of "those who seek to ride to power by embarrassing and harassing the commander in chief of the army and navy." He referred to them as "auxiliary enemy snipers firing in the rear of the Administration."

"They should be given short shrift by the American people," he continued. "To them we say in the language of Lloyd George, answering similar attacks in Great Britain: 'In this hour of peril, for God's sake stop sniping.'"

Mr. Doremus commended to the voters this year the words of two former wartime Presidents urging that there be no break in the ranks lest a refusal to sustain the President be regarded in the eyes of the nation's antagonists as a refusal to sustain the war.

"It is my conviction," he said in conclusion, "that the American people in November will not give heart to our antagonists nor furnish them with a gleam of hope."

The resolutions condemned the campaign expenditures of Truman H. Newberry, Republican candidate for Senator, as being "in gross violation of the spirit and letter of the law."

Call Rabbi Hirschberg to Army.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Rabbi Abram Hirschberg, who has been minister of Temple Sholom, one of the leading Jewish synagogues of this city for twenty years, has received a call from the War Department for chaplain service in the army. The congregation has given him an indefinite leave of absence and he leaves for Louisville next week.

MURPHY TO STAY AWAY.

McCooey, Too, Will Be Absent from Syracuse Notification Meeting.

Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy did not leave for Syracuse yesterday afternoon, though his railroad ticket had been bought and Pullman reservation made. Friends said on Tuesday that he would leave at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, so as to be in time for conferences of Democratic leaders prior to the notification ceremony this evening, when Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee for Governor, is to sound the keynote of the Democratic campaign in his speech of acceptance before an audience of up-State Democrats.

It was learned yesterday, also, that while the entire Democratic State Committee, of which both Murphy and his Brooklyn lieutenant, John H. McCooey, are members, had been summoned to Syracuse for notification, Mr. McCooey, too, will be on the list of absentees. None of the workers at Tammany Hall would comment yesterday on the change in Tammany Leader Murphy's plans.

ARMY OF STUDENTS BEGINS WAR WORK

Local Colleges and Professional Schools Open for Training Under Military Rule.

CAMPUS TURNED TO CAMP

Dean Stone and Prof. Woodbridge at Columbia, and Chancellor Brown at New York, Draw Lessons of War.

Opening exercises were held yesterday at Columbia University, at New York University and other local colleges, which have been reorganized until now they are in the main military institutions. Several thousand students are now registered in these Students' Army Training Schools.

In his opening address, characterizing the changes which had taken place in American university life, Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of New York University said in part:

"This university, in its centres at Bellevue and here at the Heights, will in a few days be organized on a war footing. The greater part of our students here will be soldiers, under military orders. Our campus is already an encampment of the National Army. The higher teaching of our Training Corps will find its models and its inspiration on every page of the reports from the front.

"American universities are directing their whole strength toward the winning of the war. All else is secondary, but all else is not therefore negligible. Your studies will be largely directed to the immediate and paramount end of military victory, but they are to serve at the same time the more distant end of the new American citizenship and the new world citizenship.

"Two recommendations that I have made repeatedly in the past seem more than ever pertinent at this time and I should like to repeat them with redoubled emphasis. The first is, that our Government shall now make a general and searching inquiry into the needs of American education for the period following the war.

"The second is that, in this university, and in other universities, there shall be established departments of international affairs, which shall conduct instruction and research in the whole field of our international relations—commercial, political, scientific, and, in the large sense, spiritual."

While students who are to be trained for the army were having their finger prints taken in the gymnasium at Columbia, the opening exercises were held in St. Paul's Chapel. President Butler was confined to his home with a cold. In his stead, the greeting to new students was delivered by Dr. Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, Dean of the Faculty of Philosophy.

Dean Harlan F. Stone of the Columbia Law Faculty, in the address of the day, made a plea for intellectual freedom, and asserted that the servility of public sentiment in Germany was to be traced largely to the repression of academic freedom there.

"But a freedom from restraint or control," Dr. Stone continued, "carries with it responsibilities, which, if not self-imposed, should be imposed by the force of enlightened university opinion. No university professor can dissociate himself from the institution of which he is a part.

"He gains the ear of the public because he wears the university's mantle and so long as he wears it, a sense of loyalty and propriety will cause him to restrain from word or act which will make his university the subject of unseemly controversy, or lower the respect to which it is entitled as a public institution charged with important duties and responsibilities.

"Especially do I hold to the opinion that the university professor should voluntarily renounce the rôle of the propagandist and the agitator. The university stands for scientific truth. Its attitude, if it would preserve its influence, must never be that of the partisan, but rather that of the judicially minded. The university professor, in acting the part of the agitator, inevitably subjects the university as well as himself to attack in a controversy in which it can with propriety take no part and to which it is powerless to offer a defense.

"In other words, the university professor, like the cleric and the judge, must give up some freedom of action because of his position—a restriction which is not imposed by law or any formal rule or requirement, but which will be induced by a clear perception of the ethical obligations of his position, and controlling by both a sound common sense and a delicate sense of propriety."

Dr. Frederick Tilney, Professor of Neurology, who spoke at the opening of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, said:

"For a long while Germany has been the centre of medical learning, but for fifteen or twenty years she has undergone a gradual loss of the power of independent decision, as the nation developed its paranoic ideas of world dominion and became subordinated by the military power and the influence of a ruler who exploited the national weakness.

"Under such conditions, medical science ceased to progress and stagnated in a country where, not originality of thought and endeavor, but the wearing of the King's coat alone meant advancement and honors.

"America today occupies a point of vantage, as well as a position of responsibility, to carry on the constructive advance work in medicine while the nations of Europe will struggle through their period of reconstruction."

It's gratifying to know that

The POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE, COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING, 85-99 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has established for high school graduates a unit of the Students' Army Training Corps.

Every regularly enrolled student in the technical courses who passes the physical examination and, is 18 years or over may, about October 1st, be inducted into the United States Army as a member of the Students' Army Training Corps. He would from that time receive the pay of a private, be supplied with the regular uniform, with lodging and subsistence, and the War Department would pay the full cost of his military and academic instruction. This is an opportunity to work for a commission.

Special Training for Women IN LIFE UNDERWRITING

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U. S. maintains a staff of experts to educate and train women in the sale of life insurance.

Many women representatives of the Equitable are now receiving large incomes. The freedom of activity and the unlimited possibilities for the upbuilding of a large income in this business appeal to women of intelligence and industry seeking financial independence. For particulars address

THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY of the United States
120 Broadway, New York
Room No. 902

"Woman's Quick Intuition Makes Her Man's Equal In Business Intelligence"

"Provided, of Course, She Has Also Sound Business Training Equal to Man's," Says Mrs. Irving T. Bush, Whose Husband, as President of the Bush Terminal, Has Found Women in His Employ Highly Efficient and Rapid in Arriving at Conclusions.

High salaries will be paid this year to thousands of business women who, a few months ago, never expected to earn over $150 a month—and even to other thousands of women who have had no previous commercial experience. They are stepping forward, day by day, into executive positions that were formerly reserved for men.

BUT MAKE NO MISTAKE on this point. The women who are placed in these positions will have to conform to the same standards as men.

There is an especially strong demand at the present time for women who can dictate letters. And this is an activity for which an intelligent woman is naturally fitted; "Provided," as Mrs. Bush well says, "she has also sound business training equal to man's."

You can get the right kind of training in Business-Building English if you choose, easily (in your own office or home,) quickly, the training is short and will help you from the start, and at moderate expense. It is not concerned merely with handling correspondence, but with dictating letters that get business results—letters that sell goods, make collections, adjust complaints, satisfy customers, and build up profits and good-will. The course is thoroughly practical from beginning to end. It provides executive training for men and women who are capable of stepping forward into important new duties, with salaries to correspond. Trained ability to write result-getting letters is never overlooked for long. It is the ability that you can use and demonstrate at once in your present position. It commands its proper rewards.

WRITE OR TELEPHONE TODAY for an interesting descriptive leaflet. Better still—come into our office and have a talk with our Mr. Norris.

THE DICTAPHONE
Offers Women Ideal War-Time Work

DICTAPHONE Operators can obtain profitable, attractive work in hundreds of New York offices alone. These business houses dictate all of their mail to The Dictaphone, and are in constant need of skilled operators.

With The Dictaphone, each operator can produce 50% to 100% more letters per day than when she has to write each letter both in shorthand and on the typewriter. And bigger production means bigger pay.

The Dictaphone also reduces hurry, strain and overtime work. The regularly employed operator helps keep business humming to support the boys at the front.

There's a school all equipped to turn you bright, ambitious, patriotic women into first-class DICTAPHONE OPERATORS quickly and at little expense to you. You need no knowledge of stenography nor previous business experience. Just address—

MOON'S SCHOOLS
SHORTHAND IN 30 DAYS

YOU perform a genuine public service when you prepare to fill one of the many vacancies for stenographers or secretaries, either in the Government employ or commercial life.

THIRTY DAYS is sufficient to master stenography by the original methods of instruction adopted by the Moon Schools based on the approved Boyd Syl-lab-ic System. The average student attains a speed of 100 words a minute in the time mentioned. So confident are we that any person of average education can qualify in 30 days, that we invite you to enroll at our risk. Register at one of our schools now, and if after attending for three days you feel that you are not able to master stenography in 30 days' time by our advanced system, we will cheerfully refund the entire fee.

RUNES WINS STONYBROOK HANDICAP IN A DRIVE

LONG SHOTS AMAZE STUDENTS OF FORM

Six-Year-Old Runes Surprises Talent in Winning Stonybrook Selling Stakes.

JYNTEE SADDENS BACKERS

Waterson's Entry, at Odds of 20 to 1, Makes Unexpected Rush In Stretch—Lively Also Wins.

If H. Waterson's Runes had dropped out of the clear sky at Aqueduct yesterday, the crowd would have been but a little more surprised than when this six-year-old horse came sailing through the stretch to capture first place in the Stonybrook Selling Stakes from John Leonard's Assume by half a length.

In his flight through the stretch to victory, Runes had found little difficulty in disposing of Lieut. Raymond Belmont's Jyntee, the favorite, which had set all the early pace, but Loftus was apparently riding a winning race on Assume, and it took the best efforts of Willie Knapp to keep old Runes going until he had the long end of the purse tucked away.

Of all the eight starters in the feature event, Runes was considered the least likely to lead the field home. He was making his third start of the season and had been badly beaten in a six-furlong contest on Tuesday. Odds of 20 to 1 were freely laid against Runes and there were very few takers, which would indicate that his startling change of form was as great a surprise to his stable connections as it was to the general public.

Until Runes made his unexpected rush through the stretch, the race was an interesting one. Jyntee was rushed to the front early, but going around the turn St. Isidore moved up from third place and ran head and head with the favorite until well into the stretch. Keeping pace with Jyntee was too much for St. Isidore and it also helped to beat Jyntee, for an eighth of a mile from home Loftus took command with Assume, while the lightly weighted Reveler also went by the favorite. Both these had to give way to Runes in the final sixteenth. The time of 1.38 shows that Runes after a long rest has come back to his best form.

The victory of Runes was not the only shock for the talent, for in the fifth race, where sixteen selling platers raced over the six-furlong rouse, M. Kornbloom's Lively, another 20 to 1 shot, came dancing home a length in front of Housemaid, the 8 to 5 favorite. Housemaid met with a lot of interference in rounding the turn and closing fast just got up to take the place by a neck from Harry Burgoyne, another of the outsiders.

This is the solution arrived at by the University Council on Athletics today. All members of the S. A. T. C., including freshmen, will be eligible for the team.

GOLDEN SPIER TAKES TROT.

Wins 2:11 Event After Longest Race of Columbus Meeting.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 25.—What looked to be a quite ordinary card of class race events for today's Grand Circuit program developed into some of the best contests of the week. The 2:11 trot furnished the most bewildering problem for the wise ones to settle, and Golden Spier finally won, after six heats, the longest race of the meeting.

Ross Stout, driver of Lord Stout, was set down by the judges at the end of the third heat. Euman had the mount for one heat when Stout was permitted to resume driving. Golden Spier went one of the best races she ever trotted and finished after her hard effort in good condition. The 2:07 trot was an impressive win for Charley Reb, the Illinois stallion. Miss Perfection took the first heat when Charley did considerable breaking.

BROOKWORTHY WINS TROT.

Beats Henry Mac at Nassau Driving Club Matinee in Brooklyn.

P. Hoeffner's sterling trotter, Brookworthy, turned the tables on Henry Mac, C. W. Lasell's bay gelding, in the principal race at the second day's sport of the Nassau Driving Club's Red Cross and Red Star meeeting at the Parkway track, Brooklyn, yesterday. The two trotters were the principal contenders of four starters in the two-year-old sweepstakes event, and without being extended to the limit, the Hoeffner colt won in straight heats. This triumph by Brookworthy retrieved a defeat the colt had suffered last Saturday at Riverhead, by Henry Mac.

Al Cornwell held the reins on Brookworthy, while the Lasell colt was driven by John White. In the first heat, Cornwell guided Brookworthy over the first half in 1:09⅘, and made the second half without serious opposition, winning handily in 2:21¼. Brookworthy trotted the first quarter in the second heat in 0:32½ and at the half was clocked in 1:07⅘. Both Brookworthy and Henry Mac broke badly making the final turn of the mile course, but each horse recovered entering the stretch. The Hoeffner colt had such a lead, however, that it passed under the wire with a convincing margin separating it from Henry Mac. The time was the same as that recorded in the first heat, 2:21¼.

TOMBOLO SPRINGS SURPRISE

Wins Belair Purse at Havre de Grace at Long Odds.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Sept. 25.—After finishing last, or near the tail end in his four previous starts here, the Nevada Stock Farm's Tombolo this afternoon showed a return to the form which enabled him to beat such cracks as Flags and Sunny Slope at Saratoga.

He was dropped into the Belair Purse with the light weight of 100 pounds and came with a startling burst of speed in the stretch to defeat J. S. Tyree's Celto. Both the winner and the second horse were generally overlooked in the mutuals. Tombolo paying $37.80 for $2, while Celto was at even longer odds. Tombolo's time for the mile and seventy yards was 1:42 3-5, only a fifth of a second slower than the track record.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse $711.67; five and a half furlongs. Sylvano, 118 pounds, (Kummer,) $5.20, $3.20, $2.70, won; Jill, 110, (O'Brien,) $6.10, $4.60, second; Joan of Arc, 105, (Q. Preece,) $3.70, third. Time—1:07 2-5. MISS CASSELL IN FINAL NET ROUND

Will Meet Miss Marie Wagner for Honors in Park Hill Tennis Tourney.

Miss Clare Cassell and Miss Marie Wagner will be opponents in the final maatch of the open tennis tournament now being held at the Park Hill Country Club. This issue was decided yesterday when both players disposed of their rivals in the semi-final round of the women's singles.

Miss Cassell's path to the final round was more arduous than that of Miss Wagner. Mrs. Ingo F. Hartman opposed Miss Cassell and forced the latter to her utmost to win in straight sets with the score 6—4 in each instance.

In gaining her final round bracket, Miss Wagner furnished something of a surprise in easily defeating Mrs. E. V. Lynch. The latter has been playing strongly throughout the tournament, and she was expected to give the State champion a stiff tilt in the semi-final round. Miss Wagner, however, easily overcame her rival's style of play and won the match, allowing Mrs. Lynch but one game. The score for the first set was 6—0, and in the second set Mrs. Lynch was disposed of by 6—1.

Vincent Richards continued on his victorious path in the men's division of the tournament when he triumphed over William Fischer in straight sets in their third-round match, by 7—5, 7—5. Elliot H. Binzen also came successfully through this stage of the men's singles play, scoring after a hard match over Harry O'Boyle, the Pelham Bay tar, by 6—1, 6—4. In the other match in this round, Fred Letson went down in defeat before the superior playing of E. P. Thomas, after a spirited three-set match, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Play in the mixed doubles found both Miss Wagner and Miss Cassell on winning combinations. Miss Wagner, teamed with Elliot Binzen, went through the first round by means of a victory over Miss Bessie Holden and E. F. Thomas, 6—1, 6—1. In the second round Miss Cassell and Allen Behr encountered plenty of opposition from Mrs. Samuel W. Waring and Fred Letson, before winning by 5—7, 6—1, 6—2.

The summaries:

Men's Singles.—Third Round—Duke E. F. Thomas defeated F. Letson, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3; Elliot H. Binzen defeated H. B. O'Boyle, 6—1, 6—4; Vincent Richards defeated W. Fischer, 6—5, 6—3.

Women's Singles.—Semi-Final Round—Miss Clare Cassell defeated Mrs. Ingo F. Hartman, 6—4, 6—4; Miss Marie Wagner defeated Mrs. E. V. Lynch, 6—0, 6—1.

Men's Doubles.—First Round—Mr. Macy and Mr. Edwards defeated H. Foster and L. Dudley, 6—4, 7—5; Edmund Hendrickeen and H. D. Keresey defeated F. Norton and H. Norton, 6—1, 6—2.

Mixed Doubles.—First Round—Mrs. Samuel W. Waring and F. Letson won from Mrs. Westerbelt and H. J. French by default; Miss Marie Wagner and Elliot H. Binzen defeated Miss Bessie Holden and Duke E. F. Thomas, 6—1, 6—1; Mrs. Ingo F. Hartman and Ingo F. Hartman defeated Miss Marian Bogardis and J. P. Gage, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. E. Conklin and Edmund Hendrickeen defeated Miss Graef and Mr. Rose, 6—1, 6—2.

Second Round—Miss Clare Cassell and Allen Behr defeated Mrs. Samuel W. Waring and F. Letson, 5—7, 6—1, 6—2.

Leads Women Golfers in One-Day Tournament at Baltusrol.

Home talent came to the fore in the one-day tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association over the Baltusrol links yesterday, when two clubmates, Miss Violet Miller and Mrs. S. H. Brown won gross and net awards, respectively. Miss Miller's card of 98—6—92 led for both prizes, but she took the gross, leaving Mrs. Brown the net winner. Miss M. S. Conroy of Fox Hills, who won the Red Cross tournament at Arcola last week, was off her game, taking 109 for the round.

The scores were as follows:

Miss V. Miller, Baltusrol, 98, 6—92; Mrs. S. H. Brown, Baltusrol, 118, 20—98; Mrs. F. B. Ryan, Baltusrol, 102, 5—97; Mrs. T. H. Thomas, Hackensack, 109, 7—102; Miss M. S. Conroy, Fox Hills, 109, 6—103; Mrs. Albert Taylor, Marine and Field, 123, 15—108; Mrs. N. P. Rogers, 110, 1—109.

NATIONAL CHAMPION LOSES.

Handicaps Too Much for Shaughnessy in Sailors' Track Meet.

John Meckler was the individual star of the track and field meet held at the Federal Rendezvous, Fifty-second Street, Brooklyn, yesterday, for the benefit of the sailors stationed there. Meckler won the 100-yard dash in a close finish, and also won the furlong dash. In addition Meckler finished second in the quarter-mile run.

The most interesting victory came in the half-mile race, in which Shanks came from behind on the last leg of the journey and won by less than a yard from Hennahan. Cornelius Shaughnessy, fresh from his triumph in the quarter-mile national title race at Chicago, gave an exhibition of his ability over this distance when he started from scratch against a field handicapped up to eighty yards. The allowances proved too much for the national champion, and he finished second to F. La Piri, who had the limit.

HARVARD FAVORS FOOTBALL

Will Call Conference with Yale and Princeton to Outline Policy.

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 25.—Harvard, Yale, and Princeton athletic authorities will exchange views within a few days probably on the desirability of intercollegiate athletics this year, according to information given out unofficially here today.

It is understood that Dean Le Baron R. Briggs, Chairman of the Harvard Athletic Committee, will communicate with Professor Corwin of Yale and Dean McClenahan of Princeton, with a view to deciding on a Fall program.

It is pointed out that Harvard has a new factor in the situation to consider, for the Government has enlisted more than three-fourths of the students either in the student army training corps or the naval unit attached to that body.

There will be several hundred students at Cambridge, however, too young to be in service, or physically disqualified, who will form the nucleus of an informal football team.

ARMY VETERANS IN ACTION.

West Point Favored with Best Football Material in Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, Sept. 25.—Real scrimmage work marked the football practice of the Army eleven this afternoon in preparation for the opening game of the season with the Mineola Aviators here next Saturday. It was almost a veteran eleven which the Army mentors introduced, as their so called varsity today. At centre, Stokes, now playing his third year here, put the ball in play for the big team. Luce and Adams, both of last year's eleven, were the guards.

Vandegraff and Smith, another pair of veterans, were the tackles and Mann and Smadar, old time flankers, were the wings. Barrack, a Jersey City high school lad, who was substitute quarter last season, drove the Varsity.

George, a plebe who made a reputation at Rice Institute, where he had four years' experience, also showed up well when he was given a chance to drive the big fellows.

Later on, Gene Vidal, captain of the army eleven, Querries, a former University of Montana football captain, who played for the Army a part of last season, until academic difficulties caused his temporary retirement from gridiron activities, and Monroe, a veteran of two seasons, made up the ball carrying trio. Vidal got away on one long run of 45 yards.

The Varsity scored two touchdowns and Vandegraff's punting was a feature. No better material was ever seen on an army gridiron than that in sight today. With proper coaching and time for practice, it is confidently felt in the army camp that the outlook is the best in years.

MORRIS BEST CLUB GOLFER.

Leads Union League Club Players in Tourney at Knollwood.

Out of an original entry of seventy, more than forty golfers, all members of the Union League Club, took part in their annual tournament at the Knollwood Country Club yesterday. C. E. Morris of Baltusrol had the distinction of winning the gross prize, with a round of 83. The peculiar part of his card was the difference of fifteen strokes in his outward and inward halves. Morris took forty-nine to the turn, and then came back in thirty-four, two under fours.

William C. Powers, of St. Andrew's accounted for the net trophy, returning a card of 85—13—72. Most of the players paired up for the bestball foursomes in the afternoon, conditions allowing three-quarters of the lowest player's handicap. In this event Dr. W. S. Adams and J. A. Peck won, with 74—6—68.

The putting competition resulted in a tie between William J. Ryan and F. W. Westlake, at 38. George C. Austin of Englewood had charge of the tournament. In the evening the golfers attended a dinner at the club, being the guests of George T. Wilson, the Knollwood President.

Hoppe Easily Defeats Clarkson.

Willie Hoppe, balk-line billiard champion, defeated J. Edward Clarkson of Boston in a match benefit exhibition of 18.2 balk-line billiards last night at Kismet Temple, Brooklyn, by the score of 300 to 90. The champion ran out his string in ten innings for an average of 30, and had a high run of 180. Clarkson's best efforts netted him a run of 41. His average was 10.

MELLEN TESTIFIES SHOCK MADE HIM ILL

MORE LETTERS ARE READ

Tell of Intercession with "Diamond Jim" Brady in Behalf of the Recipient.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 25.—Charles S. Mellen of Stockbridge, former President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, continued his testimony today in the hearing of his action for a separation from his wife. He occupied the stand until recess, and when court reopened more of the letters purporting to have been written by Mrs. Mellen to H. Douglas Brown, assistant manager of the Vanderbilt Hotel, New York, were read.

In one of these letters the writer states that she had tried to make arrangements with "Diamond Jim" Brady for the retirement of the manager of the Vanderbilt. Another intimated that she feared Mr. Brown had become fond of an actress. There was also a letter from Mrs. Mellen to her daughter, Miss Kathryn Mellen, which was offered to show that the respondent had placed her daughter in the house to watch what was going on there.

Mrs. Mellen arrived here tonight with Miss Mellen, and is to be in court tomorrow, when her husband is cross-examined by her lawyer.

It was shown today that Mr. Mellen had given an order that all mail arriving at Stockbridge for the family should be put in his hands. A letter to Miss Mellen from her mother, which was intercepted by a doorman, read in part:

"I suppose the new bunch has arrived. You are doing wonderfully well, and I am proud of you. My friends are all with me."

Writer Expresses Anger.

Several of the letters referred to a possible visit by Mr. Brown to Stockbridge. One of them, indited to "My Dear Mr. Brown," read:

"This morning I telephoned to the hotel and I learned you were in Philadelphia. I have had no word from you, no letter, telegram, or telephone message. I don't like the way you are treating me. I am mad clean through and you might just as well know it. I shall not write again, and I shall never say another word about Stockbridge."

Another letter referring to the proposed Stockbridge visit read:

"Douglas Dear:

"Mr. Mellen has been a perfect dear about your coming up to Stockbridge. Saturday on the way up he said: 'When does Mr. Brown come?' I said 'Some day next week,' and he said, 'I am glad.' 'Why, dear, he is so different, he is so kind; and when we talk now, we both give our views, and he listens eagerly to what I may say. Now, dear, come as soon as you can for everything is all arranged.'

Mr. Mellen was asked on the stand if Mr. Brown had ever been a guest at the country place in Stockbridge and he replied: "Not to my knowledge."

Two letters which were read told of Mrs. Mellen's efforts to raise Mr. Brown to a better position in the Vanderbilt Hotel. In one of these the "J. B." is said by Mr. Mellen to refer to the late "Diamond Jim" Brady, who at the time of his death was a stockholder in the Vanderbilt Hotel Company:

"I am to have luncheon with J. B. today and I am going to tell him a few things. And another thing if T. H. should happen to say anything to you about me don't get angry. Just let him talk, dear."

Conferred with "J. B."

As to who the "T. H." was Mr. Mellen said that the initials represented Thomas Hillard, of the Hillard Hotel Company, operating the Vanderbilt Hotel. Another letter read in part:

"I told J. B. Friday that if T. H. was allowed to remain Marshall and you might just as well get out now as later. I told J. B. plainly that if T. H. wanted to do something for me, get him out of here. Well, when I left on Saturday he was out, but, believe me, I don't know whether he remained out, but I guess this is final. Now, who do you suppose I did this for? Marshall? No. He is not the one, and you know it."

Mr. Mellen, when on the stand today, was asked what effect the discovery of the Brown letters had upon him.

"I went through all the gyration and humiliation that my vocabulary can express," he said. "I felt bitterly disgraced that the utmost confidence of our married life should be retailed. * * * The physical effects have been serious. I have been under care of a physician. For forty years I never had required the attention of a physician, except for treatment of a cold."

ARREST GERMAN SAILOR.

Former Member of Vaterland's Crew Sought Employment on Piers.

Paul Kesschur, a subject of Germany, who was a member of the crew of the Hamburg-American liner Vaterland, now the U. S. Leviathan, was arrested yesterday when he sought to obtain employment on the piers of the Army Transport service in Hoboken. He aroused the suspicion of an agent of the Naval Intelligence Service who turned him over to the Department of Justice in New York. Kesschur is held in Raymond Street on a Presidential warrant.

A German subject who registered for the selective draft as an American citizen was arrested yesterday. He gave his name as P. P. Koplas. He also was found in the barred waterfront zone in the vicinity of piers used by the Army Transport Service. He recently sought employment on a coastwise steamship; Koplas was also sent to Raymond Street Jail pending further investigation.

Purnendu Narin Sinha, a Hindu student at New York University, who is suspected by the Government of being concerned in revolutionist plots against British rule in India, was indicted yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury. He is charged with using a secret code to communicate with persons in Mexico. The code letters were mailed to persons in Mexico City. In default of $5,000 bail the young Hindu was sent to the Tombs.

QUITS MAYOR'S COMMITTEE.

Stephen G. Williams Angered by Statement in Hylan's Letter.

Stephen G. Williams, Chairman of the New York Milk Committee, wrote to Mayor Hylan yesterday, resigning from the Mayor's Committee on National Defence, because of a reflection on him contained in a letter by the Mayor in which he said that he noted by the press that Mr. Williams, learning of the Mayor's projected investigation, had suddenly "waked up" and discovered the need of an investigation.

"For your information," Mr. Williams wrote, "I beg to inform you that the National Commission on Milk Standards is a body which concerns itself with standards under which milk and its products should be sold throughout the United States, and does not concern itself with New York City alone. As the meeting of the National Commission on Milk Standards will be held in Chicago, it will not be able to avail itself of your assistance."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "The Awakening" has been postponed from Monday of next week until Tuesday.

Brandon Tynan and Robert McWade have joined Leo Ditrichstein's company in "The Matinee Hero," now in Boston. The piece will be seen at the Vanderbilt 1 week from Monday.

One hundred and fifteen men from the Disbursing Office of Pelham Bay Camp will attend tonight's performance of "The Girl Behind the Gun," at the New Amsterdam.

The National Motion Picture Exposition, schedule to begin at Madison Square Garden on Oct. 5, will be opened by the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," by Enrico Caruso.

The Paulist Choristers of Chicago, numbering one hundred male voices, will be on the program at the Palace next week.

Revivals of "The Yellow Jacket" and the "The Imaginary Invalid" are planned for the Greenwich Village Theatre by the Coburns following their production of "The Better 'Ole."

Three hundred members of the F. I. L. M. Club, an organization of motion picture people, will attend the performance of "Forever After" next Monday night in honor of Alice Brady and William A. Brady.

Moving pictures taken by Marine Gunner LaMond, while the plane is doing nose dives and tail spins, give the audience the sensation of actual flying

Marine Gunner John M. LaMond, who takes moving pictures of the U. S. Marine Corps' aviation work

Marine Gunner LaMond makes a test

"I found after entering the service that my rather strenuous work required every bit of energy I had," said Marine Gunner LaMond.

"Pounding around on hard pavements seemed to me to waste a great amount of energy. I made a test to see if soft shock-absorbing heels would not relieve the strain. A comparison between leather heels and soft heels proved my point beyond question."

WE found Marine Gunner LaMond's test so interesting that we asked him for permission to tell about it. LaMond is the flying camera man of the U. S. Marine Corps. He is making every-day work of taking motion pictures while flying upside down at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

The experiment which LaMond tried is to wear two pairs of shoes on alternate weeks. He put O'Sullivan's Heels on one pair, and kept leather heels on the other. The first week he wore the pair with O'Sullivan's; then he went a week with the leather heels. The third week brought the turn of the O'Sullivan's again, but the test ended right there. The O'Sullivan's produced such welcome relief after a week of pounding on leather heels that he found nail-studded leather heels, with their constant jar on the nervous system, intolerable.

Make this test for yourself

If these heels actually will save energy you want to know it. Have your repair man put on a pair of O'Sullivan's Heels today. Notice how much less you feel the shock when your heel strikes the hard pavement; how much more energy you have at the end of the day.

But insist on O'Sullivan's. Because of our special process this heel combines the greatest resiliency with the greatest durability. They are guaranteed to outlast any other heel on the market. They will last three times as long as leather heels and give uniformly satisfactory service to the very end. Avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

You are pounding away your energy with every step on leather heels

PEACE ONLY BY GERMAN DEFEAT.

From the beginning of the war the German press has habitually attempted to deceive its public by a false and perverted presentation of extracts from British, French, and American newspapers, publishing only such quotations as would serve its purpose, while omitting comment of a character not suited to the German taste. The Düsseldorfer Nachrichten conforms to this practice in printing a dispatch of the Telegraph Union News Agency, purporting to have been sent from Paris, in which it is represented that "a strong American opposition "exists against President WILSON'S "rapid rejection of Baron BURIAN'S "note." "The opposition group," continues the dispatch, "whose "mouthpiece is THE NEW YORK "TIMES, sees in peace negotiations "the sole means of ending the war." There is no opposition group in this country, and if there were, THE NEW YORK TIMES could not be its mouthpiece. THE TIMES supports the President in all his war policies, including the rejection of the Austrian proposal. The country supports him unanimously, there is no opposition, grouped or otherwise. The German newspaper is further quoted as saying: "Despite "press accounts representing Ameri-"can opinion as unanimously chau-"vinistic, the opposition has proved "by THE NEW YORK TIMES, which "advocates the acceptance of the "Austrian proposal, the existence of "a peace current in America."

There is an irresistible current here, but it is for war and not for peace, and it was set in motion by the diabolical crimes of Germany; there is no peace current and there will be none until those crimes are atoned for. If the Düsseldorf newspaper will reprint the entire article on which this dispatch is based its readers will see that THE TIMES viewed the Austrian note as a confession of defeat; it was "not of the kind that victors send forth." And while, under this first impression, it did feel that a preliminary conference might be held, an opinion it no longer holds, this was only on the assumption of admitted defeat and an acceptance of President WILSON'S principles of peace by the Central Powers. The Austrian proposal could be assented to only on conditions that embraced the surrender by the Central Powers of all the territorial spoil of war now in their possession, conditions compelling the relinquishment of every advantage gained which might avail Germany in any attempt to bring upon the world again "this agony," which President WILSON has said "must not be gone through with again."

Let the Düsseldorfer Nachrichten, or any other German newspaper, be candid and courageous enough to reprint this passage from the article in question:

> A peace that left Germany master of the East would be a crime against ourselves and our posterity. Over the lands of the Near East and the whole of the old Empire of the Czars, she can be permitted to have no dominion. Control of the vast regions where she could renew her now diminished might she must once and for all time renounce. The restorations and reparations to be decreed in the west are equally indispensable, but reiteration has made them familiar. It is in the East that the new danger will arise, there with iron resolution it must be destroyed.

Potsdam will know what those conditions mean. They mean that Germany must be left impotent, which is the supreme war aim of the Allies. If, carrying out Mr. BALFOUR'S thought, her people do not then make themselves free, the punishment of their neglect to seize the opportunity will rest upon themselves, the conquering nations of the world will see to it by ample and detailed safeguards that she never disturbs their peace again.

THE TIMES has never for one instant changed the opinion it has held from the beginning of the war that there can be no peace save a peace of assured permanence, and no peace can be lasting that is not based upon the defeat of Germany. We are not now of the opinion that the Austrian proposal could have been accepted, that even a preliminary "unbinding discussion" for imparting to the enemy Powers "confidentially" a detailed definition of the terms of surrender to be imposed upon them, could have been begun until evidences had been furnished, other than words, of the genuineness of their purpose. It is plain that the peoples of the Allied Powers would not have assented to it. They demand that Germany be conquered and admit that she is conquered, that she be compelled to sue for peace. We repeat here the expression of our regret already given that anything in the article of Sept. 16 should have given rise anywhere to the impression that this newspaper in the least degree has changed its belief that there can be an end to the war save by the defeat of Germany, by driving her within her own borders, and forcing upon her conditions that will beyond all question guarantee the world against her criminal aggressions.

Germany will find no "chauvinistic spirit" in the United States. It is not the spirit of vainglorious boasting about their own country, it is the stern reprobation of the crimes and insolence of the German imperial establishment and of the Pan German war party that stirs our people to the unflinching determination to carry on the war until Germany is completely beaten, until she is made so sick of this war that she will never begin another. THE TIMES is chargeable with haste in entertaining and expressing the view that the proposal was a surrender before the Government had announced its position, but it was our purpose in repeating an explicit statement of essential terms, terms upon which Mr. WILSON has insisted, to make it clearly understood that it was only as an offer of surrender that the note could be taken under consideration.

Germany and her accomplices in wickedness have heard from the President that his terms of peace need not be further explained. They are clear, they will stand. And the whole people of the United States, with all their resources, give him their loyal support in that declaration.

THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN.

All good hopes and omens accompany the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. The American people have had a strong foretaste of victory. The spirit and enthusiasm of their armies, General PERSHING'S brilliant and fruitful operations, which have added the name of St. Mihiel to the calendar of American triumphs, the progress and co-ordination and successful working of the vast war machine at home and abroad, the unity of Americans in the resolute purpose to smash Germany and dictate peace, the diffusion all over the country of a passionate interest in the conflict, where everybody has or will have some dear relation, some near friend, in the hosts assembled or assembling—all these things have brought a keener energy and expectation.

Moreover, on every front, in every quarter of the world, good fortune is with the Allies. Germany beaten again and again, almost uninterruptedly, for ten weeks or more by the Allies, sees the inevitable and final disaster perilously near. Turkey has just lost two armies. She has lost Mesopotamia and Palestine. The Bulgarian armies are cut in twain and skedaddling. In Russia the Bolshevist debauch of anarchy and murder is near its end. Resistance to the German annexations grows stronger. In the North and the East the Entente military expeditions, carrying with them order and self-government for the peoples, are prosperously going on. Austria knows she is beaten. In Germany, the autocracy and bureaucracy are desperately striving to sophisticate the military situation and to rally poor, much-beguiled Honest Michel to a last stand.

With these promises, these sure signs of full victory before their eyes, the American people will be ready and eager to make up the six billions now to be asked for. They have set their hand to the plow. They will finish the furrow.

There were 18,000,000 subscribers to the last loan. How many shall we make it this time? Twenty-five million, or more?

As Secretary MCADOO says, everybody should buy a Liberty Bond. Especially in these flush times, when salaries and wages are fatter than they have ever been before, we must lay up for the rainy day. This prosperity can't last forever. Mr. MCADOO reminds the great tribe of believers in easy come, easy go, that those who "spend everything they earn are "not only living in a fool's paradise, "but they are doing a grievous in-"jury to their country." They live in a fool's paradise, because hard times have followed and may be expected to follow good. They are doing the country a great injury because it is only by savings and from savings that the Government can raise the money to carry on the war. If they save now and put their money into Liberty Bonds they will own the best security in the world after the war, and the dividends will help them pull through lean years.

In his Carnegie Hall address Mr. MCADOO mentioned the curious fact that of the eighteen million subscribers to the Third Loan only 22,500 subscribed $10,000 or more. There must be a mightily increased number of subscribers for $10,000 or more this time. The exemption from surtaxes, war taxes, and excess profit taxes of the interest on $30,000 of new bonds and upon $45,000 of all bonds to those who hold new bonds to the amount of $30,000 should help toward this end.

We must all chip in; we shall all chip in according to the size of our purse. Every buyer of these bonds is helping buy machine guns and airplanes and the whole apparatus of warfare for our soldiers. He is helping to win the crushing victory which we all insist upon. Buy all the bonds you can. That means exactly the same as "smash all the Germans you can."

NEW JERSEY PRIMARIES.

New Jersey treated herself to primaries Tuesday. As usual, large numbers of citizens were able to stay away. Almost everything and everybody came out of the oracle with the answers expected when they went in. The Republicans nominated Senator BAIRD, the Democrats Mr. C. O'C. HENNESSY, for the short term in the Senate. Senator BAIRD has been a useful and excellent Senator, but Governor EDGE had reserved the long term for himself.

For the most part, the Republican machine was for the Governor. Mr. GEORGE L. RECORD, an indefatigable collector of isms and permanent candidate for all posts of importance, was easy to beat. Representative GRAY seemed to labor under the impression that because a Governor of New Jersey cannot be re-elected, a Governor of New Jersey must not be nominated to the Senate. This point did not pierce the New Jersey Republican machine intellect to any great depth. On the other hand, the "atrocious charge" was brought against Mr. GRAY that he was a candidate of or patronized by the National Administration. Mr. TUMULTY'S much-enduring typewriter had to thump out a letter of denial. But nothing could save Mr. GRAY. Whatever the National Administration thought of him, the State Administration had decided that the primary should pick Governor EDGE. Well, he is a highly respectable Governor, and probably the majority of New Jersey Republicans, even if they so largely deprived themselves of the sacred privilege of taking a hand in the primary, will be well enough pleased with the result.

In the Democratic primaries the vote was extraordinarily thin, even for a primary. At first it seemed certain that Mr. GEORGE M. LAMONTE had won with ease. Later returns indicate that HENNESSY of Hackensack may have bagged the nomination for the long term as well as for the short. Mr. HENNESSY is a reformer, an independent, a politician totally devoid of meekness and docility.

It is noticeable that the two Newark Republican Representatives in Congress were renominated despite the ferocity of the Drys. It is not yet certain whether Wets or Drys will control the next Legislature, which is to vote on the Federal Prohibition Amendment.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

Another great figure of the Church, a great figure of American life for two generations, is gone. When the young priest, JOHN IRELAND, went to Minnesota it was a community, to the Eastern imagination at least, of pioneers and Indians. He lived to see it prosperous and populous, advanced in education, in charity and the arts of civilization, with famous cities whose growth almost from a village he had watched. He had an active part in all that growth and construction. There was no worthy cause which he did not serve. And if the Cathedral of St. Paul is often spoken of as his monument, there are other and far-spread memorials, material and immaterial, of his long career.

The young chaplain of the 5th Minnesota, who tossed cartridges into the soldiers' haversacks when they were short of ammunition, was always an eager and ardent patriot. A man of salient and impressive personality, he had strong opinions, and he was not afraid to express them when he thought the well-being of the United States was threatened. His vigorous common sense was impatient of the silver dreams of Mr. BRYAN, and he smote the 16 to 1 delusion with no sparing hand. A great friend of Mr. ROOSEVELT, he denounced the initiative, the referendum, and the recall, especially the judicial recall:

> Let us pray the GOD of nations that there be no sacrilegious hand laid upon the courts, impairing their independence or lowering their majesty.

He was a Republican. It was through him that Mr. TAFT was enabled to arrive at his settlement of the thorny question of the friars' lands in the Philippines.

It was sometimes said by those who disagreed with him in politics, or whose toes he had trodden on otherwise, that Archbishop IRELAND was too much of a politician. He was a politician, so far as he was one, because he was a good and wise and patriotic American. He was a good American when he opposed German parochial public schools long before most of us saw the danger of German propaganda in the United States. He was a good American in his readiness for every public service, in his noble public spirit. Who can forget his speech to the Belgian War Mission a year ago last Fourth of July? "If "need be, the one hundred million "people of the United States are "ready to lay down their lives for "the cause of humanity and restora-"tion of the rights of these devas-"tated people."

He was on the verge of his eightieth year, but his fire was undimmed. "The man should not live," he told the Minnesota naval recruits, "who "does not love and cherish his coun-"try, and our country is that great "assembly of men running from the "Atlantic to the Pacific who call "themselves Americans."

For whatever reason, Archbishop IRELAND, whose influence, position, talents, and services to the Church made his promotion to be Cardinal seem natural, died without that honor. Without reference to a curious episode of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S Administration, it is enough to say that from LEO XIII.'s time the red hat seemed destined for the great Minnesotan. It was not to be. He was worthy of any honor. He was justly honored by Americans, irrespective of origin or creed.

JOHN IRELAND was a man of wit as well as of force. Something of the plainness of his Irish beginnings and of the earlier West lingered with him to the last. One remembers him as a brilliant and urbane old man who wore boots like LINCOLN and the old race of Americans and American statesmen.

RAILWAYS IN LUXEMBURG.

In an article in The New Europe Mr. FRANCIS GRIBBLE contributes some interesting information as to Germany's forehandedness in preparation for this war. By the treaty of Frankfort in 1871 the German Government took over the administration of the railways in the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, which previously had been in the hands of a French company. The neutrality of Luxemburg was already guaranteed by treaty, and in the agreement with the Grand Duchy, which consummated the transfer of the railroads, the German Government promised never to use them for the transport of troops or war material, and not to permit their use, in case of war, in any way which would compromise the neutrality of Luxemburg. This agreement was renewed in 1902.

But Luxemburg occupies a situation of strategic value, and its railroads are extremely useful for an army moving on France from the Rhine. So, says Mr. GRIBBLE, in 1905—about the time of the beginnings of trouble in Morocco, and the first of Germany's recurrent threats against the peace of Europe—the Germans began to double-track the lines. The next year the station in the City of Luxemburg was rebuilt, in a manner convenient for military operations, and stations in several small towns were similarly reconstructed. From year to year German preparations went on—now the widening of tunnels, now the substitution of Germans for Luxembourgeois in train crews; and all the while more strategic railroads were being built in Prussia leading up to the frontier of Luxemburg, including at least one through a region of no economic importance at all, but quite convenient for an attack on the frontiers of France or Belgium. Toward the end of 1913 all was ready.

For the rest, German troops marched into Luxemburg on the morning of Aug. 2, 1914, a few hours after Germany had declared war on Russia, before anybody had declared war on the western front. They brought with them a batch of proclamations printed in Coblenz some days before, explaining that whereas French motor-cycle scouts had violated Luxemburg territory, the German Government found itself regretfully compelled, &c., &c. The Grand Duchess and her Premier protested to the Kaiser and to his Foreign Minister, basing their protests on personal disproof of the story of the French cyclists. On Aug. 4 BETHMANN HOLLWEG told the Reichstag that the invasion of Belgium and Luxemburg was contrary to law, but that Germany had to hack her way through. On the same day the General commanding in the Grand Duchy—to whom the Luxemburg Army had made no forcible opposition because it consisted of only 150 men—was assuring the Government that the laws of the Grand Duchy would remain in operation and that no harm would be done to private property; and within the week his troops were felling shade trees and digging up lawns for intrenchments, Luxemburg citizens were being arrested, and the press was rigorously censored.

The history of Luxemburg since then has been in effect the history of every country overrun by the Germans; and if the young Grand Duchess has at last weakened to the extent of permitting one of her sisters to become engaged to Crown Prince RUPPRECHT of Bavaria, the sentiments of the people seem to remain firm. Restoration of Luxemburg's independence, unless its citizens should wish closer relations with Belgium, as has been suggested, will be only elementary justice; and it will be only an elementary precaution to see that the Luxemburg railways are no longer left under German administration.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Prison Labor Commands High Prices.

While the Federal Government and several State Administrations — especially that of New Jersey, just now—are still debating whether or not it is wise and practicable to use convicts in one or another capacity as workers for the war, thereby freeing better men for the higher forms of military service, the Maryland authorities have calmly settled the problem for themselves. As a result of their decision, between 350 and 400 House of Correction and penitentiary prisoners have been leased to employers of various sorts. Some of them are working for the United States Health Department at Camp Meade, the Baltimore & Ohio Railway is utilizing another group, and a third has been helping to complete the sewage disposal plant in Baltimore.

There is nothing new in this disposition of convicts in Maryland, but while in other days, before the war, private employers paid only 60 cents a day for laborers of this kind, so great is the demand for them now that for every one of them the State gets $4 a day. Of this sum the men receive for themselves only 50 cents, and Governor HARRISON expresses regret that the law does not allow him to give them a larger part of the $4, in order that they might make a greater contribution toward the support of their dependents.

Except in the South, there has always been much antagonism to convict labor, partly because of its competition with honest workers and partly because innumerable scandals have resulted when prisoners were put in the power of employers whose only effort was to get the greatest possible amount of work out of them. At present, however, the scarcity of workers in many industries is so nearly desperate that it seems intolerable that a considerable part of the country's prison population of about 500,000 should be supported in idleness and the rest of it be chiefly employed in work that has little even of indirect connection with the war.

Of course convict labor, as a rule, is poor labor, but when it fetches $4 a day it is evidently considered by employers a good deal better than none. As a means of reformation, too, useful work outside of prison walls has intrinsic merit in the eyes of penologists, and experience has demonstrated that there is no great difficulty in preventing such laborers from running away. In many cases their word has been found a sufficient guard.

Destroying Another Landmark.

There is something distinctly shocking to New Yorkers of the older generation in the removal of such an ancient and historic structure as is the one erected by the subway contractors in the plaza created by the coming together of Broadway and Seventh Avenue. Not quite old enough, indeed, to have been contemporaneous with the palisado that gave Wall Street its name, and built some little time after the City Hall, it yet has been endeared by its continuance through many, many years, and now that it is coming down at last, it will be much missed. And to be missed is to be regretted, at least by those of us who have veneration for age and prefer almost anything that is familiar to almost anything that is new.

While this particular edifice never could be numbered among the architectural masterpieces of the metropolis, its builders did manifest something of aesthetic ambition, for they took pains, at not a little expense, to make it less ugly than edifices of like use are wont to be. They painted it a fairly soothing green, and for its decoration brought into play the same faithful jigsaw that has given to so many American homes a diversity and irregularity of outline evidently pleasing to their worthy occupants.

Now it is to be swept away by the implacable hand of the wrecker! What does he care for the sensibilities he may hurt, the memories he may violate, the expectations of permanence he may disappoint? He thinks only that the work of building the subway in this vicinity is approaching completion, and to his materialistic mind a building no longer profitable is useless.

But all is not lost! There are still large holes in the pavement at Broadway and Forty-second Street, where they can cause an amount of inconvenience that could hardly be equaled anywhere else, and these evidently are to be long with us, dear reminders of the vanished days when the building of subways was done, not as now, with an effort to trouble the public as little as possible, but with the loftier purpose of achieving the exactly opposite end.

An End of Storms Prophesied.

As there have been frequent references in the dispatches from France to the heavy rains that had increased the difficulties and slowed up the speed of the allied attack, both to the advantage of the Germans, it is no small addition to the good news, of which there has been so much of late, to read that at last the storms have ceased, that the clouds have broken, and that the sun is again shining over those desolated fields.

Of course PHILIP GIBBS expressed hope rather than certainty when, in commenting on this welcome change, he wrote, "we may look forward to the luck of a fine, dry month, which will make all the difference to the fighting men." A period of bad weather, unfortunately, is not always followed by a period as long of good weather, but surely the rain cannot go on forever in what the books have always called "the sunny land of France."

There has been strangely little confirmation of that familiar description since this war began. Instead, the reports from the western front almost continuously have been such as would not have been surprising if they had come from England, the land of chilly downpours and numerous fogs. France, in this respect, has not justified her reputation, and, with the soldiers, at least, she has lost it, for she has given them rain when she did not give them snow, and thus has added very appreciably to the inevitable hardships of war. But perhaps they are now to have brighter days in more senses than one.

Skip-Stop Cars Popular.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Some of us in Detroit would take exception to the statement in your issue of Sept. 17 that the skip-stop method isn't really liked anywhere. The greater speed of the cars under our system, by which they stop only at every other block, makes the additional block that some of us have to walk seem a trifling inconvenience indeed.

E. W. BEATTY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The prohibition during the period of the war measure should be examined not from the standpoint of what it may do, but from the standpoint of what it has done. Russia and England both faced this situation during this war. The Czar issued an edict at the behest of the Prohibitionists and incidentally awakened Russia. Lloyd George regulated the traffic and England today is the Merry England of old. "Let sleeping dogs lie" refers to individuals as well as animals. N. H. C.

SLAVE AND EMPEROR

The Emperor mocked at Nazareth
In his almighty hour.
The Slave that bowed himself to death
And walked with slaves in Nazareth,
What were His words but wasted breath
Before that "will to power."

Yet, in the darkest hour of all,
When black defeat began,
The Emperor heard the mountains quake,
He felt the graves beneath him shake,
He watched his legions rally and break,
And he whimpered as they ran.

"I hear a shout that moves the earth,
A cry that wakes the dead!
Will no one tell me whence they come,
For all my messengers are dumb?
What power is this that comes to birth
And breaks my power?" he said.

Then, all around his foundering guns,
Though dawn was now not far,
The darkness filled with a living fear
That whispered at the Emperor's ear,
"The armies of the dead draw near Beneath an eastern star."

The trumpet blows in Nazareth.
The Slave is risen again!
Across the bitter wastes of death,
The horsemen ride from Nazareth,
And the Power we mocked as wasted breath
Returns, in power, to reign;
Rides on, in white, through Nazareth,

MORE NURSES NEEDED.

Eight Thousand Required by Jan. 1 to Meet the Demand.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am directed by the Acting Surgeon General to bring to your attention that on several recent occasions the newspapers have printed erroneous reports to the effect that the nursing needs of the army have been met.

In the issue of THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sept. 22 it is stated that "including the 16,000 already in actual service, more than 27,000 graduate nurses have been enrolled in answer to General Gorgas's plea for 25,000 by Jan. 1, 1919." I would like to point out that while the American Red Cross is the official recruiting agency for the Army Nurse Corps it also helps to supply trained women to the Navy Nurse Corps, the Public Health Service, Child Welfare work, and its own Civilian Relief Agency. Of the 25,000 women needed by the army by the first of the year approximately 14,000 have to date been furnished through the agency of the Red Cross. The Army Nurse Corps has directly brought in or had on its rolls the remaining 3,000. It will, therefore, be seen that 8,000 more women are required to meet the army's needs before Jan. 1.

It is estimated by the Surgeon General's office that 50,000 nurses will be required by July 1, 1919. Accordingly 33,000 women must be reached and induced to enter the national service in the Army Nurse Corps in less than a year. Just what damage such erroneous statements as have no doubt slipped unnoticed into THE TIMES can do in a situation such as this you yourself can imagine.

The press in various parts of the country has picked up the report and editorials commenting upon it have been written, so that today there are thousands of persons who believe the army no longer needs nurses. While an official statement was put forth by this office denying the report, you know that such statements never quite cover the ground reached by the troublesome reports.

Convinced of your desire to co-operate in every way to help fill the existing deficiency in the ranks of our "women soldiers," I am

J. P. YODER,
Captain, S. C., U. S. A.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With reference to the article entitled "Objects to 'Doughboy,'" in the editorial section of the Sunday TIMES, would state that the boy's father need have no fear of the "doughboys" being half-baked, or not baked at all, unless he understands his son better than the officers of his company. The term "doughboy" starts back from olden days, when the English foot troops wore white belts on parade, and to keep them white used pipe clay, which, when it was rained on, formed a sort of dough-like substance; hence the term "doughboy." You might inform Mr. Robinson that the doughboys themselves use the sobriquet more frequently than do other troops or persons not connected with military service. They are proud of the word and have no desire to change it, and they would not wish it otherwise. Mr. Robinson should remember that a thing of this sort, which started during the year One, so to speak, cannot be wiped out in a day. The doughboys are generally there when "kneaded" and are looked on by all as the "flour" of the army.

People who do not understand the ins and outs of military life should not criticise something over which they have no jurisdiction, especially when those who are implicated do not. The doughboys have never disgraced the armies; in fact, they have earned a general reputation of being able to finish anything they might have started. The doughboys, during the existing emergency, have so far proved to the world at large that they are not half-baked, and even those who have not been kept in the oven the required length of time would probably prove decidedly unhealthy should some one attempt to devour them, as any surgeon will inform you that anything half-baked is not fit to eat or associate with.

Hoping Mr. Robinson will take this as it is meant,

W. S. ROBERSON,
Captain, Tank Corps.

Mr. Wells and Clear Thinking.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your reviewer, in Sunday's Review of Books, is certainly not generally favorable to the new novel by Mr. Wells, but in one passage he does give him credit for "a rare gift of putting into clear and intelligible form what other people are thinking more or less nebulously." The books of Mr. Wells may read clearly and intelligibly enough on the surface, but are they anything else at bottom than a most excellent example of the not unusual phenomenon of a neat and facile rhetorical dress, covering anything else than clear and well reasoned thought? The American people need to learn that just the kind of writing in which Mr. Wells indulges, poured into the minds of a certain kind of readers, is the best fertilizer imaginable for such a harvest of crime and chaos as Russia is reaping today. If the so-called "intellectuals" of socialism were really intellectual in the original sense of the term—given to discriminating accurately between things that differ—many of them would recoil in horror from the inferences which the most numerous class of their followers draw from their words. The Bolshevist regime in Russia is the thoroughly normal fruit which ought to be expected from their planting and watering.

ALLIED COUNCIL PROPOSED.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Austrian peace note has had one effect here: it has convinced a considerable number of students of public affairs that it is imperatively necessary to set up an allied political council that will deal as effectively with diplomatic questions as unified military control does with strategy. Discussing this today with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, one well-known authority said:

"We may dismiss the Austrian note altogether. Its origin is too well understood for any of the allied Governments to give it any consideration. We may also admit that Balfour in his impromptu speech and President Wilson in his short pithy reply said exactly the right thing. And yet we may still hold that the note shows the necessity of a political Versailles.

"As the war progresses and especially as it draws toward its close occasions are sure to arise more frequently when it will be important for the Allies to speak as one body. I cannot be altogether satisfactory for one statesman after another to speak, like a peal of bells, and if they do the danger of their being out of harmony necessarily increases.

"The Allies now have councils to deal with military and naval questions, food problems and shipping distribution; why should they not have a similar body in permanent session to consider and act on the most important matters of all political problems? Such a body by its deliberations and studies might do much to hasten the return of peace.

"The principal difficulty seems to lie in the choice of a personnel, and perhaps that would be felt by America more than by any of the other allies. In England we value the opinion or President Wilson so highly that we should not be satisfied with an American delegate who could not speak with authority as expressing the President's mind. But that seems the only difficulty, and we here would gladly cooperate if any means could be found to surmount it."

GIVES DRUID MONUMENT.

Owner of Stonehenge Presents It to the British Nation.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Stonehenge, the famous Druid monument, which has always been in the hands of private owners, has been presented to the British nation by C. H. E. Chubb, who bought it on Sept. 21, 1915. The Government has accepted the gift and will henceforth be responsible for its preservation.

The announcement has been received with great satisfaction, for it allays the fear that the monument some day might come into possession of an unappreciative owner who would allow it to be destroyed or removed. On the occasion of its last sale there was a rumor that it had been bought with the intention of transferring it to America.

FOR WOMEN'S VOTES IN WAR.

Mrs. H. M. Leavitt Named to Go Abroad on Election Committee.

Mrs. Helen M. Leavitt, Chairman of the Intelligence Committee of the New York State Woman's Party, has been appointed by the Secretary of State a member of the New York State Overseas Election Committee, authorized to take the votes of the soldiers and sailors. There are seven members of the committee, C. L. Grant of Watertown, N. Y., being the Chairman. Mrs. Leavitt will take the votes of New York State women doing military service abroad, including Red Cross workers, and she has sent to Washington to learn how many of these there are. Mrs. Leavitt recently has been working through the State to get the women to register and vote.

"I would much rather stay and do that work, which means getting out a larger number of women's votes," said Mrs. Leavitt yesterday, "but I appreciate the honor of the appointment and I think the fact that a woman is being sent and that the Government is going to look after the woman vote abroad should have the greatest influence on the women at home. If the Government has taken the trouble to appoint a woman to go abroad and pay her expenses for that purpose there should certainly be no slackers at home."

Made Bequests for Charities.

In the will of Mrs. Abby L. Wells of 490 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn, filed yesterday for probate in the office of Surrogate Ketcham, a legacy of $23,000 is given to the Reformed Church in America for missionary and charitable purposes. Other charitable bequests were the Woman's Union Missionary Society of Heathen Lands, $1,000; Brooklyn Industrial School Association, $1,000, and $2,000 to the Brooklyn City Mission and Tract Society. The estate is estimated at $150,000.

WOULD ADMIT FOES TO WORLD LEAGUE

Thomas Even Deprecates Demanding That Germany Scrap Hohenzollerns.

BUT SHE MUST OBEY RULES

French Socialist Argues That If She Gives Guarantees She Mustn't Be Excluded.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Albert Thomas, the French Socialist statesman, discussing in The Daily Chronicle the subject of a league of nations, asserts that little definite progress has been made in working out the principle, despite its acceptance months ago by the Entente Governments. The unofficial views concerning it differ greatly. He says: "Some say we must have a society of nations at once. Others declare that we must wait awhile. Some, again, argue that we cannot have a society of nations among nations unless they offer mutual safeguards. If for certain nations the most solemn engagements are but 'scraps of paper,' how can I pledge myself with them to abide by rules and arbitrations which they will not carry out? Can I form a society with thieves or assassins?

"On the other hand, another group says: 'If a society of nations can only be formed between the Entente nations—democratic nations offering every guarantee—will not another society of nations form itself in direct opposition? Thus, can we not imagine the Central Ocean constellation confronted by a Mittel-Europa constellation? In such circumstances, would not our desire to establish a little justice and regularity in the world simply end in perpetuating on the largest scale the most frightful of conflicts?"

All Members Must Observe Rules.

M. Thomas then suggests that public opinion can give a lead to statesmen, and continues:

"Now, what is wanted? It is a question of establishing among all nations a society the members of which undertake to observe rules. We need not determine whether, because of sentiment or because of our passions, or even personal feelings, such a nation should be admitted into the society of nations. Maybe all the nations of the earth will do so, by self-interest, by necessity and because they have no other way of escape from the horrors of war. And then, with a view to avoid those horrors, they will impose on themselves a certain number of rules.

"Individuals have recognized that in communities and communal life it was necessary, in the face of the natural forces arrayed against man, that they establish rules. They have recognized that in order to escape from the domination of force and brutality they would have to accept acts of superior authority. Nevertheless, those who are law-breakers and those capable of becoming thieves and assassins live side by side with us in a national society. They live there in the certainty that if they are known to commit misdemeanors they will be punished for them. This certainty doubtless prevents them in some cases from committing them. It is an essential condition to our social life.

"It should be so in the society of nations. Even in the midst of the horrors of the present war nations have realized that they must establish a society among themselves. They will be constrained thereto as much by economic and material needs as by a desire to avoid new catastrophes.

"But no society will be possible without a certain number of rules accepted by all, and then the question becomes simple. It is no mere matter of accepting this or that nation or of deciding whether the society is to be closed or open. It will be open to all nations who accept the rule and offer guarantees for their observance.

What Rules Shall Be Established?

"What rules? In the first place, there comes naturally the engagement to respect the right of peoples to dispose of themselves, and, secondly, the engagement to have recourse in the regulation of future conflicts only to juridical remedies, to courts of arbitration, and conciliation boards. The employment of force should be exclusively reserved to the society of nations itself as supreme authority in a case where one of the associated States resisted its decisions.

"Finally, the nations must be able to give valid undertakings. There has been much discussion as to whether the Hohenzollerns are eligible for the society of nations. At first President Wilson was very categorical on the subject. He excluded the Hohenzollerns from his international republic. It has seemed to me that the sentence was peremptory, and President Wilson was not able to abide by it. The guarantees that must be required of a people are that it shall itself decide for peace or war, and that public opinion, supported by democratic institutions, shall determine the national fate.

"Perhaps it is true that Hohenzollern would accept either the control of armaments or the regular vote of popular representation on the question of peace or war, or the mechanism of democratic control. It may be necessary for the Hohenzollerns to disappear that Germany may enter the society of nations; but this is not the way to formulate the first condition, especially by men who wish to respect the internal organization of each nation. The democratic conditions of membership in the society should be impersonal, so to speak, but it is also necessary that, once the conditions are fulfilled, every nation should enter into the common society."

Urges Founding the League Now.

"Bearing in mind these considerations, it is easy to see what ought to be the action of the Allies. They must found at once among themselves their society of nations. They have lingered too long. They must establish not only unity of command, but unity of policy. They must enunciate the common principles of government and action which unite them. They must solidify and render more viable the organization by which they maintain material life or national defense.

"Again they must create at once among themselves rules of arbitration to which they agree to submit. Their society thus formed, the Allies shall not say to the enemy peoples: 'You are unworthy to come in.' Instead they will say: 'Here are the regulations by which we have bound ourselves. Submit to them and you may come with us.' Thus the enemy peoples will awaken to all the crimes committed by their Governments. Thus will they understand that it is only by conforming to justice that their Governments become worthy of governing themselves. Thus they will understand that the Entente nations do not wish to exterminate them or reduce them to impotence and weakness, but that they wish to protect themselves against the abuse of force and violence. Thus will they comprehend the full value of life under a democracy. Thus will the Entente perfect the victories of its heroic soldiers by victories of public opinion and of diplomacy."

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND IS DEAD IN ST. PAUL

Noted Prelate Succumbs at 80 After Long Illness Due to Strain of War Activities.

PUBLICIST AND REFORMER

Northwest Pioneer Was Often Mentioned as a Possible Cardinal—Famous Temperance Advocate.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25.—Archbishop John Ireland, who died this morning, will be buried next Wednesday in Calvary Cemetery here in compliance with his wish. The Rev. Thomas Welch, secretary to the prelate, explained that the body would not be placed in the Cathedral crypt.

Father Welch said the dying Archbishop had said to him:

"Let me lie out there with my people under the green sod of Calvary."

Complete arrangements for the funeral cannot be made until word is received from a number of the Church dignitaries who are still in the East, where they went to attend the funeral of Cardinal Farley.

Hundreds of telegrams and cable messages from many parts of the world paying honor to the memory and achievements of the Archbishop were received today at his home.

It was decided this afternoon that the body will lie in state on Tuesday in the Cathedral—one of the most magnificent edifices in the United States. Solemn services will start at 10 A. M. Wednesday. They will be the same as those which marked the burial of Cardinal Farley. It is expected that most of the Church dignitaries who attended the services in New York will attend the funeral of Archbishop Ireland.

For three days Archbishop Ireland's physicians had kept their patient alive by the use of oxygen. Late last night the final relapse came, and in the darkened room, where priests and nuns softly chanted prayers for the dying, the end came without a perceptible sign.

The Archbishop's sister, Mother Superior Seraphine; Sister Rose, Father Thomas A. Welch, the Archbishop's secretary; Vicar General J. C. Byrne, and Bishop Joseph Busch of St. Cloud were kneeling beside the bed.

Until Fall Archbishop Ireland took a prominent part in patriotic activities, and his physicians at that time attributed his breakdown to overwork.

Archbishop Ireland's Career.

Because of the keen and active interest he took in general affairs in the United States during the last fifty years, John Ireland, Archbishop of St. Paul, was noted as a publicist, as well as one of the most distinguished Catholic churchmen in America. His study in intellectual, political, and spiritual fields of endeavor was profound and he ofttimes found himself the centre of a controversy. His energy was so abundant and his zeal for work such that the term, "consecrated blizzard," as applied to him by one of his admirers, was accepted by many others as a peculiarly happy expression.

Perennial rumor for more than thirty years, when the Archbishop of St. Paul was first mentioned as a possible addition to the College of Cardinals, was for giving him the Cardinal's hat at the next Papal Consistory, and it was necessary on each occasion for word to go forth from St. Paul that there was no truth in the report. The "Father Mathew of the West" was a man of great force of character and accomplished great reforms in the cause of temperance, but years ago he was inclined to compromise on the parochial school system, one of the bulwarks of the Catholic Church, thus laying himself open to much bitter criticism from his fellows in religion. His aggressive positiveness, which led him to take sides on many questions, was believed to have been the reason why John Ireland was never made a Cardinal.

Archbishop Ireland was born at Burnchurch, County Kilkenny, Ireland, April 11, 1838, and came to this country with his parents in the tide of Irish immigration in 1849. After service at Burlington, Vt., and a jolting trip West on a prairie schooner were among his boyhood memories, bringing him finally to St. Paul, Minn., in 1852, when Indians in gay blankets stalked the streets of that frontier town. On the way to St. Paul his parents settled for a time in Chicago, where John Ireland attended the School of St. Mary's of the Lake.

Chaplain in Union Army.

One evening the missionary Cretin, first Bishop of St. Paul, while watching from his window some boys of his parish at play, called to John Ireland and Thomas O'Gorman—who later became Bishop of Sioux Falls—to come into the church. Both John and his playmate admitted that the priesthood was their ambition, and Bishop Cretin sent them in charge of a guardian to France, where they were educated by the Marist Fathers. When he learned of the outbreak of the civil war, however, John Ireland came home, fired as much with patriotism as with religion. After being ordained in St. Paul he eagerly accepted an appointment as chaplain of the Fifth Regiment of Minnesota Volunteers.

He was ardent in the Union cause and shared every hardship of the soldiers' life in their terrible Winter raids. It is related that at a critical point in a battle the Fifth Minnesota was called upon to fill a gap through which the enemy had pressed, capturing one of the Union batteries as they surged through the line. It was not long before the cry went down the line that the men had no more ammunition.

"Here's cartridges for you, boys," shouted a smooth-faced young man as he passed quickly down the line emptying cartridges into the soldiers' haversacks, more convenient receptacles than the old cartridge boxes with their separate compartments. When the fragments of the regiment had been gathered together that night Chaplain Ireland was missing, and it was not until after a long and anxious search that he was found on the very front in an improvised hospital close to the enemy's pickets.

Archbishop Ireland kept up his acquaintance with his old army comrades through the soldiers' State reunions, which he regularly attended. In 1875 he was named for the See of Nebraska, but at the earnest suggestion of Bishop Thomas L. Grace, supported by a personal visit to Rome, the Holy Father revoked the brief and conferred upon him instead the Coadjutor Bishopric of St. Paul.

His Work for Temperance.

He soon attracted national attention through his work for temperance. The story is told of how on one January night in 1869 three drunkards staggered into his doorway and handed him a rumpled sheet of paper on which was written:

"For God's sake, organize a temperance society." The paper was signed by seven men, including a saloon keeper. That happened on the day when St. Paul was filled with border turbulence and the riot of drink. The next Sunday Father Ireland began his campaign by organizing a temperance society of eighty members. He made hut-to-hut visits to St. Paul's shantytown, throwing bottles out of squalid doorways. The work he thus began he extended throughout the Northwest and traveled the whole country preaching temperance. He even carried the battle back to Ireland and Great Britain.

He at one time conceived the idea of consolidating the Catholic parochial schools and the public schools, and the plan was tried at Faribault and Stillwater, Minn., but friction which the Archbishop could not believe arose and the scheme was dropped. He was the founder of the Hill Seminary, on the Minnesota side of the Mississippi river, to which he gave his highly prized private library, one of the most comprehensive in the Northwest.

One of his early works was the founding of a colony of 900 Catholic farmers in Western Minnesota in 1876. Seeing that centralization was desirable, he entered into negotiations with the St. Paul & Pacific Railroad, (later the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad,) the St. Paul & Sioux City Railroad, and the Northwestern Railroad, for certain land along their lines. The contract was that he should control these lands for three years at prices ranging from $3 to $7 per acre. During these years he controlled more land than any one land agent in America, having at one time at his absolute disposal considerably more than 500,000 acres.

The business affairs of the colonies he organized were conducted on the strictest business principles. The Bishop gave his energy, time, and influence to this endeavor, but every settler was required to stand squarely on his own feet as to finances. No moneys were given or advanced except where they were fully secured. The National Colonization Society was formed in 1878 by Bishop Ireland, Bishop Spalding of Peoria, Ill., and Williams J. Onahan of Chicago, with a capital stock of $100,000, which was purchased by wealthy persons interested in the cause. A dividend of 6 per cent. was paid each year after the incorporation of this society.

Archbishop Ireland had long been one of the foremost men of the country, looked up to on all occasions as the spokesman of the Catholic Church; but the event which brought him most prominently before the American people as the representative of the American hierarchy was the vigorous opposition which he steadfastly exhibited to the scheme which aimed at dividing the Catholic Church of this country into factions by the appointment of "national" bishops. Not only had Archbishop Ireland antagonized that movement, which was known as Cahenslyism, by speaking in emphatic condemnation of it, but he went to Rome at the desire of his colleagues to acquaint the Holy Father with their views on the subject, and to point out to him the inevitable dangers which would follow the adoption of such a proposal.

He became Archbishop in 1888, and received earnest support from many of his admirers for appointment as the fourth American Cardinal. Celebrating his golden jubilee a few years ago, the priests of the archdiocese presented him with a purse of $100,000.

As a speaker Archbishop Ireland was direct and magnetic, with a keen sense of humor. One of the phrases which has often been quoted as characteristic of his particular endeavor in life is this:

"The watchwords of the age are reason, education, liberty, the amelioration of the masses."

His Services in the War.

Archbishop Ireland's strong Americanism, first put to the test when the civil war began, was manifested afresh when the United States entered the world conflict. As soon as Congress declared war on Germany the Archbishop called upon the people of his faith to remember that they were Americans above all other ties, and declared that it was their duty to help in every way. Later he advocated purchases of Liberty bonds and contributions to the Red Cross and to various relief funds.

In this course he followed consistently a part he took in a famous controversy which antedated his "Faribault plan." It resulted from a petition, made to Rome, to create in the United States German parishes with parochial schools, with orders that the German language be taught in these institutions. Its sponsors sought to conceal the purpose of the plan by proposing that it be followed by other nationalities, but the Archbishop saw the fallacy of the idea and hastened to Rome, where he successfully combated it.

"The mass of our Catholics are Americans," he argued. "They resent any attempt to make them Irishmen or Germans, or any other kind of foreigners. The bishops of America are fully able to ward off any foreign invasion in the Church and to maintain it on thoroughly American lines."

Speaking on the same proposal later, he said:

"Our country is not a Poland to be partitioned at the good pleasure of foreigners. We have, under Peter's successor, our autonomy, and for its use of the American Church and the American Republic, we will retain autonomy."

What was characterized as the greatest patriotic speech of his long career was delivered in Rice Park in St. Paul on the night of May 12, 1917, when he called the West to arms in an address that was heard by 50,000 persons. The occasion was a mass meeting to bid farewell to 200 recruits for the Navy and Marine Corps about to start for the Mare Island training station.

ROOSEVELT PAYS TRIBUTE.

Mourns Archbishop Ireland as a Great Ecclesiastic Statesman.

After receipt of the news of Archbishop Ireland's death, Colonel Roosevelt, who had been a close friend to the dead prelate, yesterday sent the following telegram to St. Paul:

"I mourn the death of Archbishop Ireland. He was a great patriot as well as a great churchman. Personally, he was an old and valued friend, and, moreover, was with him when, as it was in the company of a great ecclesiastic statesman of the old type in point of ability, and yet abreast of modern American thought. His death is a great loss, and, coming right on the death of that other great churchman and patriot, Cardinal Farley, it leaves a very real blank in American life."

The Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney, Administrator of the New York Archdiocese, paid this tribute:

"Death is busy removing great pillars of the Church. The passing away of Archbishop Ireland the Church loses a distinguished and most zealous prelate and the country a patriot of the highest type."

Five Brothers in Service at Nuptial.

Joseph C. Reichert, Chief Boatswain Mate, U. S. N., and Miss Lillian Ratfen were married yesterday in St. Monica's Church, Jamaica, L. I. Mr. Reichert has five brothers in service, and all attended in their uniforms. Francis J. Reichert acted as best man for his brother.

McCormack to Sing for Sailors.

The League for Sailors' Comfort and Cheer, with headquarters at the Biltmore, has formed a committee to look after the needs of returning wounded men, for which purpose it has arranged a benefit concert by John McCormack next Sunday evening at the Hippodrome. The committee consists of Mrs. Theodore H. Banks, Chairman; Mrs. Charles J. Fiske, Mrs. William Barbour, Mrs. Arnold Knapp, Mrs. Frank M. Barrows, and Mrs. Charles Hathaway.

The officers of the league are: Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Honorary President; Mrs. Arthur T. Chester, President; Mrs. James W. Wadsworth and Mrs. George E. Holliday, Vice Presidents; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Executive Secretary, and Mrs. Margaret M. Crumpacker, Commandant.

Bring Holub to New York.

John Holub, an Austrian, against whom several women had complained to the District Attorney that he had obtained their money by promises of large profits from airplane stock investments that he advertised during the few months he had posed as a broker in a little room on Broadway, near Forty-second Street, was brought back yesterday from El Paso, Texas, to answer an indictment accusing him of the larceny of $1,200. Mrs. Mary Wright of Brooklyn is the complainant in this specific case. Holub had only $9 when arrested.

CAPT. RAE W. WHIDDEN DEAD

Spanish Influenza Victim Served as Heart Specialist at Camp Dix.

Captain Rae W. Whidden of the United States Medical Corps, formerly a well-known New York physician, died yesterday in the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, of Spanish influenza, contracted recently while serving at Camp Dix as heart specialist.

Captain Whidden was born in Cambridge, Mass. He was graduated from the Harvard Medical College and for some years was associated in the practice of medicine in New York City with Dr. James A. Miller, 379 Park Avenue. He was a member of the Harvard and University Clubs.

Captain Whidden was one of the first American physicians to enlist in the Medical Corps for war service, and went to France in June, 1917, being assigned to Base Hospital No. 5. He was a victim of a Hun air raid on Sept. 5 of last year, receiving two wounds in the chest. He was invalided home the latter part of December, and after a few months in recuperation in California he was assigned to duty as heart specialist at Camp Dix.

Captain Whidden is survived by his parents, two brothers, and a sister, Mrs. Mae W. Taylor of 66 Jamaica Avenue, Flushing.

Shall We Censor Fiction to Hide the Truth?

Rupert Hughes' New Novel

From The New York Times Sept. 3d.

Censorship at Its Very Worst. A very recent inquirer at one of the New York libraries for "The Unpardonable Sin," by RUPERT HUGHES, was told, rather scornfully and rather haughtily, that it was not the intention to have the book there or to assist in its circulation. No explanation of the refusal was made, but it would be both interesting and profitable to have one, and it might well be obtained by the Federal authorities. For, of the innumerable books that the war has produced, not half a dozen, if as many, that would be catalogued as fiction better deserve reading by good Americans of every age and both sexes than does "The Unpardonable Sin," and none better rewards a careful perusal.

Many parts of the book, indeed, will be found highly objectionable by pro-Germans and by pacifists, and there are, perhaps, a few people outside of those two closely related classes who, in this instance as in so many others, think ignorance is innocence and hope to abolish painful or terrible facts by ignoring them. It is true that Captain HUGHES tells plainly, but always decently, of certain abominable crimes committed by the Germans in Belgium. He doesn't tell all of those crimes, or the worst of them, because the revelation of some of them is possible only in official reports and technical treatises on psychopathology. He exercises a wise discretion and keeps well within the limits of the permissible, the commendable, and the essential—the essential because only by telling what he tells, and only by telling it as well as he tells it, can the American public be forced clearly to realize just why the United States and its allies have seemly determined, cost what it may, to fight this war with Germany to a real finish.

For every statement made by Captain HUGHES as of fact there is the warrant of sworn testimony, with names, dates, and places, in the reports of the Bryce Commission and those of the French and Belgian Governments. He has exaggerated nothing and set down nothing in malice. And it is this book that a New York library sees fit to banish from its shelves! Why? Who rejects the theory of disloyalty—and to protect the enemy from deserved obloquy is a form of treason—must resort to the alternative explanation, hardly more charitable, of a silly and vicious prudery. Anyhow, such a censorship of the public's reading matter by library officials is nothing less than intolerable.

From The New York Times Sept. 4th.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In today's issue of THE TIMES there is an article under the title, "Censorship at Its Very Worst," in which it is stated that "a very recent inquirer at one of the New York libraries for 'The Unpardonable Sin,' by Rupert Hughes, was told, rather scornfully and rather haughtily, that it was not the intention to have the book there or to assist in its circulation." It is not stated at what library this happened; and I fear some of your readers may be led to conclude that it was at some branch of the New York Public Library.

The book referred to was approved for purchase for the branches of the New York Public Library some time ago. In due course copies will go to every one of the branch libraries in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Richmond—the only libraries under the control of the New York Public Library. We cannot promise fully to meet the demand for the book, because our book funds are inadequate.

If the incident described by "Inquirer" occurred at a branch of the New York Public Library we shall be grateful to him if he will write us at once, giving the name of the branch and information that will enable us to identify the assistant who made such a statement as he describes. It goes without saying that branch library assistants do not decide questions of this sort.

Dear Arthur:

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN is a very, very strong book. It teaches just the lesson our people should learn. I am mighty glad Captain Hughes wrote it, and I hope it will be most widely read.

Faithfully yours,
Theodore Roosevelt

Rupert Hughes' "The Unpardonable Sin" was published June 14, and no book by Major Hughes has had so large a sale as "The Unpardonable Sin" within the same number of weeks following publication.

If you need shoes, there is no economy in waiting until they cost more. If we won the war tomorrow, leather wouldn't be plentiful for some time.

Walk-Over SHOES

This shoe, because it furnishes both Comfort and Style, is a Walk-Over leader. It has a heel and toe for the sidewalk—a toe and top for the office, and it contains room for one entire foot.

It is a favorite with men of all ages. You see, besides Comfort and Style, it brings with it the famous Walk-Over Quality.

ASSAIL WILLIAMS AT BANK CONVENTION

Sabin and Others Resent Controller's Alleged Reflection on State Banks.

HARDING ISSUES WARNING

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A vigorous slap at John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, by the State bankers, and a warning by W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, that German propagandists were at work among the ignorant in endeavoring to incite distrust of financial institutions and to cripple financial support of the war, were features of today's section sessions of the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

During the entire day speaker after speaker in the State Bank Section referred to a recent statement of the Controller which, for a brief period, compared failures in State and national banks, to the disparagement of the former. This culminated in a resolution adopted by the section, with only one dissenting vote, which "regarded as unfortunate" and "greatly deprecated" this statement.

The firing in Mr. Williams's direction began with the address of Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, who spoke on "Banking Evolution," and, after describing the essential services rendered by State banks in the nation's history, and the constant growth of these institutions, he referred to the Controller's statement.

"Concentration of our banking resources in the Federal Reserve system," he said, "has been invaluable in enabling us to undertake the financial operations essential to the war and still further to strengthen the system a vigorous campaign has been conducted to induce State banks to join. In this connection, however, public statements have been made that seem to me to be unfortunate in that they are not only misleading, but tend rather to retard than bring about the concentration that is desired.

"For instance, the Controller of the Currency recently issued a statement that for the first seven months in 1918 there was not a single national bank failure in the United States, whereas in the same time twenty-two State banks and trust companies in fourteen States have failed.

"State bankers naturally resent as incomplete a statement of that kind, as tending to discredit State institutions and injure their standing."

Ratio of Failures .02 Per Cent.

Mr. Sabin then showed that State bank and trust company failures affected only .02 per cent. of the resources of State institutions and that there were no State bank failures in forty-four States in the period mentioned.

"The Federal Reserve act is considered by many to be the last word in banking legislation and the final solution of all our financial ills," Mr. Sabin continued, "it has undoubtedly functioned and is functioning well in these abnormal times, and since its operations were commenced in 1914 bankers have enjoyed many privileges that were formerly denied to them; but there is still room for development, and I believe that our Federal Reserve system is but the beginning of an evolution in banking that will eventually give us a single, uniform, and unified banking system. That may be a far distant ideal, but I believe it is worth cherishing.

"In the natural evolution of banking is this country it is quite certain that our vision must extend beyond the State, beyond the nation—out into the world at large," said Mr. Sabin, referring to the subject of international finance. "Branches of American banks are being opened in foreign countries from time to time, and not only American finance, but American merchant marine and commerce will be greatly promoted thereby—and with the co-operation of our authorities in Washington the development of our interest in foreign trade and industry may at this psychological moment be most rapid.

"We must adjust our minds not only to the expansion of our own banking interests abroad, but perhaps even to co-operation with foreign banks in some international banking plan which will meet the exigencies forced upon us by the war. With half of the world on a paper basis, it is certain that some international banking agreement must be worked out if we are to stabilize the work, a tokens of exchange and expedite the trade of nations.

"It seems important that private initiative and enterprise should be given the widest possible latitude in this field of keeping with the public interest.

"It seems equally important to me that Governmental activities be restricted to the support of such enterprise rather than to supplanting it. For instance, the original proposition to organize a foreign exchange bank in connection with our Federal Reserve system seemed to be unnecessary, as our present banking system is providing for these needs with greater efficiency and less expense than would be possible through any Government agency."

E. D. Hurford of Iowa, President of the State bank section, described the Controller of the Currency as "the advertising manager in Washington of the national banks," and declared that the ideal banking system would be brought about by the total abolition of Federal chartered institutions except the Federal Reserve banks.

Harding Denounces Propaganda.

W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, in addressing the National Bank Section, indicated that the Government was likely to control credits as a war measure, but deprecated all talk of its taking over banks or banking or commandeering savings as enemy propaganda, designed to embarrass the Government in its provisions for financing the war.

"The report spread broadcast," he said, "that the Government intends to confiscate the bank deposits is nothing more nor less than deliberate falsehood. It is German propaganda. Because of the spread of these reports large amounts of money in the aggregate are being hoarded by workmen who are now making high wages and who refuse to bank them.

"It goes without saying that the Government intends nothing of the sort. It urges the putting of money on deposit or, still better, in War Savings Stamps or Liberty Bonds."

Mr. Harding urged the bankers to use their utmost efforts to increase the production of foodstuffs and all other essentials required to winning the war.

President J. Elwood Cox of the National Bank Section, congratulated the national banks for the great part they have played in war financing and the conservation of credit. George Bryan, general counsel of the Virginia Bankers' Association, spoke on "State Taxation of National Banks," and Arthur E. Bestor, President of the Chautauqua Institutions and Director of the Speakers' Division of the Committee on Public Information, spoke on "Mobilizing the Mind of America."

Mr. Bestor aroused applause when he pointed out that there was great danger in the desire of many to forsake their present positions of usefulness to engage in the more spectacular posts which have the glamour of war activities about them.

Joseph Chapman, Vice President of the Northwest National Bank of Minneapolis, illustrated graphically the great service done by the Federal Reserve law.

"This year there are over a billion bushels of wheat passing through Duluth," said Mr. Chapman, "and it is being handled without straining our finances and without incident. In 1907, before the Federal Reserve law, we had a big wheat crop—but not by any means so big as this year. Yet in that year the financial structure of the nation broke down absolutely, and grain buying had to be stopped for ninety days because of it. Think what would have happened to us if that had been the case this year."

The actual convention, with the work of all sections cleared away, begins tomorrow morning at the Auditorium.

Officers for the year elected by the national bank section were: President, Oliver J. Sands, Richmond, Va.; Vice President Walter W. Head, Omaha; Chairman Executive Committee, H. H. McKee, Washington, D. C.; Secretary, Jerome Thralls, New York; Executive Committee, M. P. Catling, New York; Nelson N. Lampert, Chicago; Edward S. Brown, New Bedford, Mass.; E. Kirby Smith, Freeport, La.; J. A. Pondrum, Houston, Texas, and Joseph H. Calfee, St. Louis.

WHITNEY FOUND FEW TOOK CROSS TOWN LINES

Actual Count, Service Commissioner Believes, Forecasts Success of Renewed Shuttle Service.

Before it was determined to resume shuttle service through Forty-second Street, between Times Square and the Grand Central Station, on or before Oct. 5, Public Service Commissioner Whitney, it was learned yesterday, had a count taken of the number of passengers on the Seventh Avenue subway who spent an extra nickel to cross town on the surface lines. The count was taken during morning and evening rush hours at Thirty-fourth, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-third, Fourteenth, and Eighth Streets. The total number who got out of the subway and took trolley cars during the morning was 703, and in the evening it was a little more than 000.

Mr. Whitney said yesterday that he was surprised at the small number, because he expected to learn that several thousands at least paid an extra fare to get to their work and home again. He accounted for the small number by saying that subway travelers have learned how to travel without changing routes, and that the shuttle service through Forty-second Street probably would be able to accommodate all who used it without congestion or confusion.

Those who transferred from the subway to the trolleys, he said, of course did not represent the total number who would use the shuttle service, for the reason that many walked to their destination, but he thought the count indicated easy, safe, and comfortable travelling on the shuttle as compared with the reverse conditions when it was first operated in the early days of August.

This better condition would be assured, he believed, because of the knowledge travelers have gained by experience, and because passengers on the Seventh Avenue line will continue to be able to transfer to Brooklyn. It was understood that this transfer method would cease when the shuttle operation was resumed, but the Interborough Company has agreed to continue it until the Old Slip-Clark Street tunnel and the various terminals of the company have been completed, thus permitting the free action of trains.

Mr. Whitney said that the contractor who is building the tunnel was finding trouble in getting enough capital to finish the work, owing to the condition of the money market. He also said that the work of laying the tracks could have been begun two weeks ago, and under pressure the work could have been finished in sixty days. He thought that some way would be found of straightening out the financial difficulty and that trains would be operating through the tunnel some time in December.

The Atlantic Avenue terminal in Brooklyn, Mr. Whitney said, would be ready when the tunnel was, and all of the other terminals would be completed at the same time, thus permitting the speediest operation of trains.

CAN'T OBEY SCHEDULES.

N. Y. Railways Bondholders Protest —B. R. T. to Put Up Coney Fare.

The Public Service Commission yesterday ordered the New York Railways Company to file schedules covering its day service and to operate cars at night in conformity with the schedules prepared by the commission. John C. Cobb, who represents the minority bondholders of the company, thought they should be heard, and the commission will give them an opportunity at the final hearing next Tuesday.

Counsel for Mr. Cobb told the commission that nothing in the company's charter required it to comply with the orders as to adequate service. He said the company was physically and financially unable to adhere to the commission's schedules, and intimated that if it tried to obey the orders it would result in the company going out of business.

Many complaints of the intention of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to cut off the commutation rate to Coney Island and return and the Summer excursion fares resulted yesterday in an order by the Public Service Commission for an inquiry to begin Sept. 30 at 10:30 o'clock. In announcing the increased rates the company explained that it was "in view of prevailing conditions."

The low rates were established several years ago.

WILL DROP POLITICS TO GET BEHIND LOAN

"This Is Organization's Business," Says the National Chairman; "Everything Else Is Chores."

With campaigns in progress in every State, Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, yesterday issued an appeal from his headquarters in this city to Republican workers throughout the country, urging them to drop politics and get behind the Fourth Liberty Loan with all their might. The appeal was supplementary to personal letters sent to all the Republican State Chairmen throughout the country.

"The entire Republican organization in every voting precinct in this country shall be a fighting force in this Liberty Loan drive; all else is chores," is the substance of the message from National Chairman Hays.

Here is the text of the appeal:

"To All Republican Workers:

"The mission of America is about to be accomplished. American soldiers in France are at this moment demonstrating to the world the reason for America and the stuff of which this Republic is made. Their complete success and the consequent eternal establishment everywhere in the world of the integrity of American rights, interests, and honor and the right of men to govern themselves are all assured with the proper performance of the plainest duty of the citizenry at home.

"The Fourth Liberty Loan is our next objective. There is no geography, political or physical, in the patriotism of this country. Democrats and Republicans alike love their flag and are ready to die for it. We continually insist for all parties that the war be kept out of partisan politics and that partisanship be kept out of the war.

"Just as in Congress the Republicans led the fight that made possible the passage of the great war measures, so now the party membership and organization has an immediate, definite war task in the accomplishment of which it can fully function. I repeat, let there be no contest in this country with any thing that touches the war except that contest—who best can serve, who most can give.

"The success of the Fourth Liberty Loan shall be the Republican Party's supreme motif of thought and action until that objective is attained. Wherever Republicans are together, by two or two thousand, it shall be a win-the-war meeting. Just as the Republican Party's every action at all times has been and shall be determined solely by how can we contribute most to the war's success, so now our every thought and action shall be determined entirely by how we can make certain the quick over-subscription of the Fourth Liberty Loan. This is a united country's next message to Germany.

"The entire Republican organization in every voting precinct in this country shall be a fighting force in this Liberty Loan drive. This is the Republican organization's business. This is the real business of every man, woman, and child in America. Everything else is chores."

(Signed) "WILL H. HAYS."

George A. Glynn, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, was in Albany yesterday. Assemblyman H. Elmini Machold of Jefferson County, who has been appointed head of the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican State Committee, was at Republican State headquarters in West Thirty-ninth Street.

"There will be no speaking campaign until after the Liberty Loan drive has been ended," he said when the appeal of Chairman Hays was called to his attention.

SEEK WIDER USE OF PEAT.

Its Possibilities as Coal Substitute Under Discussion Here.

Members of the American Peat Society met yesterday for a three days' conference in the Hotel McAlpin. Professor Clarence C. Osborn of the United States Geological Survey and Professor Homer C. Thompson of the United States Department of Agriculture read papers on the possibilities of a wider use of peat as a substitute for coal. Its value is being more widely recognized, it was stated, in view of the fuel situation, and in many parts of this country and Canada it is being developed as a beneficial agricultural asset.

Among some of the members present who will discuss different phases of peat production were B. F. Haanel, chief engineer of fuel testing of mines in Canada; Ernest V. Moore of Montreal, John S. Hudson of Boston, a member of the Massachusetts Fuel Board; Professor W. R. Beattie of the United States Department of Agriculture and Dr. C. D. Jenkins of Boston.

WILSON WILL SPEAK FOR THE LOAN HERE

at the City Hall to signal the great drive, and simultaneously the Liberty Loan parade will start southward from Fifth Avenue and Fifty-first Street. At noon the Altar of Liberty in Madison Square will be dedicated by E. de Cartier, the Belgian Minister. The ceremonies will be attended by military and naval forces of the United States and allied countries.

Ceremonies at St. Patrick's.

The ceremonies at the Altar of Liberty will follow a solemn requiem mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in honor of the dead of the 69th Regiment. The services will be at 10 o'clock and the Rt. Rev. John Edwards, V. G., will be the celebrant. Mgr. Lavelle will deliver an address and a brief sermon will be preached by Dr. Joseph A. Mulry, President of Fordham University. The guests of honor at the services will be the Belgian Minister and his staff, Rear Admiral Usher, Rear Admiral Gleaves, Rear Admiral MacDonald, Admiral Grout of the French Navy, and Commodore Lionel Wells of the Royal British Navy.

The Mayor's Liberty Loan Committee met yesterday afternoon and formulated definite plans for soliciting subscriptions from the 100,000 men and women in the employ of the city. Practically every department was represented, and addresses were made by Mayor Hylan and Controller Craig. In the appeal to be made emphasis will be placed on the fact that city employes are exempt from the Federal income tax. For the Third Liberty Loan the Mayor's Committee collected subscriptions amounting to $3,324,200.

The Allied Music Industrial and Professional Trades announced yesterday that a Liberty Loan concert would be given in Carnegie Hall on Monday evening at which Galli-Curci, Caruso, John McCormack, and Jascha Heifetz would appear. The only requirement for admission is a subscription to the Liberty Loan sent by mail to the Allied Music Industrial and Professional Trades. Tickets to the concert will be sent on receipt of subscriptions.

The Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, which obtained $110,000,000 of subscriptions to the Third Loan, plans to make a still better record for itself in the Fourth Loan. Mrs. John T. Pratt is Chairman of the committee.

Suggestion Sent to Banks.

The New York Clearing House Association sent out a letter yesterday to banks and trust companies suggesting that they assist in financing subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan by making ninety-day loans on Liberty bonds of the new issue at 4¼ per cent., the coupon rate, and that they require not more than 10 per cent. margin.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee, has written to about 2,500 corporations in this city which have offices or plants in cities outside this district requesting them to file their loan subscriptions with their principal banking institution or with the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which their principal banking connection is situated.

Bankers generally yesterday were unanimous in expressing the opinion that the Fourth Liberty Loan would be a great success. It was agreed that the raising of $6,000,000,000 was a big task, but nevertheless there was a feeling of confidence that the desired results would be accomplished. Among those who expressed their confidence of success were Otto H. Kahn of Kahn, Loeb & Co., Alexander J. Hemphill, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Guaranty Trust Company, and Seward Prosser, President of the Bankers Trust Company.

The Gotham National Bank announced yesterday that subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan had already been received from every officer and employe of the bank. The institution claims the honor of being the first in obtaining a 100 per cent. record.

INTEND TO PUSH $50 BONDS.

Treasury Disproves Rumor That $200 Will Be Smallest Offered.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Final preparations for the Liberty Loan campaign went steadily ahead today. Treasury Department officials took cognizance of widespread reports that no subscriptions of less than $200 would be accepted for the Fourth Loan, and that no $50 bonds would be issued. As proving the falsity of these rumors, officials pointed to the fact that a larger portion of $50 bonds had been printed this time than ever before, and to the additional fact that loan committees had been included to make strong efforts to sell these "baby bonds" to persons of very small means, who were inclined not to participate in the loan.

About 1,500,000 bonds, mainly of small denominations, had been finished by the Bureau of Printing and Engraving today, and these were on their way to Federal Reserve District Headquarters. The first shipment went yesterday to San Francisco and other distant points, and officials hope to have some bonds ready for outright sale in the large cities when the subscription period opens just after next Friday at midnight.

COLONEL TO AID THE LOAN.

Will Speak in Several Cities on War Topics.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 25.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will leave on Friday for an extended trip, speaking in several cities for the Liberty Loan. Patriotism, speeding up the war, and a peace of overwhelming victory will be his topic. His first speech will be in Baltimore on Saturday, and then at Columbus, Kansas City, and Wichita.

Returning to New York City the Colonel will deliver an address at the Liederkranz Club. The members have urged the Colonel to make this speech, and if the club is not large enough Carnegie Hall will be engaged. Afterward the Colonel will make two speeches in New Hampshire and several speeches in New England cities. On Columbus Day Colonel Roosevelt will speak in Oyster Bay.

Assigns Chicago's Loan Quota.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The distribution of the seventh Federal Reserve District quota of $870,000,000 for the Fourth Liberty Loan was announced tonight, as follows: Chicago and Cook County, $252,000,000; Illinois, (outside Cook County,) $113,100,000; Iowa, $140,900,000; Wisconsin, $100,050,000; Michigan, $147,900,000; Indiana, $100,750,000.

Subscribe $1,075,000 in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25.—The first local subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan was handed in today. It was for $1,000,000, and was followed by another one for $75,000. Ex-Governor, P. L. Goldsborough, Chairman of the Maryland Liberty Loan Committee, said he was not at liberty to divulge the names of the subscribers.

WILL SELL BUSCH PROPERTY

Palmer to Dispose of Riverside Drive Realty at Private Sale.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Real estate on Riverside Drive, New York City, owned by Mrs. Lilly Busch, widow of Adolphus Busch, millionaire brewer of St. Louis, is to be sold by the Federal Custodian of Alien Property at private sale, authority for the sale is given in an Executive order of the President, made public today at the Custodian's office.

All of Mrs. Busch's property in this country, valued at many millions of dollars, was seized by the Alien Property Custodian while Mrs. Busch was in Germany, but since her return to America she has filed a petition asking for its return on the ground that she is an American. No action has yet been taken on the petition, and the President's order explained that it was for this reason that the property in New York could not be sold at public auction.

An offer for the purchase of the Riverside Drive property was made before the President's order was issued, it is disclosed, and Mrs. Busch consented in writing that the sale be made.

THE CARDINAL'S WILL READ.

Not to be Made Public, Says Mgr. Lavelle—Comparatively Poor.

Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, Vicar General of the archdiocese, announced yesterday that the will of Cardinal Farley had been opened and read late on Tuesday night. He said the instrument would not be made public, as it disposed of Church properties and contained nothing of wide interest.

It was ascertained, however, that the Cardinal died a comparatively poor man. Though his income as head of New York Catholicity and as a Prince of the Church was large, his many benefactions had disposed year by year of much of his income.

The first official act of Mgr. Lavelle following the Cardinal's death was the appointment of the Rev. Joseph A. O'Connor as President of the Cathedral College. Father O'Connor has been Vice President and Professor of Studies. He takes the place of the Rev. Dr. William F. Hughes, who was assigned by Cardinal Farley to the pastorate of the Church of St. Gregory the Great, Ninetieth Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

DROP IN EXPRESS REVENUES

Returns for First Four Months of Year Show Huge Deficit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Reports of operating revenues and expenses of the eight large express companies for April, made public today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, show a net deficit of $1,046,244, as compared with a net income of $460,950 in April last year.

A net operating deficit of $4,442,815 is shown for the four months ending with April, as compared with a net operating income of $1,060,354 for the same period in 1917.

Dark Chiffon Velvets Liked.

Black and dark-colored chiffon velvets are reported by local factory representatives to be among the most popular weaves of the various pile fabrics for Fall which have been selling steadily and consistently since the early part of the Summer. Dress manufacturers are said to have placed some very liberal reorders for this weave when it could be found in the desired colorings. Retailers from many parts of the country have also been seeking further supplies of chiffon velvets, together with but slightly less liberal quantities of velveteens, velours, and even corduroys. It would appear that the volume of business for the season is to depend entirely on the rate of production which the mills are able to maintain.

Restrict Silk Noils Imports.

By a new ruling of the War Trade Board, importers of silk noils, silk noil yarns, garnetted stock, and silk waste will hereafter be required to give to the United States Government an option to purchase all such commodities imported by them at a price 2 per cent above the cost at the foreign port of shipment, as shown by the consular invoice, including all charges except prepaid freight and prepaid insurance. All outstanding licenses for the importation of these commodities have been revoked as to ocean shipment after Sept. 10, 1918. The new licenses to be issued for the importation of these commodities are to contain the provision that the bill of lading shall be indorsed by the Association of America. The association will procure the option above mentioned before releasing the goods to the importer.

Better Domestic Beaded Bags.

Some very fine beaded bags for women are now being made in this country. The many difficulties in the way of obtaining the Paris article have tended to spur domestic manufacturers on to increased effort, and the result in many cases is considered by highly satisfactory. It was pointed out that one of the chief difficulties is that of obtaining labor sufficiently skilled to duplicate French workmanship. Another handicap is in the scarcity of certain colored beads. There are some manufacturers, however, who still have a fair assortment of beads, and several of them are said to be turning out bags of a design and quality which compare very favorably with the imported product.

Suit Blouses Gain in Popularity.

The tailored and semi-tailored blouse in various suit shades, according to reports from representative manufacturers in this city, is becoming one of the most generally sought features in the Fall trade. Some quite heavy silks, comparatively, are being used in many of these models, though as a rule the heavy fabric is confined to the body of the waist while the sleeves, yoke and trimmings are of a sheer fabric. Though collarless models seem still to be in the lead, there are more high collared waists selling every week, and the prediction is made in some quarters that before the season is over high collars will be "in" again and will hold the field throughout the Winter.

Busy Week in Separate Skirts.

Quite a wave of buying seems to be spreading itself over the local separate skirt market this week. According to several manufacturers, there are more buyers in town just now than there have been at any one time for three or four weeks. Their presence is taken to indicate that early business at retail has been good, and the fact that they are fairly eager for additional supplies would seem to substantiate this assumption. A great many simple tailored skirts in style woolen such as serges, jerseys and broadcloths are wanted. There is also quite a demand for the more dressy models in silks as well as woolens, and in attractive combinations of the two.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

A fair business was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday, though selling was again largely confined to second hands. September lots of several constructions of printcloths were let out by these sellers during the day, among them being 39-inch 72-76s at 21½ cents; 38½-inch 68-68s, 17 cents; 38½-inch 60-48s, 14½ cents, and 27-inch 64-60s, 11½ cents. Some of these prices were lower than those paid for the same goods on Tuesday, and reflected the prevailing quiet of the market. First-hand business for the day was made up mostly of September and October lots of sateens and twills at Government prices. Some odd constructions of sateens were also sold by first hands, for shipment in September, October and November, at prices subject to revision when the Government figures for these goods for the July-September quarter are announced.

Drug Supplies Are Light.

Scant supplies and delayed transportation of products are hampering business in drugs and fine chemicals. Drug and Chemical Markets will say today: "Botanical drugs are showing increased strength. Increased interest is taken by the trade in the cultivation of camphor in Florida, now that the production of this commodity in Japan has dwindled. The heavy chemical market is fairly active, considering the absence of dealers, who are visiting the chemical exposition, and the tightness of the money market. Fall business in dyestuffs and colors promises to be the best in several years. Trade is restricted, however, by the difficulty of obtaining intermediates."

Good Business in Men's Shoes.

Salesmen now on the road with the higher-priced lines of men's shoes are turning in good business, in spite of the restrictions that have been put on styles, colors, etc., in these goods by the Government, and the higher prices that have to be asked as a result of the increased production costs growing out of the war. As yet there has been no marked diminution of the business placed for cordovan and other "hard" leathers that are used in the shoes worn by the younger men, but the expected drop in this footwear, due to the steady increase in the number of these men entering the national service, may come in the form of smaller duplicate orders than usual for them later in the season. The proportion of high shoes to low that is being bought by retailers is said to be greater than in recent spring seasons.

SKUNK PELTS SOLD WELL.

Competition for Them Featured Fur Auction Yesterday.

Competition for skunk was easily the feature of yesterday's buying at the fur sale. It resulted in the establishment of a new high-record price for these skins in this country, Milton Schreiber & Co. having paid $9 each for the choicest lot offered. The sale was followed by considerable applause and aroused more enthusiasm than anything else that has been done at the sale thus far, possibly excepting the receipt of some of the biggest purchase pledges for the new Liberty bonds on the opening day. Among the other leading buyers of skunk was Harry M. Sameth, who purchased more than 3,000 of these pelts.

The prices got for common house cat skins also attracted attention, the best ones having been bought by Gottlieb Brothers for $1.42 each. Other furs sold during the day, together with the buyers and the highest prices paid, follow: Mole, 48 cents, the Speer Fur Corporation; kolinsky, $1.95, Joseph Steiner & Bros.; badger, $2.40, the Canadian Fur Manufacturing Company; otter, $30, Becker Brothers & Co.; leopard, $19.50, Eisenbach Bros. & Co.; ermine, $2.65, Joseph Steiner & Brothers, and chinchilla, $41, G. J. Fuerth. A single lot of ocelot, consisting of 35 skins, brought $1.50 each.

At the close of the afternoon session the grand sales total for the three days was announced as $1,750,000. The average prices got yesterday for kolinsky, badger, and leopard showed no change from those paid at the April sale of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation. Mole was 30 per cent. lower and Southern otter was off 15 per cent. The percentage advances shown by the other furs sold yesterday follow: House cat, 50; Northern otter, 15; ermine, 35; Northern skunk, 40, and Eastern skunk, 35 per cent.

Additional pledges for purchases of bonds in the Fourth Liberty Loan during the day brought the total to approximately $1,500,000. A natural freak in the form of a fox that was a cross between a gray and a silver was sold to Milton Schreiber for $500, the money going to swell the funds of the Red Cross. O. G. Becker, Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee of the Fur Trade, auctioned this skin. It was donated by George Schlums.

The sale will be continued today at 10 A. M. in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple. More than 99,000 squirrel, 41,000 mink, and 36,000 marmot will be among the principal offerings. Other furs to be sold during the day include varying quantities of civet cat, hair seal, Japanese marten, badger, mink, stone marten, and lynx.

Patterns and Piece Goods Sell.

In spite of the fact that the making of Winter suits, dresses, or skirts for women is a great deal more difficult than the making of Summer clothes, there is reported to be a very keen demand for patterns of Fall and Winter garments and for the materials of which these garments are to be made. Piece goods of all sorts, woolens, silks, cottons and mixtures are being taken, many of them in the best qualities obtainable. It follows that various trimmings such as beads, fringe, braids, etc., are sought in increasing quantities.

White Beaver Now on Market.

White, furry beaver, in the season's newest shapes, is expected to find favor in millinery circles. High-class manufacturers who are showing them have only the best to say regarding their sale. One attractive hat of this type seen here is a turban with the effect of a turn

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular on Small Turnover—Interest Revived in the Marine Deal.

It seems at the moment as though nothing could shake the stock market out of the routine it has been pursuing for some time. Transactions yesterday, following the first definite announcement of the terms of the new loan were almost a repetition of those of the previous session, and the day's total was the same. Except for the spurt which was brought about in International Mercantile Marine preferred in the late afternoon the list was featureless.

Steel took the news of the new labor adjustment calmly, and after a dip to 109¾ recovered to 110½ at the close, showing a net loss of ⅝ at that level. Traders were busy trying to figure the probable effect of the new wage increase on net earnings, but the operating factors are changing so rapidly that any computation based on past experience has little value. Other industrials were irregular, with the net changes confined to unsually small limits.

The renewed demand for Marine preferred carried that issue up to 100 in record time, and it closed near the top with a net advance of 3⅜, the common gaining 1½. In some quarters hope was revived of a definite announcement at an early date of the terms and meaning to stockholders of the sale of the British assets, possibly following a board meeting scheduled for today. The sale was effected some weeks ago, and as news about the company has hitherto been jealously guarded except when the pool was operating it is not strange that yesterday's intimation of a final disposition of the story was met with a good deal of skepticism. The market does not seem to offer the opportunity for realizing on the news that the pool has been waiting for.

Even to men accustomed to deal in big figures the total set by the Treasury Department for the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign has proved staggering. As Secretary McAdoo says, the human mind can hardly encompass the meaning of such a sum as $6,000,000,000 in terms of commodities or property. To raise such an amount in the three weeks of the campaign is the greatest task ever assumed by the bankers of America. They feel that it will be necessary to get approximately 25,000,000 subscribers to the loan, but they are attacking the job confident of meeting enthusiastic support in districts which proved but lukewarm in the earlier campaigns, before American troops began to count seriously. It should need little argument to obtain signatures to applications for this loan.

LONDON MARKET IS QUIET.

Land and Shipping Shares Bring the Best Prices.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Money was in strong demand on the market today and discounts were steady.

The Stock Exchange was generally quiet with a confident undertone. Home rails recovered on the prospect of an early termination of the railroad strike. Gilt edged securities were maintained. Land shares and shipping and engineering stocks brought the best prices. Of the other sections Mexican securities received the most attention.

Prices Steady on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Prices were steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 63 francs for cash. Exchange on London 26 francs 7 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 25 centimes.

Fires and Failures

You insure your merchandise against the remote possibility of a fire loss. Why not protect the same merchandise after it is converted into book accounts, against possible excessive credit losses?

American Credit Insurance provides absolute protection against abnormal, unexpected credit losses. And it does more. It serves to prevent losses, by providing for the allowance of all covered accounts not over forty-five days past due, if the company fails to collect them.

Foresight today means profit tomorrow. Safeguard yourself by taking precautions now, which will insure stability in the future. If you are a manufacturer or wholesaler, get the full particulars of the American's Unlimited Policy of Credit Insurance.

EXEMPTS PAY OF MEN IN ACTIVE SERVICE

RATIFIES INCOME SECTION

Agrees to Normal Tax on Individuals as Passed by House—Rapid Progress Made with Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Under an amendment agreed to to-day by the Senate Finance Committee to the $8,000,000,000 War Revenue bill all men in active service in the field or on the sea would be exempt from all income tax on compensation paid by the Government. In the provision as adopted by the House this exemption would extend only to salaries not exceeding $3,500. Under the Senate committee's amendment every man in active service abroad or on the sea will be allowed full exemption from income tax on his pay, while all men serving at home will have to pay the tax.

If the Senate committee's amendment goes through General Pershing would be exempt from paying any income tax on his Government pay, but Chief of Staff March, with the same rank, would be subject to the tax.

The motive behind the Finance Committee's action, it was explained by a member of the committee today, is to give advantage to men in active service while discouraging any effort upon the part of officers to seek out easy places at home.

Ratify Normal Income Tax.

The Finance Committee agreed upon the normal income tax upon individuals as passed by the House, embracing a 12 per cent. tax on net income, with the provision that the rate be 6 per cent. on the first $4,000. The normal tax section, as passed without change, provides:

Section 210.—That there shall be levied, collected and paid for each taxable year upon the net income of every individual a normal tax as follows:

(a) In the case of a citizen or resident of the United States 12 per cent. of the amount of the net income in excess of the credits provided in Section 216; provided, that upon the first $4,000 of this amount the rate shall be 6 per centum.

(b) In the case of a non-resident alien, 12 per cent. of the amount of the net income in excess of the credit provided in Section 216.

The credits in deductions allowed under Section 216, as they now stand in the bill, embrace:

1. The amount received as dividends from a corporation which is taxable upon its net income.

2. The amount received as interest upon obligations of the United States or any State, Territory or political subdivision which is included under the gross income tax.

3. In the case of a single person, a personal exemption of $1,000, or in the case of the head of a family or a married person living with husband or wife, a personal exemption of $2,000, a husband and wife to have but one exemption.

4. Two hundred dollars for each person other than husband or wife dependent upon the taxpayer, if such dependent is under 18 years of age, or incapable of self support.

5. In the case of a non-resident alien who is the subject of a country in which there is an income tax, the credits allowed to married persons or dependents will be granted only if his own country allows a similar credit to citizens of the United States.

The Finance Committee passed over the surtaxes which under the bill are to be levied in addition to the income tax. As passed by the House these run in graduated scale from 2 per cent. on incomes over $5,000 and not exceeding $7,500 up to 65 per cent. on incomes exceeding $5,000,000. The surtaxes will be taken up later on.

Adopt House Definition.

The committee adopted the House definition of individual income tax as follows:

"In the case of the individual the net income shall be compiled upon the basis of the taxpayer's annual accounting period, (fiscal year or calendar year,) in accordance with the method of accounting regularly employed in keeping his books; but if no such accounting has been so employed, or if it does not clearly reflect the income, the computation shall be made upon such basis and in such manner as in the opinion of the commissioner does clearly reflect the income. If a taxpayer changes his accounting period from a fiscal year to a calendar year, or calendar year to fiscal year, the net income shall, with the approval of the commissioner, be computed on the basis of such new accounting period."

The House section providing for taking of inventories to determine the income of a taxpayer was passed over, after some discussion, awaiting a report from Professor Adams, one of the Treasury experts. The only difference in opinion in the Senate Finance Committee over the inventory clause is as to its phrasing.

The section defining gross income came in for a long discussion. The clause embracing the tax upon salaries of the President, Judges of the Supreme and inferior courts, and appointive Government officers went over for further vote. The committee adopted the clauses allowing immunity in tax upon property acquired by gift, bequest or inheritance; income of foreign Governments from investments in United States of bonds, stocks, or other domestic securities; payments upon accident or health insurance or workmen's compensation and income accruing to the Government from any public utility or any essential governmental function.

In view of the progress that has already been made by the Senate Finance Committee it is expected that its deliberations over the bill may be completed toward the end of next week. In that event the measure will be in the Senate not later than a week from next Monday.

SPENDING LESS THIS MONTH

Drain on Treasury During September Much Less Than in August.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The drain on the Treasury for some undetermined reason has been less this month than for several months, amounting to date to $1,214,000,000, of which $1,004,000,000 went to the army, navy, and Shipping Board and other purposes, and $209,000,000 went as loans to allies.

If this rate continues, the Government will spend $1,500,000,000 this month, as compared with $1,805,000,000 last month, and $1,608,000,000 in July.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Watling, Lerchen & Co. of Detroit, representing a syndicate of bankers, have obtained the award of $2,870,000 City of Detroit 4 per cent. School bonds. The issue has been approved by the Capital Issues Committee.

The American Ice Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. and an additional dividend of 1 per cent. on the preferred stock, payable Oct. 25 to stock of record Oct. 15. This makes a full 6 per cent. dividend for the fiscal year.

H. B. Mingle, President of the Standard Aircraft Corporation and of the Standard Aero Corporation of New York, announces the appointment of Joseph A. Bower, Vice President of the Liberty National Bank, and Henry J. Fuller, Vice President of the Fairbanks-Canarse Co. as Directors of both companies.

Andrew W. Ralston, formerly associate manager, has been appointed manager of the Statistical Department of the Standard Statistics Company, Inc., to succeed Robert Le C. Hovey, who has gone abroad in the service of the Red Cross.

The Wall Street Division of the New York University School of Commerce, at 25 Broad Street, will open today with a full force of instructors, and complete courses. The classes are held from 5:15 to 7 o'clock P. M.

COTTON ADVANCES ON OCTOBER NOTICES

Cables from Liverpool, the Weather, and Crop Report Are Stimulating Factors.

The cotton market yesterday had a firm opening, initial quotations showing an advance of 39 to 55 points, compared with the previous day's closing prices. During the early trading the market moved upward, some of the months making a net gain of 65 to 75 points. The buying was stimulated by October notices, involving only about 4,000 bales, and the other factors were firm cables from Liverpool, and prospects of a bullish weather and crop report.

The advance in prices, however, attracted some local selling and a slight reaction set in, particularly in October, where the range between the high and low prices of the day amounted to 60 points.

The talk of price-fixing did not excite as much interest as on previous days, and the announcement that Southern Senators and Congressmen had appointed themselves a committee to look after the interests of cotton growers was reassuring. Despite all that has been said and done in respect to cotton price-fixing there has always been a feeling in the cotton trade that the Administration could be relied upon to show the South both kindness and consideration, and consequently it is confidently believed that no drastic action is likely to be taken by Washington.

The market sold up on the publication of the weekly weather report. This referred to the unfavorable effects of last week's light frosts in northern Mississippi, Tennessee, Northern Texas, and Oklahoma, and recent heavy equinoctial rains.

The market closed steady with October showing a net advance of 55 points, while December was 48 points higher and May contracts 45 points higher.

INTERBORO PROFITS CUT BY THE WAR

Gross Revenues Higher for Fiscal Year Over 1917, but Added Expenses Lower Net Income.

MORE PASSENGERS CARRIED

Higher-Priced Labor and Materials and Federal Taxes Sent Up Operating Costs.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company says in its pamphlet report for the year ended June 30 last, which is to be issued today, that there was an increase in the number of passengers carried, but increased costs of labor, materials, and taxes absorbed the additional revenue and more. The gross operating income was $40,497,728, a gain of $631,581 over the preceding fiscal year. Operating expenses amounted to $19,113,336, or $2,530,043 more than in 1917. The expansion of operating charges amounted to more than 15 per cent.

The tax bill of $3,758,583 showed an increase of 30.89 per cent. Of this the subway division's taxes increased more than 105 per cent., as compared with the year before, the result in large part of the application of the Federal imposts on income, capital stock, and excess profits. The Manhattan Railway division, the elevated lines, had a tax enhancement of slightly less than 2 per cent., the product of an increase in the special franchise and real estate taxes.

The surplus for the year after paying 17½ per cent. in dividends on the capital stock was $1,046,267, a figure less than half as large as in the previous fiscal period. The principal items of the statement are set forth in this table:

Operating expenses	19,113,336	16,583,293
Taxes	3,758,583	2,871,384
Outside income	580,569	539,076
Net income	18,219,408	20,970,545
Interest, &c.	13,556,649	12,085,186

Accruals under contracts, &c.	2,508,508	217,295
Dividends	8,125,000	7,000,000
Total surplus June 30.	18,862,077	17,615,944

Gain on Subway Division.

The report states that 770,998,335 passengers were carried, an increase of 7,424,250. The subways accounted for 5,143,674 of the gain and the elevated lines 3,280,576.

"The gain on the subway division," says Theodore P. Shonts, President, in his statement to stockholders, "was the result of an increase of 13,002,257 in passengers carried over the lines constructed and equipped under Contract No. 3 and a decrease of 10,858,583 in the traffic over the old subway lines. The increase in the Manhattan division was due principally to the opening during the year of the West Farms branch, Queensboro Bridge line, and the Eighth Avenue and 162d Street connection of the elevated extensions.

"Additions and betterments were made during the year, including the company's contribution toward the construction and equipment of new lines, to the amount of $28,267,877. The new elevated station at 155st Street and the reconstruction of the 135th Street station on Eighth Avenue have been completed and placed in operation.

"The Eighth Avenue and 162d Street connection with the Jerome Avenue line at River Avenue has also been completed and placed in operation. The system generally is being rounded out and improved preparatory to larger operation by the extension of station platforms and stairways, the installation of additional electrical safety devices, and the construction of additional exits to be used in case of emergency.

"Three hundred and forty-four additional cars have been purchased and placed in service and all of the Manhattan Division motor cars have been equipped with trip devices for the purpose of automatically stopping trains should the motorman pass the danger signal.

"During the year the Seventh Avenue line from its connection with the present Subway at Broadway and Forty-fifth Street to South Ferry, and to Wall and William Streets on the Clark Street tunnel branch, was practically completed, except station finish. On that portion of the Clark Street tunnel line from Wall Street to a connection with the present subway east of Borough Hall, Brooklyn, the construction work is about 93 per cent. completed, except station finish. Track installation is progressing. The equipment of this line, except the Clark Street tunnel portion, is nearly completed.

Construction on New Lines.

"The construction of the Eastern Parkway line from terminus of present Subway at Atlantic Avenue to Buffalo Avenue, including Nostrand Avenue branch, is about 90 per cent. completed. The Livonia Avenue extension is about 25 per cent. completed. The station finish work is under way. The only equipment work started is drainage, which is 35 per cent. completed.

"The construction of Lexington Avenue line from its connection with present subway at Thirty-eighth Street and Park Avenue to its terminus at Woodlawn Road, Jerome Avenue, including station finish, is practically completed. The equipment work is practically completed, except ventilation system, details of which are being worked out.

"The construction of the Pelham Bay branch from its connection with Lexington Avenue Subway at 135th Street and Park Avenue to Bancroft Street and Whitlock Avenue, is about completed and the equipment work is progressing. The elevated portion from Bancroft Street to Pelham Bay Park terminus is not erected.

"When the above lines are completed the system will consist of a line from 242d Street and Broadway (Van Cortlandt Park) via Broadway to a connection with the Seventh Avenue Subway at Forty-fifth Street, Times Square, there being two and three tracks above Ninety-sixth Street and four tracks below Ninety-sixth Street; also a line from 241st Street and White Plains Road, consisting of a three-track viaduct structure via White Plains Road to 179th Street and Boston Road, West Farms, where it joins the West Farms branch of the present subway, which connects with the Broadway Subway at Ninety-sixth Street, and thence to Times Square, where it connects with the Seventh Avenue Subway. Total mileage of the Interborough system is 376.49."

BARUCH GIVES WARNING AGAINST USING AGENTS

No One Has Any Special Influence with War Industries Board, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Bernard M. Baruch, Chairman of the War Industries Board, stated today that attorneys or other agents who represented to business interests that they had influence with his organization, and were in a position to obtain special consideration for claims, were simply attempting to obtain commissions under false pretenses.

It was the desire of the War Industries Board, Mr. Baruch said, to obtain the view of every citizen as to business conditions and matters affecting the welfare of special industries, but the employment of attorneys and special agents to present such arguments was both unnecessary and undesirable.

No man, said Mr. Baruch, whatever claim to power he might make, was actually in a position to influence the decisions of the War Industries Board. Every citizen was on an equal footing, and the appearance of special agents to plead a cause would prejudice rather than aid it.

In order that all legitimate arguments might be presented, Mr. Baruch continued, an effort was being made to decentralize the work of the War Industries Board where possible. When this is accomplished interested citizens will be able to obtain a hearing locally and will not be compelled to make the trip to Washington. The plan is being worked out through the Resources and Conservation Section.

Another point which Mr. Baruch made was that there existed in the minds of some business men confusion as to the functions of the War Industries Board in the matter of contracts. He pointed out that the board did not originate any contracts, and that it simply cleared contracts originating elsewhere with the Government by directing the flow of materials to fill those agreements.

Mr. Baruch discussed also reports that certain allies of the United States were making big profits at the expense of the United States through sales made to various agencies of this Government. He said that he did not believe this to be true. Quoting figures obtained from the War Trade Board, he showed that the re-export business of Great Britain in 1918 had decreased 86 per cent. from the re-export business of 1913, and that here was a falling off of 70 per cent. in the direct export business of the United Kingdom between 1913 and 1918.

Brooklyn Borough Office Manager Unable to Give Details at Hearing.

When the hearing was resumed yesterday by the Public Service Commission on the application of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company for permission to increase its gas rate from 95 cents to $1.25, Assistant Corporation Counsel O'Brien sought to show that the company was not in as bad financial condition as it pretended to be.

Miss Mary E. Dillon, the company's office manager, was a witness, but she was unable to give the precise valuation of the various items which made up the company's estimate of the value of its plant, names of all stock and bond holders, the charges made for installing meters and gas ranges, and other details which Mr. O'Brien asked for. The commission agreed with Wilson W. Thompson, counsel for the company, that Mr. O'Brien will have to dig out the information from the company's books.

Asked if the company's income was not gradually increasing, Miss Dillon said its normal increase was from 10 to 15 per cent. a year. She did not think this would be the case this year because the war had virtually stopped all building operations. The hearing will be resumed next Wednesday.

AMERICA IS ASSURED OF POTASH SUPPLY

URGES GOVERNMENT AID

Bradley Sees Danger to the Industry in Heavy Taxation, Fuel, and Labor Conditions.

Papers read yesterday at the National Exposition of Chemical Industries, held in the Grand Central Palace, indicated in no uncertain tones that Germany's hope of using its potash resources as a big economic trump card at the peace conference, as a factor in securing satisfactory terms, was doomed to absolute failure so far as the United States is concerned. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion of the experts discussing the subject that with proper application American requirements in the potash line could be met adequately without the necessity of importing this important ingredient from Germany after the war.

Linn Bradley, Chief Engineer of the Research Corporation of this city, whose subject was "Recovery of Potash from Iron Blast Furnaces and Cement Kilns by Electrical Precipitation," began by saying that the recovery of potash in the United States was making rapid strides. He said the industry may be roughly divided into those plants in which the recovered potash is the main product and those in which the potash is recovered as a by-product. Mr. Bradley said his paper would deal with the latter phase, as it was believed that, while the largest immediate tonnage may be obtained from desert lakes, kelp, alunite, and a few other scurces, nevertheless a study of the economic problems would show that the surest way of making the American potash industry a permanent and ensuring one, able to supply all of our requirements even against German competition, was to develop and rely upon the by-product potash.

The speaker called attention to the fact that Great Britain has furnished large sums of money to assist in recovering potash from iron blast furnace gases, and predicted that this source would enable England to obtain enough potash to equal her entire pre-war importation from Germany. France, he said, was reported to be interested keenly in the possibilities in this direction, and added "we may see the time when France will be recovering large quantities of potash from iron ores which Germany has made such strenuous efforts to control."

Mr. Bradley said that the total production of pig iron in this country was such that about 200 furnaces of the size referred to in a table accompanying his paper would be necessary to meet American requirements if the furnaces were of the same capacity.

"So," he said, "easy to see," the speaker said, "that we now have sufficient furnace capacity to produce annually over 1,500,000 tons of potash per annum—far in excess of our pre-war requirements. The difficulty lies in the fact that we have not found that all furnace burdens carry the amount of potash shown in the table. If the furnace charges and operations could be adapted so that one fifth of the amount, or 300,000 tons, could be produced this would meet our needs without assistance from any other source."

The South as a Potash Producer.

It was pointed out that Serecites and Cambrian potash-bearing slates had been located in Georgia which carry potash in considerable quantity, several deposits analyzing as high as 8 or 9 per cent. Commenting upon this, Mr. Bradley said freight rates should be very low since this material was located very close to a large market—the cotton fields of Georgia and Alabama.

"Referring again to the iron industry and its relation to the potash question," Dr. Bradley continued, "it should be pointed out that in the Alabama district there is an abundance of excellent coal, labor is plentiful and climatic conditions are such that the district may be considered an all-year one as far as operating is concerned. When it is realized that there is immediately at hand an enormous tonnage of high-grade iron ore which carries such a large potash content and that the South produces our cotton and therefore is the large consumer of potash, and thus provides a large market within a few miles, the economic importance of this situation can be better appreciated.

"The South, produces pig iron cheaper than any other district in normal times. In fact, their furnaces must do this in order to stay in the market. The South does not yet consume as much iron and steel products as its population justifies, and, therefore, their iron has to carry a high freight charge if it is shipped North to the larger markets. The manufacture of cast-iron pipe has, however, grown to a large industry. In the future, more and more iron and steel will be consumed locally. It is evident that the South is coming into its own very rapidly. The additional profit which can be obtained from the potash will be of great assistance in keeping their iron furnaces in blast when the market sags. The South has a very fortunate combination of labor, raw materials, climate, and a large and near fertilizer market."

Mr. Bradley told the chemists that the Allies were alive to the importance of developing potash supplies. He said investigations covering three years showed that Great Britain could produce enough potash to satisfy all of her requirements. The British Potash Company, Ltd., has recently been organized, and the British Government has undertaken to provide at least one-half of the total capital required since the funds necessary for big-scale operations contemplated would be more than individuals would feel able to supply in these times.

Sees Need of Federal Aid.

"It does not seem," Mr. Bradley said, "that our own Government should falter or lag behind in this field, but on the contrary should immediately make comprehensive plans and take energetic action of such a character as will insure the proper solution of the problems under discussion. At the present time individuals shy at putting their money into a new enterprise, which requires much labor and material without having adequate assurance that their efforts will meet with success. In order to do this the full and continuing support of the Government must be had.

"Priorities, labor, material, and fuel allocation play an all-important part, and on top of this the new industry is handicapped by having to face an enormous taxation before the plant is fully paid for from earnings, and there is no positive assurance that potash will long remain above the pre-war level. Surely this situation should be corrected promptly.

"It seems ridiculous that the United States should be playinb the role of food granary for ourselves and our Allies, also raising the cotton which is so necessary in connection with the war, and yet nothing is being done to provide the potash either for food purposes or for the cotton, except the limited and inadequate efforts due to private initiative. It ought to be emphasized that potash is a subject which should be understood and appreciated by every one in the nation, and that is should be considered primarily from the national point of view."

The speaker warned that Germany would do all in her power after peace was declared to break down that which will have been built up, just as she had destroyed beautiful French cities. Mr. Bradley suggested that an organization to have the approval of the technical societies be formed which fittingly might have the name of the American Potash Alliance, and that such an organization be made the nucleus of the propaganda for a domestic potash industry.

Warns of German Propaganda.

In closing Mr. Bradley said Germany already had her propaganda all prepared and ready for launching.

"One need not be surprised to learn that she has agents in the various governmental departments and bureaus in Washington ever ready to interfere with efforts being made by our technical and business men. Even now we hear rumors to the effect that potash is not a plant food and is not needed for cotton, potatoes and various other crops. Careful investigation of the Southern cotton fields should be convincing that this may be another piece of German propaganda. It is difficult to check up these rumors, but all of us should be on our guard against these German efforts.

C. A. Higgins, of the Hercules Powder Company, told of the recovery of potash from kelp, and the utilization of kelp ashes for fertilizer, but gave it as his opinion that kelp, solely as a source of potash, would never compete with unrestricted supplies from Europe, or even with that recovered in modern cement or blast furnace practice. Potash from desert lakes and alunite were discussed by John W. Hornsey, the other speaker being Alfred de Ropp, Jr., of the American Trona Corporation, who told of the potash plant at Searles Lake. In the evening motion pictures entertained the visitors with a reel giving the "Story of Potash."

At a meeting of the organizations backing the Chemical Exposition, it was decided to hold next year's exposition in Chicago. The show will probably be staged in the Coliseum in that city in the week of Sept. 22. Western interests have been desirous for some time of having the show held at a midcontinent point on account of its educational value. The exposition will probably be held again in New York in the Fall of 1920.

Larger attendance in the daylight hours of the exposition was followed again last night by a crowd that tested the capacity of the three floors where the show is being held. As on preceding nights, American, and allied soldiers and sailors flocked to the Palace in large numbers. Electrochemical products essential to carrying on the war were featured yesterday at the exposition. It was shown that the greatly increased production of materials wanted by the Government had in most cases been successfully met.

The exposition will conitnue today, and this afternoon the American Ceramics Society will meet in the conference room of the Palace, at which papers will be read on recent developments in the ceramic industries.

COMMENTS ON STEELPRICES

Iron Age Says New Scale Brought Some Surprises as to Details.

Commenting upon price-fixing for the fourth quarter, The Iron Age in its issue of today says that the announcement from Washington brought some surprises as to details, but not as to these two features: first, an advance to the merchant furnaces making basic and foundry pig iron; and, second, a refusal to make any advance on finished steel products. The paper added:

Lake Superior iron ore producers asked for 50 cents more and were granted 25 cents, on the ground that the 45 cent advance given them three months ago was all absorbed in higher rail freights. Eastern iron ore producers had expectations of sharing in the ore advance, but this was denied them and all other ore producers outside the Lake districts.

By adopting Birmingham and Pittsburgh as pig-iron basing points, advancing basic and foundry irons $1 a ton, and limiting the Pittsburgh basing to furnaces north of the Potomac and east of the Alleghanies, the Price-Fixing Committee relieved the pinch that has been on the smaller blast furnaces in Virginia, Tennessee and Eastern Pennsylvania. All basic and foundry iron furnaces get the benefit of the $1 advance. For Tennessee furnaces the advance ranges from $1.25 to $1.75. Virginia furnaces and those in Eastern Pennsylvania fare considerably better because of greater distance from the basing points.

The chief disappointment in the price decisions is that of the Class 3 steel companies, which buy basic pig iron in the market. They must now pay more for their raw material, while their urgent appeals of the past six months for higher prices on their finished product are still denied.

Most of the blast furnaces using Lake Superior ores really get only 50 cents advance out of the $1 added to basic and foundry iron prices, as the other half is taken up by the ore producer on all ore shipped after Oct. 1.

The Iron Age says that further purchases of motor trucks now considered by the Government will require 300,000 to 400,000 tons of iron and steel, an item which is said to furnish another sidelight on the increasing scale of the war program.

"Export procedure in steel may be simplied," declares this publication. "The War Trade Board will probably be allocated kinds and amounts of steel against which it will issue export permits. Only the shortage of material will interfere with general export trade, so greatly has vessel space been exceeding recent demands for it."

REAL ESTATE FIELD

An investing client of A. H. Levy bought from the Melton Realty Company, (the State Bank,) the two six-story tenements at 436 to 440 East Eighty-fifth Street, on a plot 75 by 102.2, near Avenue A.

The Bronx Market.

The Benenson Realty Company bought from a client of David Fox the two five-story apartment houses at 423 to 427 East 188th Street and 4,726 Park Avenue, occupying a plot 77 by 100 at the northeast corner of these thoroughfares. The properties have been held at $85,000.

John O'Leary, builder, bought from the I. & H. Construction Company the vacant plot, 100 by 100 feet, on the west side of Manida Street 125 feet north of Randall Avenue. J. Clarence Davies negotiated the sale.

Alexander Selkin and David Mintz, in conjunction with Paul Weber, sold for Frank Gass, Inc., the two three-story tenements, with stores, at 790 and 792 Courtlandt Avenue, on a plot 50 by 92.

Brooklyn.

Meister Builders, Inc., bought the two-family house at 1,583 East Twelfth Street, Flatbush, on a lot 20 by 100.

Long Term Third Street Lease.

Henry Lindenmeyr & Sons, paper manufacturers, leased from Mary M. Cowenhoven the four-story stables at 122 to 128 West Third Street, extending through to Minetta Lane, for a ten-year term. The buildings will be used for storage purposes.

Commercial Leases.

Walter J. Salmon leased the store at 47 West Forty-second Street, with connecting space on the floor above, to the Arthur Studios, for a term of years.

The Rowantree-Schley Co. leased for the Adams Land & Building Company, who were represented by E. S. Willard & Co., the store at 156 West Fourteenth Street, to the Compania Hispano-Americana, importers and publishers of Spanish books.

Huberth & Huberth leased the store and basement on the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, for the Hotel Woodward Company, to the Lee Tire & Rubber Co.

Ames & Co. leased for Sidney M. McDougall the building at 672 Second Avenue, to the New York Association For the Blind, for use as an annex to its industrial plant on East Thirty-fifth Street.

Fifty Per Cent. Increase in Leasing Commissions.

The Real Estate Board of the City of New York has decided to recommend to the Board of Governors that commissions on leases in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn be increased 50 per cent. over the existing scale. The Board of Governors will meet Oct. 8 and if it adopts the recommendation the new rates will become effective Nov. 1.

Realty Notes.

The annual meeting and election of officers and Directors of the Harlem Property Owners' Association has been called for this evening, at 147 East 125th Street.

INFLUENZA STILL SPREADS IN CITY

Health Authorities Get Reports of 172 New Cases in All the Boroughs.

QUEENS LEAST AFFECTED

Health Commissioner Sees No Likelihood That the Schools Will Be Closed as a Safeguard.

There were 172 new cases of Spanish influenza, including 36 soldiers, reported yesterday, 22 more than were reported the day before, and of those afflicted few were more than 37 years old. There was one case under 5 years old, 12 between the ages of 5 and 15, and all the others were between the ages of 20 and 40. There were four deaths reported, of which three were from broncho-pneumonia.

In all of the boroughs there were two men attacked by the disease to one woman. This was explained, Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland said, by the fact that more men than women are out and about, and therefore more likely to take the germs into their systems. Of the 172 cases reported yesterday 53 were from Manhattan, 28 from the Bronx, 67 from Brooklyn, 3 from Queens, and 19 from Richmond. In Manhattan 33 men and 22 women were afflicted; in the Bronx, 17 men and 11 women; in Brooklyn, 49 men and 18 women; in Queens, 2 men and 1 woman, and in Richmond, 11 men and 8 women.

That Queens should report the fewest cases of any of the boroughs was puzzling to the Health Commissioner and his associates and was not explained to their satisfaction on the theory that there is less congestion of population in that borough, because, on that theory, there should be many less cases in Richmond than were reported. In Manhattan the disease was not confined to any one district. If any districts were more afflicted than others they were Washington Heights and the upper and lower east side.

To Dr. William H. Park, Director of the Bureau of Laboratories, Commissioner Copeland has intrusted the task of studying the germ and finding, if possible, a vaccine virus. Dr. Park already has found the influenza bacillus in the throats of 85 per cent. of the patients examined, but he is not at all sure, as yet, that the first infection was from the influenza germ. In the cases where pneumonia developed, the disease seems to have been produced by the pus producing streptococci.

"Whenever we find streptococci," said the commissioner, "we know that we have trouble ahead of us. In affections of the ear, for instance, if examination discloses the presence of streptococci, then we may expect mastoiditis, or some other dangerous condition. So, now that we have found the streptococci in these influenza cases, we know that we have a serious and dangerous situation to cope with. Therefore, I want to urge, just as strongly as I can, the necessity of taking every preventive measure possible to keep influenza out of the homes."

The physicians of the city, the commissioner added, were co-operating splendidly with the health authorities and were reporting influenza cases as fast as they were discovered. The department would issue, he said, in the latter part of the week, to the medical men of the city, circulars in which would be given all the information about the disease which had been obtained. The commissioner was asked if there was any likelihood that the schools would be closed, as had been the case elsewhere.

"None whatever," he replied. "I have a little boy 9 years old and he goes to school every day. All of our teachers work under rules of the Department and the children are much better off in school than they are playing about the streets, as they would be if the schools were closed."

In spite of the increase in the number of influenza cases the general health of the city is much better than it was last year, and the general health chart shows that New York is much healthier today than at any time in the average five-year period preceding. All told, forty cases of pneumonia were reported from all five boroughs yesterday, and of these four were influenza cases, three in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn. In the week ended Sept. 21 there were thirty-one deaths from pneumonia, as compared with fifty-eight for the corresponding week a year ago.

The Norwegian steamship Bergensfjord arrived at an American port yesterday with 650 passengers aboard, among whom were twenty-five cases of influenza, but none of pneumonia. The passengers were detained and the ship fumigated.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been ill of pneumonia, following influenza, at the home of his mother Mrs. James Roosevelt, 47 East Sixty-fifth Street, ever since he returned from France a few days ago, is regaining his health rapidly and expects to be out in a few days.

INFLUENZA IN 26 STATES.

Federal Officials Confer on Plans to Help Local Committees.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Spanish influenza has spread over the country so rapidly that officials of the Public Health Service, the War and Navy Departments, and the Red Cross conferred today on measures to help local communities in combating the disease. Calls for assistance have been received from several cities and in one instance, Wilmington, N. C., the Public Health Service hospital was opened for treatment of persons suffering from the disease.

Surgeon General Rupert Blue, of the Public Health Service, said tonight that latest reports showed that the malady had made its appearance in twenty-six States from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The disease is epidemic in New England, where it first made its appearance, and officials there are considering drastic steps to curb its spread including the prevention of public gatherings.

Influenza has appeared on the Pacific Coast, in Washington and California, but is not yet epidemic there. It also has been reported in Minnesota and Iowa, but with few cases. East of the Mississippi, however, there are few States where it has not been found.

The disease continued to spread today in army camps, 5,324 new cases being reported to the office of the Surgeon General of the Army up to noon. No new camps were added to the list, and it was announced that there were fifteen camps and stations free from influenza.

The total reported from the camps today was the largest in any one day, and brought the total for all camps to 29,002 cases. The number of pneumonia cases reported among the soldiers since the outbreak of the influenza epidemic on Sept. 13, is 2,513, and the number of deaths since that date is 530, with 155 reported today.

For the first time since the outbreak the number of new cases reported from Camp Devens, Massachusetts, was lower than the number reported from another camp. The new cases at Camp Devens numbered 390, making the total 11,715. Hoboken reported the greatest number, 1,025. This, however, included several camps and depots.

Camp Dix, New Jersey, reported 803 new cases, the largest of any single camp, while Camp Lee, Virginia, had 393 new cases. Other camps reporting new cases were Logan, Texas, 205; Sevier, South Carolina, 100; Syracuse, New York, 149; Funston, Kansas, 135; Gordon, Georgia, 213; Grant, Illinois, 293; Humphrey, Virginia, 106; Jackson, South Carolina, 268; Lewis, Washington, 24; Meade, Maryland, 208; Pike, Arkansas, 289; Taylor, Kentucky, 43; Upton, New York, 101, and miscellaneous camps and posts, 551. Other camps reported from one to four new cases.

At Camp Devens 342 new cases of pneumonia were reported today with 72 deaths. Camp Dix reported 41 new cases of pneumonia, and Camp Lee 39. Pneumonia cases also were reported by twenty-three other camps.

MASSACHUSETTS SEEKS AID.

Calls on the Red Cross for Nurses to Fight Influenza Epidemic.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Massachusetts, the centre of the influenza epidemic in the East, today began a concerted effort to stamp out the disease. The Executive Council in special session set aside a fund of $100,000, and Acting Governor Coolidge immediately created the Emergency Public Health Committee.

The first step taken by this committee was to call on the American Red Cross at Washington for physicians and nurses to take the places of those who have died or who have become exhausted by their arduous work. The committee then sent out a state-wide request for the temporary closing of all theatres, motion picture houses and other places of public gathering, except churches. Cancellation of all parades planned for the immediate future was included in the request.

In this city all agencies available for preventing the spread of the disease and relieving sufferers were merged at a conference in the City Hall, called by Mayor Andrew J. Peters. A special Health Committee of Five was appointed to take full supervision of all preventive work. Henry B. Endicott, Chairman of the State Emergency Committee, brought the committee's request for the closing of places of public gathering. At the suggestion of the City Committee Mayor Peters issued a call to all theatre and motion picture house proprietors and managers here to meet the committee at City Hall tomorrow morning, when a decision regarding the closing of their places will be made. Meanwhile, Health Commissioner W. C. Woodward, a member of the City Committee, sent a squad of Inspectors to the theatres.

A suggestion that met with considerable favor by the City Health Committee was that the 3,000 school teachers in this city be asked to volunteer as assistant nurses. The Women's Health Committee of the Council of National Defense offered to enroll all teachers who were willing to undertake this service.

The State Health Committee tonight recommended that specialists, who could temporarily give up their practice, should register with the State Health Commissioner for service against the influenza epidemic.

Action designed to assist in stamping out the disease was taken by the New England Fuel Administrator. In accordance with the request of Dr. Eugene R. Kelley, State Commissioner of Health, Mr. Storrow advised all local fuel committees and householders throughout the State that on account of the prevailing epidemic the moderate use of coal for heat in dwelling houses, apartment houses and office buildings was permissible.

It was estimated that there were from 50,000 to 75,000 cases of influenza and pneumonia in New England. There have been more than 1,000 deaths in the New England States in ten days. There were 107 deaths from influenza and pneumonia in Boston for the twenty-four hours ended at 10 o'clock tonight, a decrease of two from yesterday. Deaths from the disease in this city since Sept. 14 have totaled 697.

Schools, theatres and other places of public assembly were closed today in many New England cities and towns. In some cities public funerals have been forbidden.

Rear Admiral Spencer S. D. Wood, commandant of the First Naval District, was among those stricken today, and is confined to his home.

Influenza conditions among sailors of the First and Second Districts showed improvement today. There were only three deaths and sixty new cases in the First District, and thirteen deaths and sixty-four new cases in the Second District.

Get Your GAS HEATERS at Once

"We ask that you refrain from using coal in furnaces or stoves, entirely at least until the first of November and longer if possible, using wood or Gas when a fire is necessary."—Request of the National Retail Coal Merchants.

Compliance with that request bespeaks an unusual demand for Gas Heating Appliances during the next few weeks. To meet just such an emergency we placed our orders for Gas Heaters and Gas Steam Radiators months ago.

While our assortment is large, take advantage of our foresight and buy your Gas Heater or Gas Radiator now. The future is full of "question marks" so far as quantities and deliveries are concerned, even though we were to place orders with manufacturers to-day. For the conservation of metal, the manufacturers have promised the United States War Industries Board to cut production in half.

Our Gas Heaters are of the highest standard of make—efficient and economical in the use of Gas. The tubing that accompanies the Heaters is absolutely odorless. We handle only the highest type of flexible tubing. The rubber ends—gaskets—are threaded so that the tubing can be detached only by unusual effort.

Call at any Manhattan or Bronx Gas Office, where the merits of this tubing will gladly be explained, as well as the operation and capabilities of our various sizes and types of Gas Heaters and Gas Radiators.

VOGUE

$2 Invested in Vogue

a tiny fraction of your loss on one ill-chosen gown

Will Save You $200

This year, above all others, when extravagance and waste are to be avoided, you should have Vogue at hand. For, now every woman must devote even more than her customary care to the selection of her wardrobe, so that not one hat, gown or wrap may remain unworn and its price wasted.

The gown you buy and never wear is the really expensive gown. Gloves, boots, hats, that miss being exactly what you want, are the ones that cost you more than you can afford.

VOGUE suggests that before you spend a single penny on new clothes, before you even plan your wardrobe, you consult its great Autumn and Winter Fashion numbers.

THESE ARE THE 9 NUMBERS OF VOGUE WHICH YOU WILL RECEIVE FOR $2

War Time Modes and Autumn Patterns — October 1
First aid to the fashionable woman of not unlimited means who wishes to curtail her expenses without in the least sacrificing smartness.

Paris Openings — October 15
The combined fashion exhibits of Paris, sketched and described by Vogue's own artists.

Winter Fashions — November 1
Showing the mode in its Winter culmination; hats, furs, frocks, accessories; what is worn and who wears it.

Early Christmas Shopping — November 15
Special advance showing of Christmas gifts, enabling you to do your shopping early and obey Washington.

Christmas Gifts Number — Dec. 1
Hundreds of gifts of distinction, practical in character; good in value; actually purchasable.

Holiday Number — December 15
Decorations for the Christmas house and Christmas table; diversions for the holidays.

Lingerie Number — January 1
Fine linens for household and personal use; their choice, marking and care.

Motor and Southern Number — January 15
Everything new in the motor world; where to go and what to wear in the South.

Forecast of Spring Fashions — February 1
The first authentic Spring styles—the trend of the mode—fully illustrated.

Spring Millinery — February 15
The loveliest of the Paris models, the smartest of the New York designs; veils, coiffures, accessories.

In the next few months, during the very period in which Vogue's special Fashion Numbers appear, you will be selecting your entire wardrobe for the coming Autumn and Winter, and spending hundreds of dollars for the suits, hats, gowns and accessories that you select.

Consider then, that for $2, a tiny fraction of your loss on one ill-chosen hat or gown, you may secure ten issues of Vogue—an assurance of valuable and new ideas and an insurance against costly failures.
